AN ANNUAL PUBLISHED BY THE JUNIOR CLASS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING ::

EDITORS

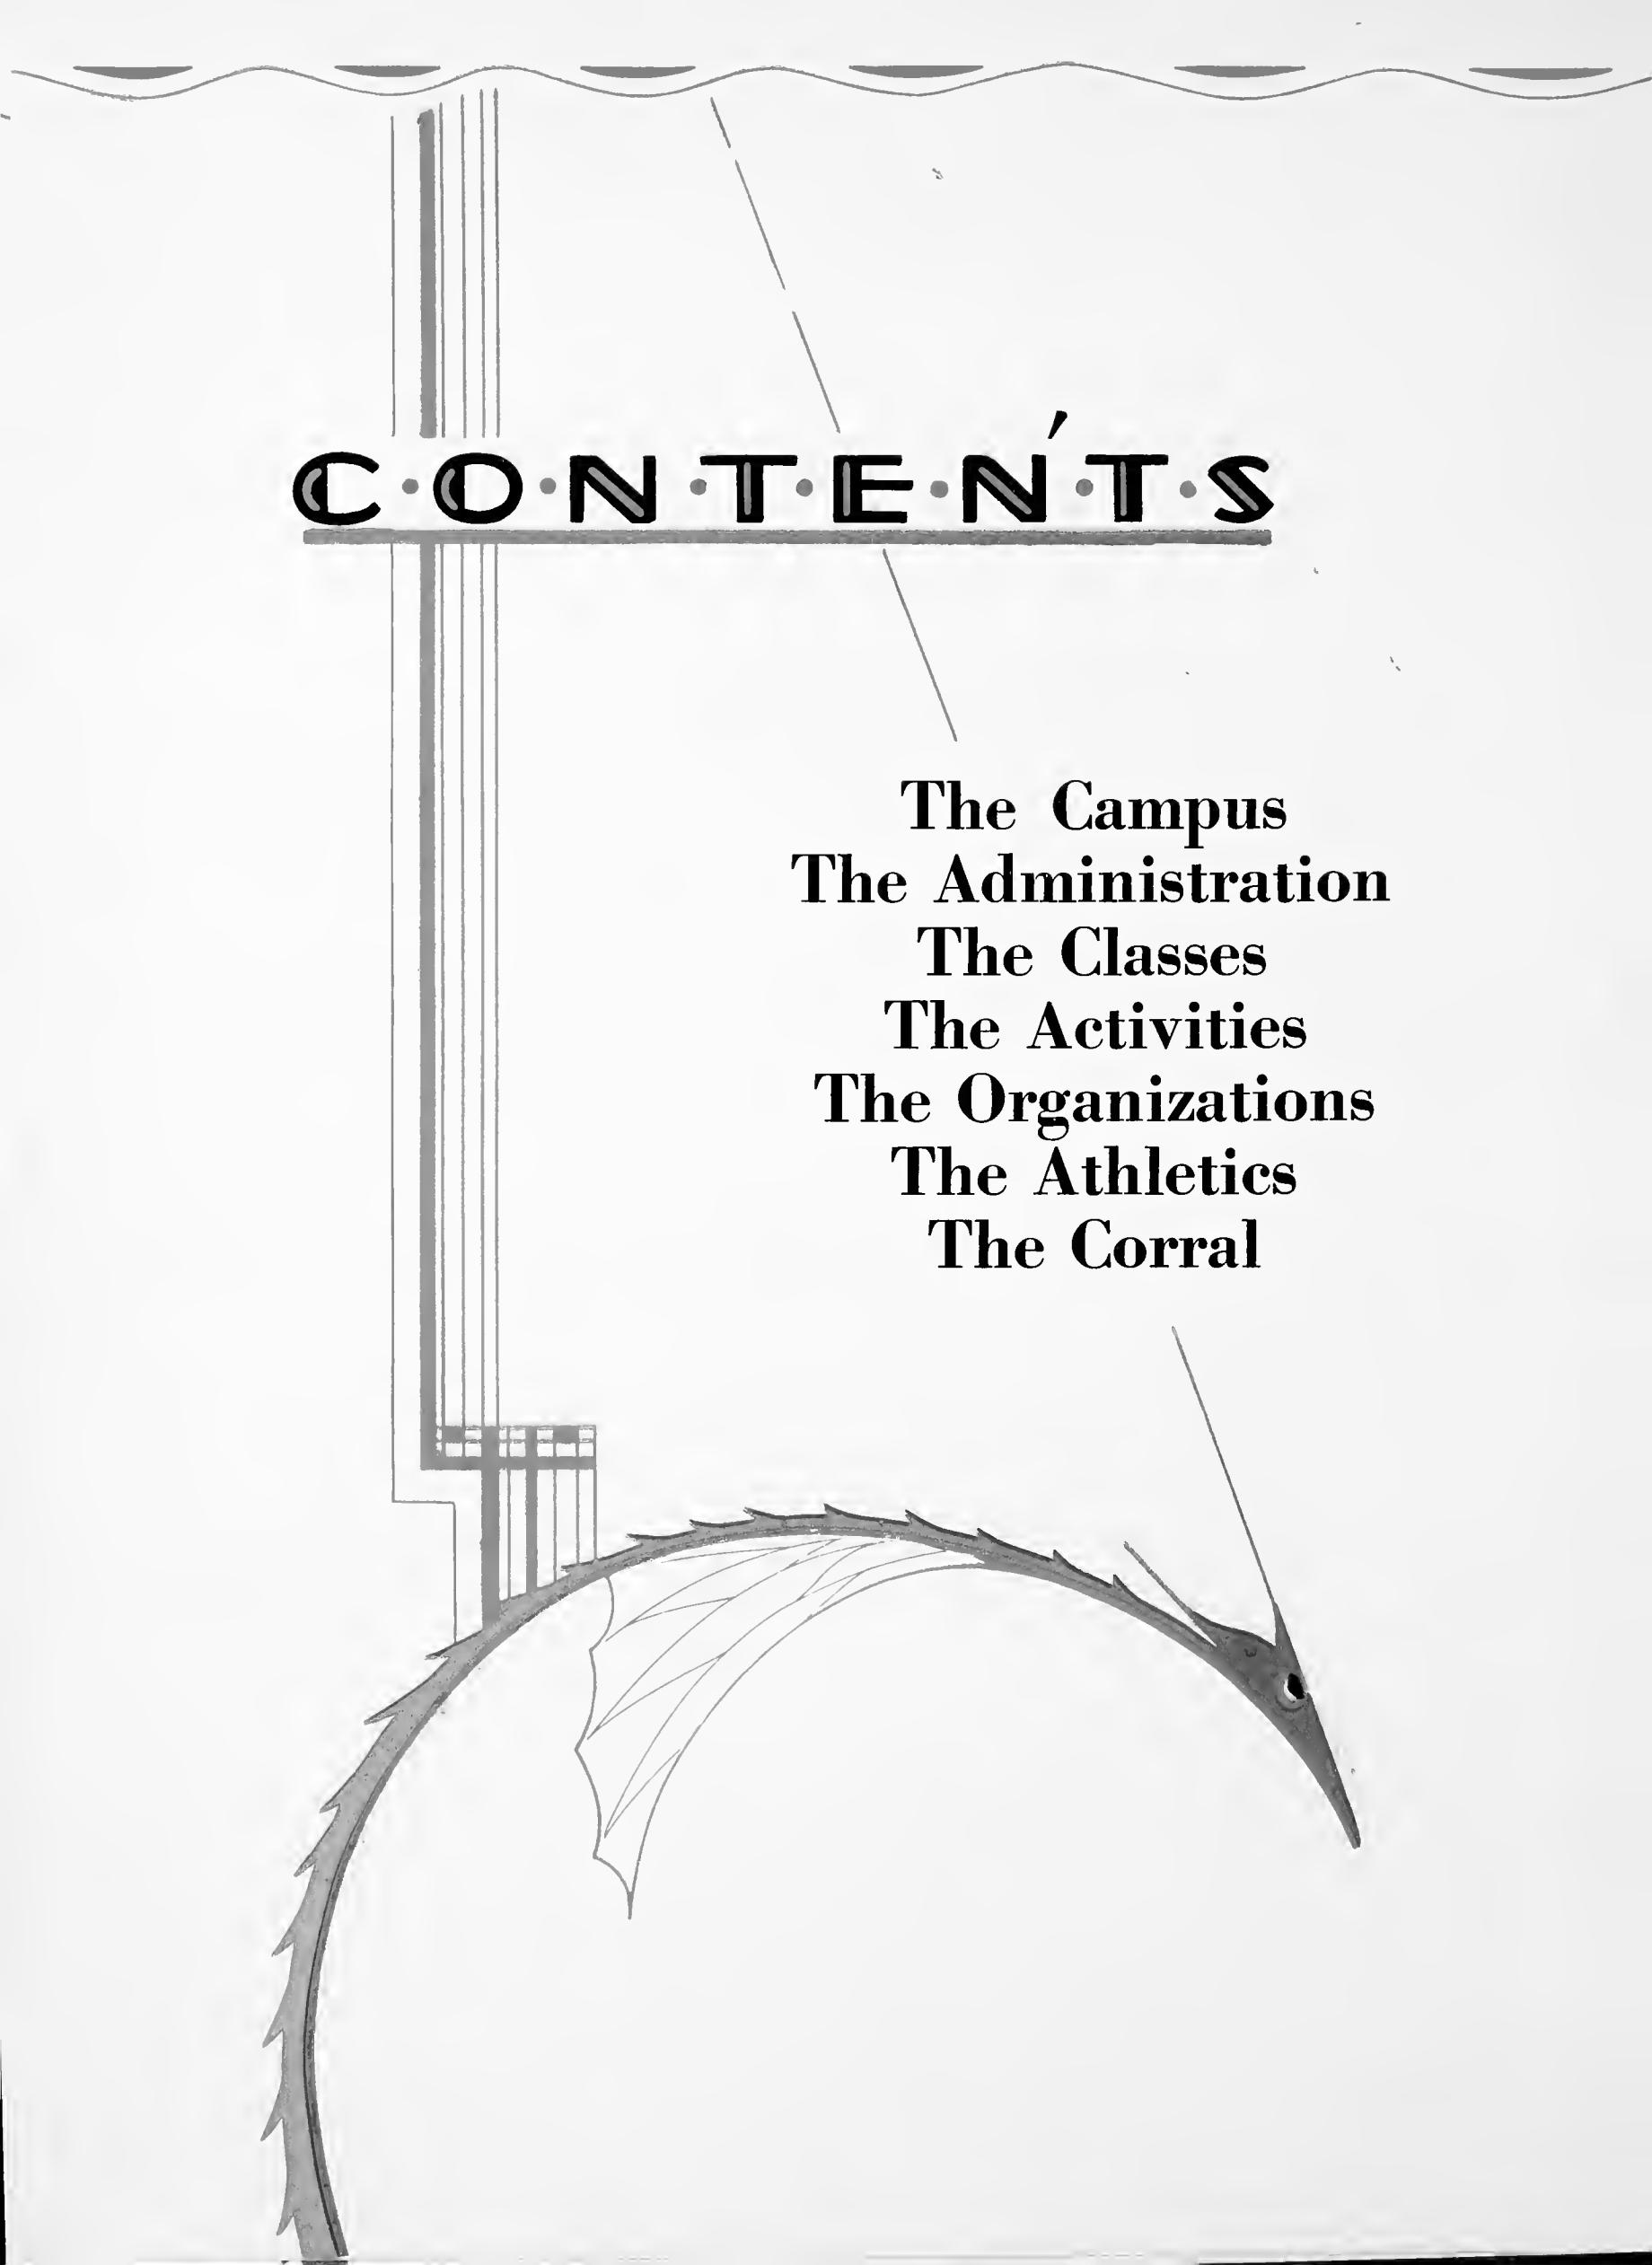

The 1931 WYO is presented with the hope that it will be a permanent word and picture record of the year 1930-1931 on the University of Wyoming campus. No attempt has been made to delve into the past, or predict the future, the entire effort being directed toward producing a memory book of student days at this institution.

P·R·E·F·A·C·E

To attempt to give a complete picture of life at the University of Wyoming for one year is indeed a tremendous task. If those who have worked to make this book possible have caught a glimpse of its activities and personalities, and have incorporated a trace of the glorious spirit of the West, then the 1931 WYO has attained its objective.

Old Main, the birthplace of the University of Wyoming, was built in 1885, and for many years contained the entire University. The campus has now expanded until it contains nearly a score of buildings and covers about 100 acres, but Old Main still remains the heart of the University, housing the administrative offices, the Division of Commerce, and many Liberal Arts departments.

OLD MAIN

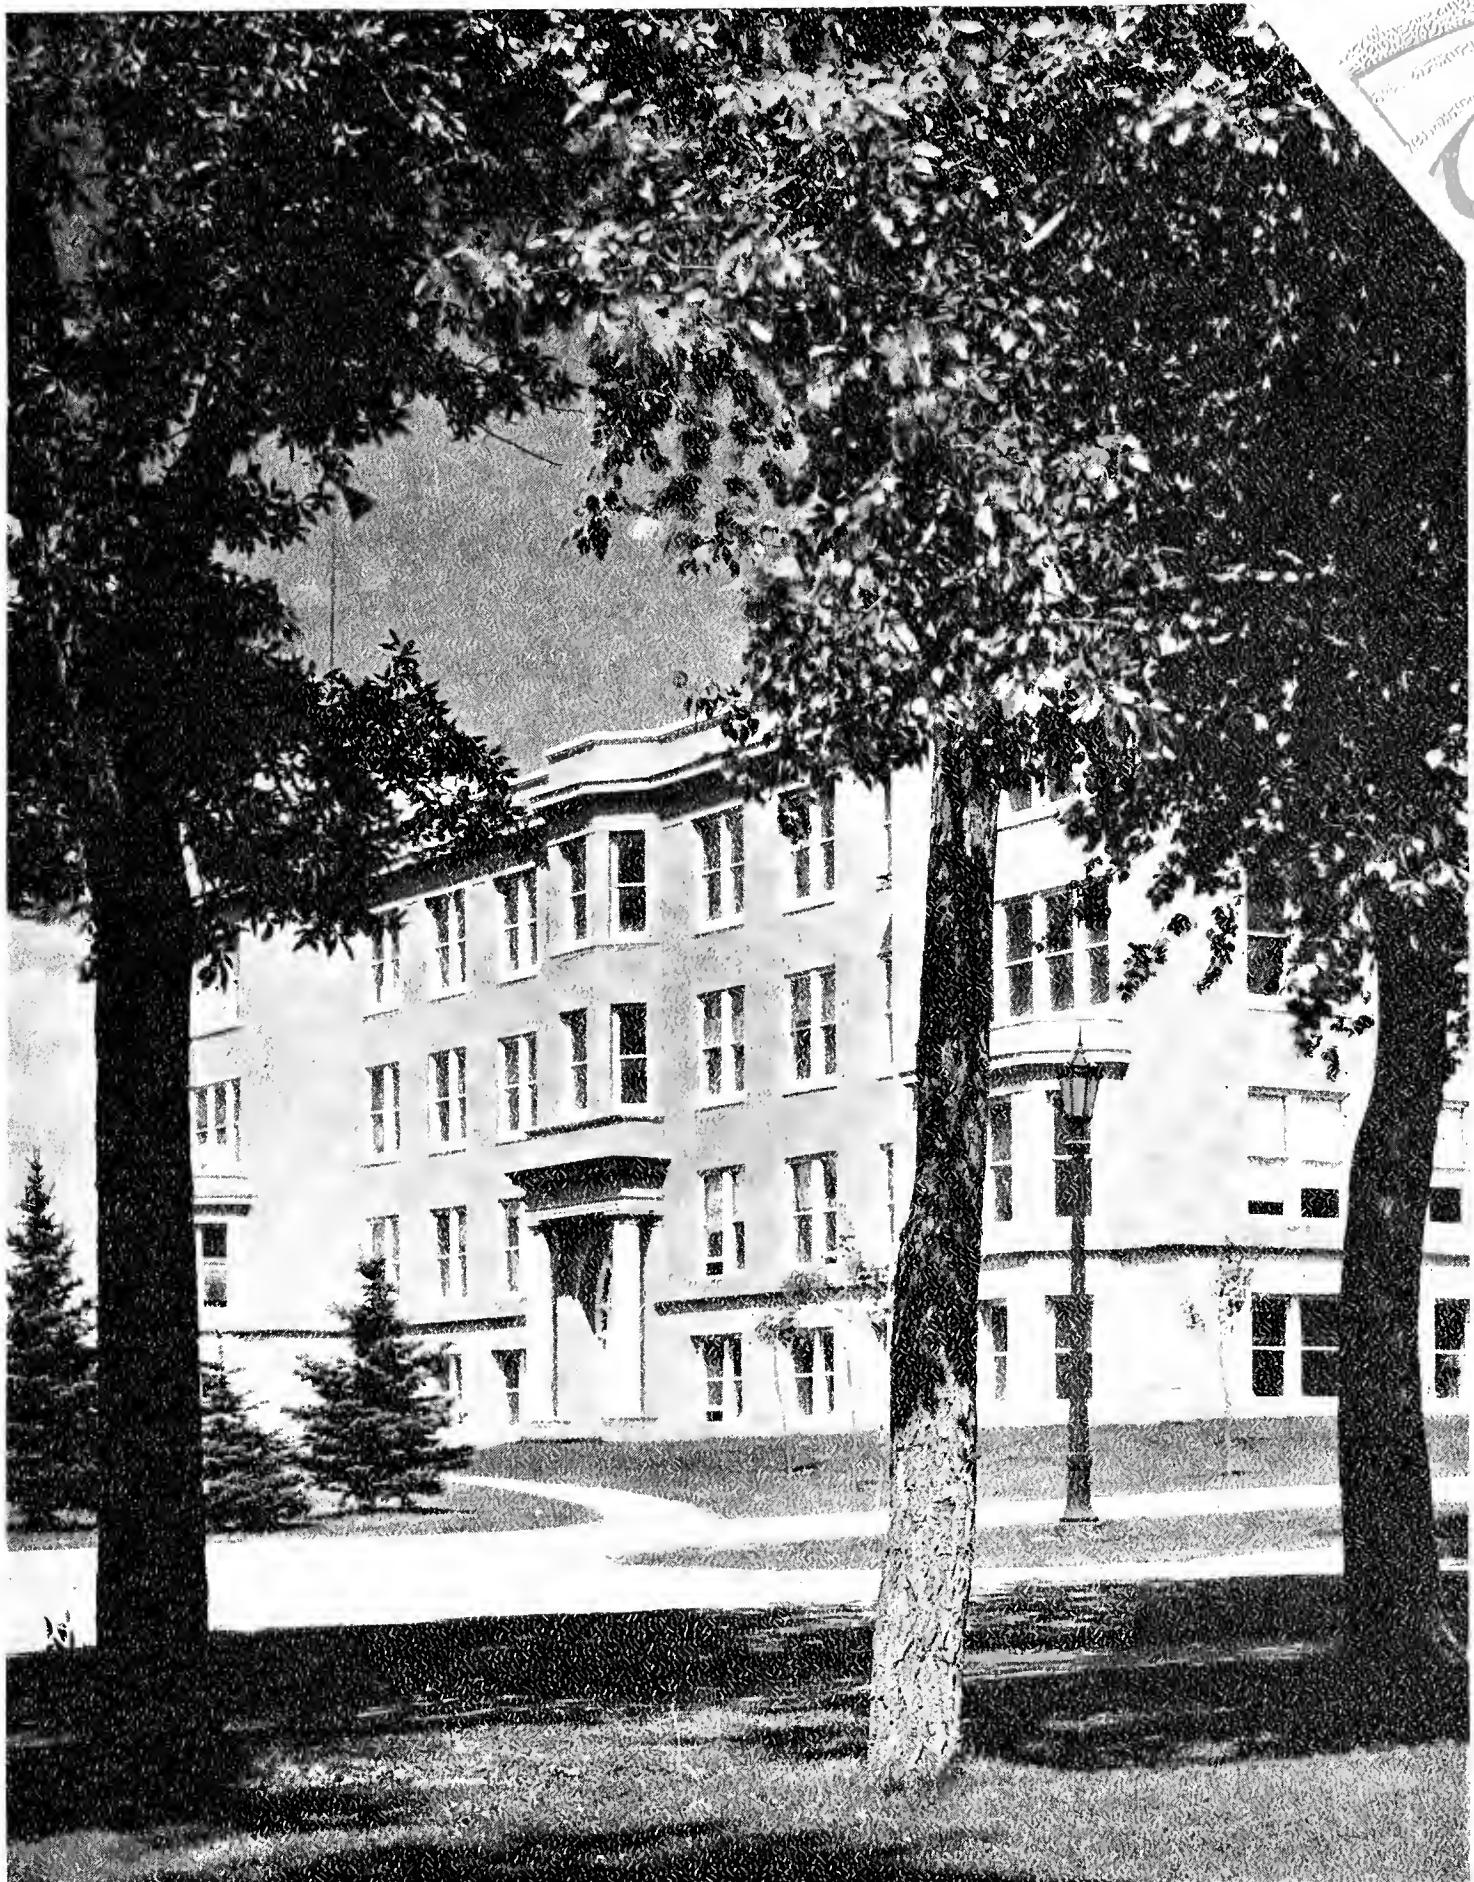

The University Library, the first of the “new” buildings, was erected in 1922, and contains the Law School as well as the Library. Said by a national committee of architects to be one of the thirteen most beautiful college libraries in the country, it is one of the campus show places.

Agricultural Hall is one of the bee hives of the University. Built in 1912, its services to the state have caused it to expand until it scarcely is able to house all its activities. In addition to the regular resident College of Agriculture, the many state experiment farms and county agent offices are administered from here, and important researches carried on.

Engineering Hall, constructed in 1922, is an architectural triumph. One of the most strikingly beautiful college buildings in the West, it faces the sun with all the splendor of an Aztec temple. It houses the classrooms of the College of Engineering, and is connected directly with the Engineering Shops.

The Gymnasium, completed in 1923, is the largest west of the Mississippi, and the Cowboy pride. With its famous half-acre playing floor, 100-foot swimming pool, dirt floor armory with running track, smaller gymnasiums, rifle range, and complete offices and classrooms for the Physical Education Departments, Military Department, as well as Athletic Administration, it forms a superb athletic plant.

Merica Hall, dormitory for freshman girls, was built in 1909, and was first known as Women's Hall. It was later named for Charles O. Merica, who was president of the University at the time the hall was built. When first constructed, it easily housed all the women enrolled in school; now it houses but a part of the freshman girls.

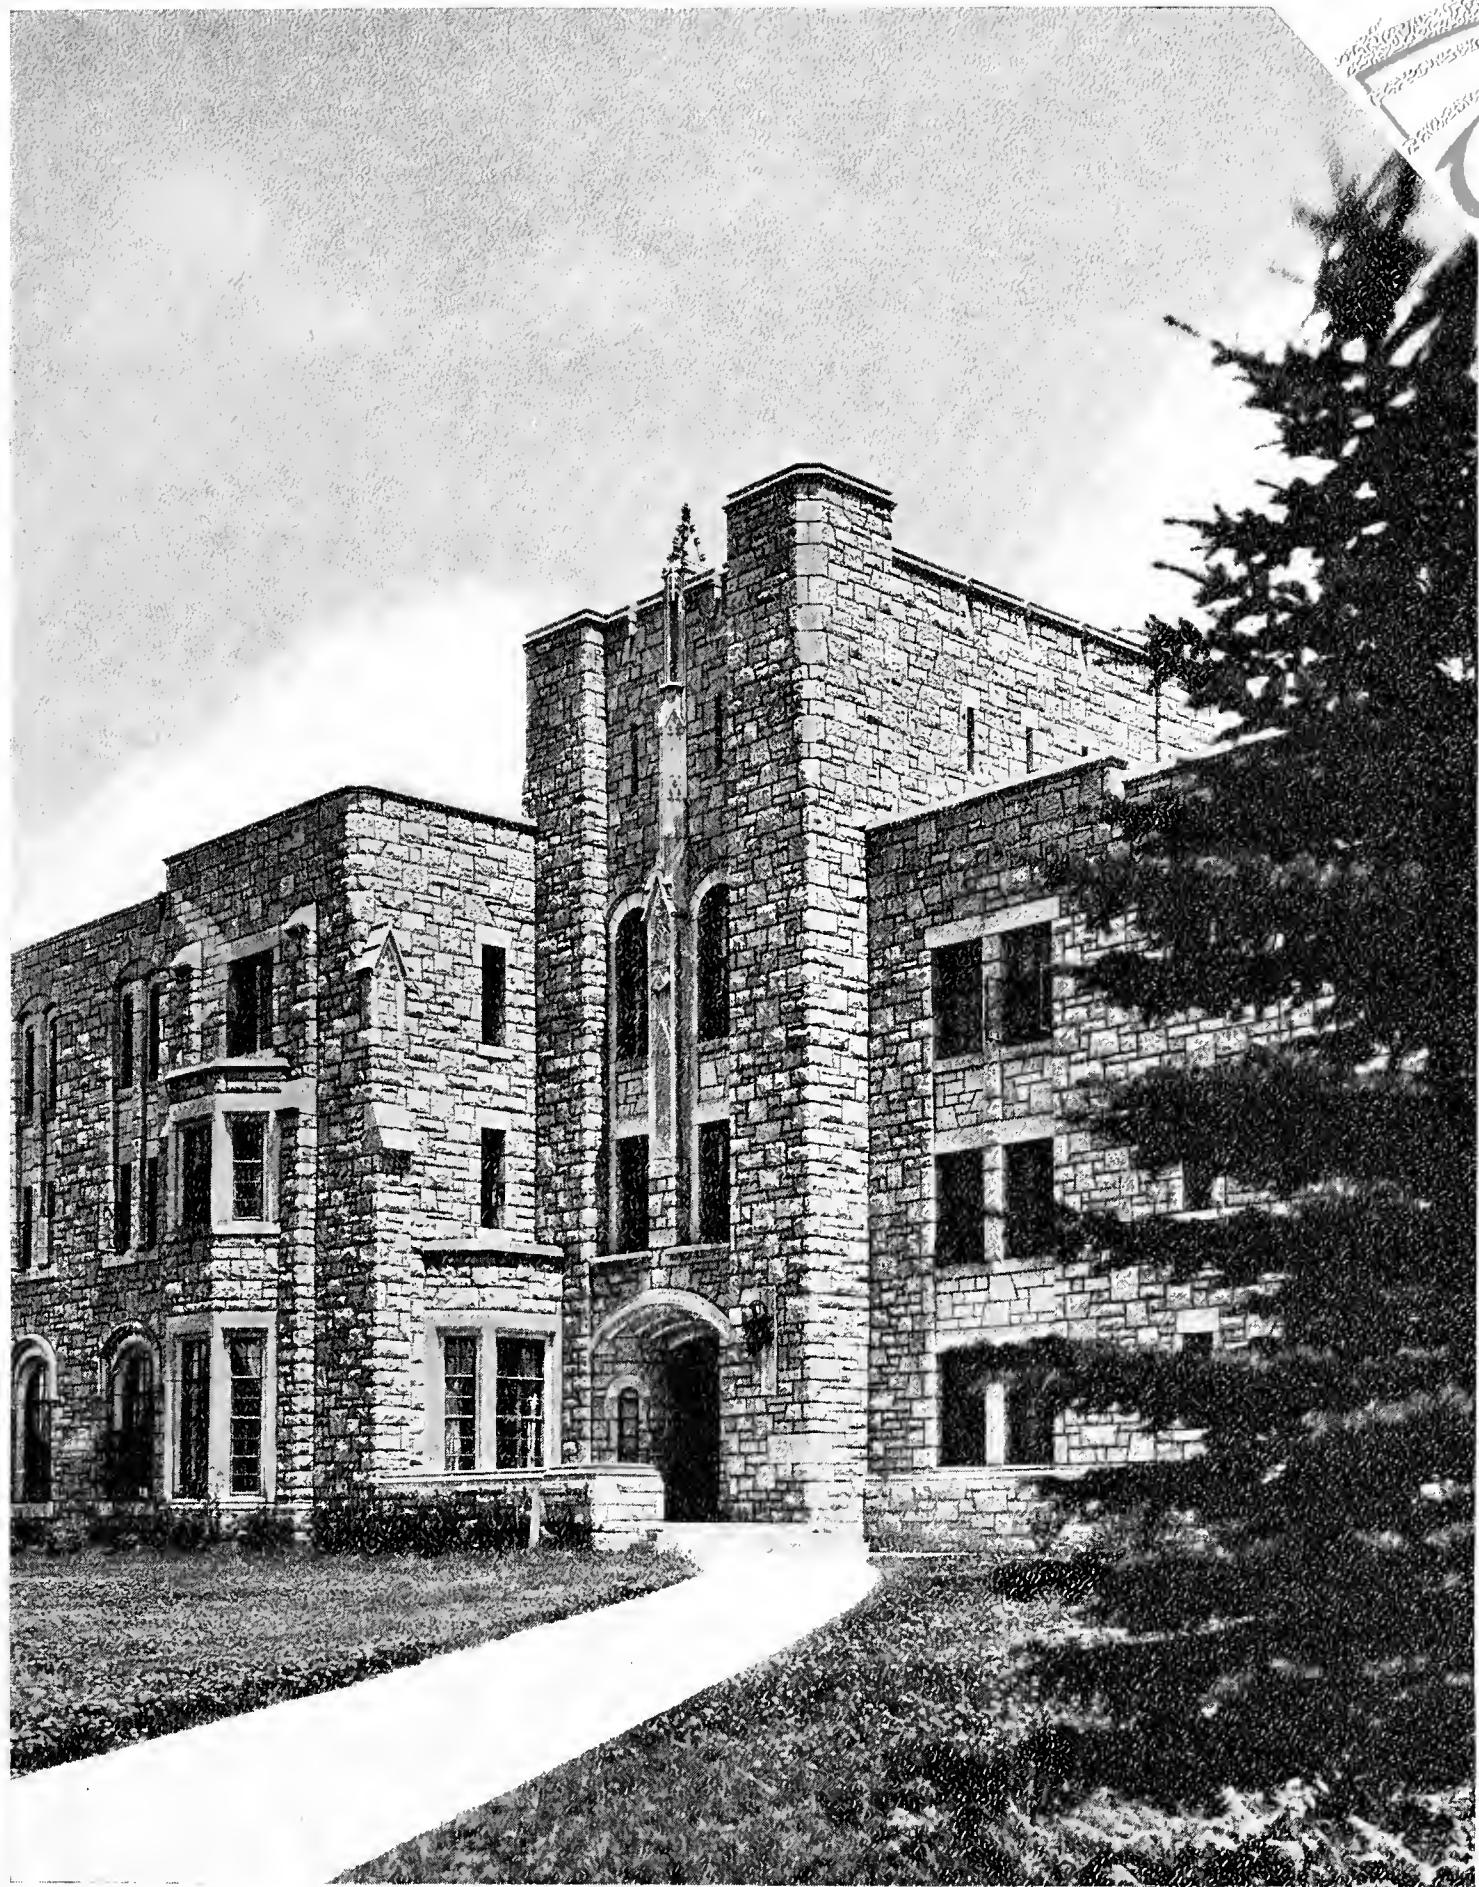

MERICA HALL

Hoyt Hall, dormitory primarily for upper class women, was erected in 1915 and later enlarged to its present size. It was named for John W. Hoyt, who was the first president of the University when founded in 1885.

HOYT HALL

The Men's Residence Hall, the newest building on the campus, represents an unusual service in state supported institutions. It was first occupied in 1928, and is intended primarily for freshman men.

FACULTY ADMINISTRATION

Standing—W. C. Bond, F. W. Geddes, J. M. Schwoob, President Crane, Fay E. Smith, W. M. Lynn, F. A. Holliday, J. A. Elliot.

Seated—P. J. Quealy, deceased; Governor Emerson, deceased; E. O. Fuller, Harriet Grieve, Mabelle G. Oviatt.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

A BOARD of nine trustees appointed by the Governor, not more than three of whom may be residents of any one county of the state, together with the Governor, the President of the University and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, as members ex-officio, constitutes the government of the University. The appointed trustees serve a term of six years.

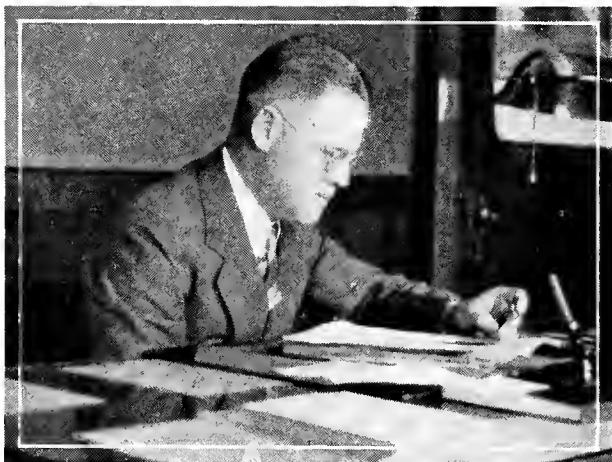

The board had the misfortune to lose two of its most valued members this year through the death of Patrick J. Quealy and Governor Frank Emerson.

Mrs. Katherine A. Morton, who is State Superintendent of Public instruction, Governor Clark and President Crane are the ex-officio members. The other members are Joseph A. Elliott, Fred Geddes, Frank Holliday, Harriet T. Grieve, William M. Lynn, Wallace C. Bond, Mabelle O. Oviatt, Mary Scott Embree and N. Dwight Morgan. The officers are William M. Lynn, president; Joseph A. Elliott, vice-president; Fred W. Geddes, treasurer; Floyd T. Heathman, deputy treasurer; Fay E. Smith, secretary, and E. O. Fuller, fiscal agent.

THE PRESIDENT

ARTHUR GRISWOLD CRANE, PH. D. (Columbia)
President of the University of Wyoming.

REGISTRAR

RALPH E. McWHINNIE, B. A.
Registrar

THE work of the Registrar has changed from that of a bookkeeper to historian. He is at present one of the most important of administrative officers of the University. He comes in contact with probably more students than any other official.

In former days the Registrar's office was one merely of figures, statistics, and records. Today, his files disclose the university life history of the student. Not only are the grades shown but also every activity he entered into in his college career, in fact, everything of importance and interest concerning him is preserved for a permanent record of his university life in the files of the Registrar's office.

With the increase of the number of details to be recorded, and the steady increase in size of the student body, the personnel of the Registrar's office has increased until it is now several times the size of its original force. With its increase in size and amount of work has come a proportionate increase in importance and utility, until it is one of the most efficient and useful branches of the administration.

LIBRARIAN

MARY E. MARKS, B. L. S.
Librarian

Of all the departments of the University, it is probably the library which the greatest number of students learn to know, for not many reach graduation day without having, willingly or unwillingly, formed some connection with it.

The present library building was first occupied in 1923, and previous to that the library was housed in various rooms in University Hall, its last location there being in the rooms now occupied by the Division of Commerce.

From its beginning the library has enjoyed a steady growth and the book collection now numbers about 80,000 volumes, in addition to 12,000 Government documents, which constitute a very valuable part of the reference resources of the library, and 10,000 pamphlets of interest on many subjects.

It is interesting to note that three of the four former librarians are on the campus at the present time: Dr. Aven Nelson, whose term as librarian extended from 1887-91, Dean Justus F. Soule from 1891-94, and Dr. Grace Raymond Hebard from 1894-1919.

A University of Wyoming catalog for 1891-92 states: "Books reserved at the instance of the officers of instruction, as collateral reading for their courses are shelved in their respective rooms, and can be taken out only on application to such officers, who are responsible for them during the period of their reservation." Now as many as 900 reserve books are borrowed at the loan desk in the course of one day.

For the fiscal year 1929-30 there were 58,110 books loaned for use outside of the library. The reserve book circulation for the same period is something over 300,000, making an approximate total of 358,110 books loaned during one year.

DEAN OF WOMEN

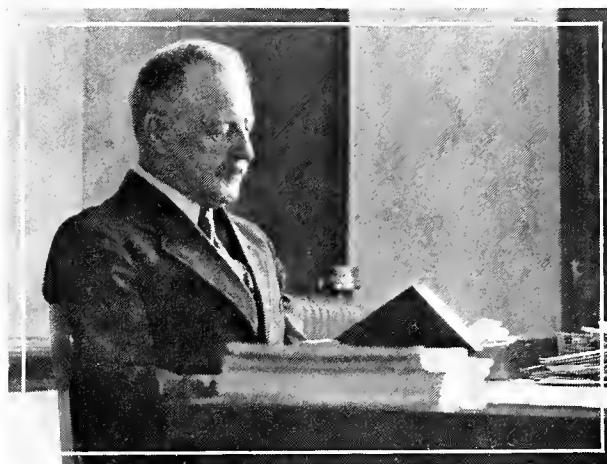

HELEN C. DUNNEWALD, M. A.
Dean of Women

APPROXIMATELY six hundred women are registered in the University this year. The Dean of Women and her assistants attend to their needs and aid them in their adjustment to the college environment and college demands. The Dean co-ordinates their various academic and social interests, supplies a constant factor in the changing student group and serves as adviser and counsellor to groups and to individuals.

The training received in the intra- and extra-curricular activities should prepare the student for proper college citizenship and for the larger and more effective citizenship in after-college life. The attitude toward opinions, traditions, and principles of the college world may determine one's attitude toward life in general. To adjust the student to the college environment successfully, guidance is necessary.

On the Dean of Women's staff are Miss E. Luella Galliver, assistant Dean of Women and director of Merica Hall; Mrs. L. P. Gage, director of Hoyt Hall; Miss Maurine Hollo, assistant to the director of Merica Hall; Miss Sara Trousdale, assistant to the director of Hoyt Hall; Mrs. O. Balensiefer, chaperon, Pi Omega; Mrs. Atha Brinker, manager, Brinker House; Mrs. Lucy G. Green, chaperon, Delta Delta Delta; Mrs. T. L. Lockhart, chaperon, Kappa Delta; Mrs. J. R. Mauck, chaperon, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Miss Greta Neubauer, chaperon, Alpha Chi Omega; and Miss Bertha White, chaperon, Pi Beta Phi.

DEAN OF MEN

JUSTUS F. SOULE, M. A.

Dean of Men

THE duties of the Dean of Men are many, and vary with the organization and growth of the University. In general they may be summarized by saying that he is the counsellor of the men on any and every matter regarding which they should come to him for consultation and advice. Such matters may be choice of college or department, place of residence, plans for future work, finance, and questions of personal conduct and behavior. The Dean is ever ready to listen to the student who has a real or apparent problem, and to give his best effort toward the solution. There should exist therefore the utmost frankness between student and Dean.

Where the work of the Dean of Men is most fully developed, the office has been found to be one of great value both to the student and the University. In such institutions the Dean has in his files the High School record of the student, and all other information needed for an understanding of him and his problems. He is thus prepared to help the student quickly to adjust himself to the new circumstances in which he finds himself. In this office also the personnel work is carried on, and opportunities awaiting the student upon graduation are kept on file.

The Dean then is the officer of the University who understands the student and his problems and endeavors to give him sympathetic friendship and counsel.

LIBERAL ARTS

P. T. MILLER, M. A.
Dean of the College of Liberal Arts

THE College of Liberal Arts was the first college on the campus, opening in the fall of 1887. At that time there was just one class, that of freshman. A new class entered each succeeding year, and in June, 1891, the first class was graduated. Each following commencement has seen a goodly number of students from the College of Liberal Arts.

At first there were few departments and presented curricula, but with the increasing financial resources new departments were added and the curricula enriched and made largely elective. At the present time there are thirteen major departments that offer courses sufficiently diversified to meet the needs of a thousand students, and that have an adequate instructional force to teach these courses.

In addition to the departments mentioned there has been added to the College of Liberal Arts, a Division of Commerce, and a Division of Music. Both of these divisions lead to degrees and are prepared to give the adequate opportunities to students who seek preparation for careers in business or music. The College also offers work in preparation for the later study of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Law, as well as a course in Nursing, which leads to a Nurse's Diploma.

The College of Liberal Arts is the center about which the University has been built. It is, and will continue to be, the college that offers the broad education sought by students who can defer, for a time, professional training. Its function is so to reveal the various aspects of all phases of civilization that the student may have an intelligent basis for the understanding of the problems of life and such balance of mind as to enable him rightly to interpret them, and at the same time to give the student that cultivation that shall enable him to devote his leisure to the pursuit of happiness.

COMMERCE

E. DEANE HUNTON, M. B. A.

Head of the Division of Commerce

THE Commerce Department of the University of Wyoming was created at the December meeting of the Board of Trustees, 1898. It was called the Wyoming State School of Commerce. Professor D. C. Royer was elected as instructor to begin work the first of July, 1899. The offerings of the school consisted of two years in the department of bookkeeping and business practice and two years in the department of shorthand.

The work offered in Commerce has expanded and the enrollment increased steadily until the present time. In 1920 the full four year course was established, with the degree of Bachelor of Commercial Science being offered. It operated thus until 1929 when the degree awarded was that of Bachelor of Science.

The increasing demand for business training in the University gave rise to the need of establishing graduate work. In the year 1928 the Committee on Graduate Study authorized the presentation of a sufficient amount of graduate study to lead to the degree of Master in Business Administration.

The enrollment for the year 1930-1931 slightly exceeds 300. The Division of Commerce is training its young men and young women along three distinct lines. There is offered a regular four year course of training for those who propose to become Certified Public Accountants, Consulting Accountants, or Corporation Accountants. One of the popular courses is that of the Secretarial, designed for the purpose of training those who wish to become private secretaries with a sufficiently broad training to assume managerial and administrative responsibilities. The course in Business Administration is designed to give a broader general training to those who contemplate entering the business world. All three branches of the work are well attended.

The present staff of the division consists of highly trained specialists in the various fields of Finance, Statistics, Business Law, Accounting, and Secretarial work. With the continued growth which the division has enjoyed in the past it is hoped soon to have constituted a School of Business Administration, unsurpassed in high standards of training and one of the best in the Rocky Mountain region.

MUSIC

GEORGE EDWIN KNAPP
Director of the Division of Music

THE first mention of Music in the University catalog was in 1889: "Professor Henry Merz, Instructor of Music." In 1891, a School of Music was established by Mrs. Ida Arabella Grant, which was a private enterprise rather than a department of the University. From this beginning the department has grown to the present faculty of seven. Some names prominent in its history are: Mary Slavens Clark, 1902-09; Dean Arnold G. H. Bode, in charge of the Episcopal Cathedral Parish as well as of Music at the University, 1910-12; Eva Meek, 1910-16. Others could be mentioned who have made valuable contributions to music instruction in this institution.

In 1926 the four year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Music was revised and made standard with the requirements of leading colleges of Music in the country. Compared with the enrollment of the University, only a small number of students major in Music, but many students in other departments take advantage of the opportunity to earn elective credit in Applied and Theoretical Music subjects. Last year the average enrollment per term of all Music students was about one hundred seventy-five.

The Music organizations consist of the R. O. T. C. Band of about fifty, the University Orchestra of about forty, the University Chorus of about one hundred, and the Women's Glee Club of about forty. The Wharton Violin Quartet, organized and conducted by Daisy Wharton, a unique organization performing music of the highest type, is much in demand. Extension classes in Voice, Part Singing, Music Appreciation and Public School Music have been conducted in different towns of the state during the last six years.

LAW

CHARLES H. KINNANE, B. S., LL. B., J. S. D.
Dean of the Law School

JN the year of 1930-31 the Law School entered its second decade of existence, the school having been founded in 1920. Early in its career the Law School received national ratings. It was approved in 1923 by the American Bar Association and admitted during the same year to the Association of American Law Schools. At that time only about thirty per cent of the American Law Schools were eligible to such ratings. From that time onward the school took and kept its place as one of the ranking Law Schools in the Rocky Mountain Region.

At the present time its faculty consists of four full-time and three part-time teachers. All have had exceptional training or extensive practical experience, so that the faculty affords instruction combining the best of theory and of practice. Constant attention has been paid to improving its Library. Systematic and carefully chosen additions have been made to it, until it now contains approximately 10,500 volumes.

The student body is small, ranging in recent years between thirty and forty students, so that all students are assured of constant individual attention. While a special effort is made to teach details of local Wyoming law and practice, the course of instruction is designed to fit students for the practice of law in other states as well.

The minimum course requires five years, two of which are devoted to pre-legal studies, followed by three years of professional law study. In addition there are offered six-year courses in Liberal Arts and Law, and in Business Administration and Law.

EDUCATION

C. R. MAXWELL, M. A.
Dean of the College of Education

VERY briefly, the purpose of the College of Education is the preparation of students for the profession of teaching. A wider scope is reached, however. Not only is training given in the art of teaching, but of teaching well.

The College has for its province the training of all kinds of teachers, as well as all kinds of educational leadership needed for service in the schools of the state. An extensive course outlined to meet the needs of teachers who will teach in rural schools, vocational high schools, elementary grades, and who will teach exceptional children, is offered. Training schools, class work and laboratories are provided for the demonstration of educational principles and also an opportunity for the student teacher to put into execution his theoretical principles under critical and sympathetic supervision. Realizing, also, that teachers must have a broad background, the school extends and maintains academic and classical work of the most fundamental and worth while kind, which students can and do use.

In the College there is offered an excellent program of graduate work for superintendents and principals. Due to the growth and development of the College of Education, a large percentage of the teachers and administrators in the state are either graduates of the University of Wyoming, or are pursuing advanced work in the summer session.

AGRICULTURE

JOHN A. HILL, B. S.
Dean of the College of Agriculture

THE College of Agriculture continues to grow. This enables the College to serve more and more in the development of the farms and homes of the state. Our greatest agricultural development in the next few decades will come through our own men and women of Wyoming who study in the Wyoming Agricultural College.

They will know the types of live stock that are suited to Wyoming conditions, and the home-grown feeds that are the most efficient. They will be able to select varieties of plants suited to the climate and soil of the state. They will understand how to market live stock, wool and crops. They will understand the problems of the business management on the farms and ranches of the state. They will know useful native plants of Wyoming and also ones that are poisonous. They will know the climate and the geology and the geography of this great state. They will know how to found enduring homes. Best of all, they will know and be able to work with the men and women of Wyoming who were trained on the University campus and who will furnish a large part of the future leadership of the state; the doctors, the lawyers, the business men, the engineers, the educators, the state officials, the inventors, the scientists, and the sociologists.

ENGINEERING

ROBERT L. RHOADS, M. E.
Dean of the College of Engineering

TO keep pace with the material progress, in fact, to lead to new achievements, colleges of engineering everywhere are called upon to revise, enlarge, and correlate their various curricula. The profession is in a constant state of change, because the world itself alters its demands upon it. We might say that the best index of a profession's vitality is the ready ease with which new problems are solved.

Fundamentally, all engineering is one and the same. The numerous applications, however, provide somewhat separate but yet closely allied fields of labor. The method of procedure based on common training, is the essential thing.

With this idea in mind the College offers each student of engineering basic courses supplemented by some definite specialization—the broader outlook first—the more intensive effort later.

As each new fact or law of nature is developed, its practical application to the affairs of mankind follow forthwith. Economic usefulness is the shibboleth of today, and will even more discriminately answer as such tomorrow.

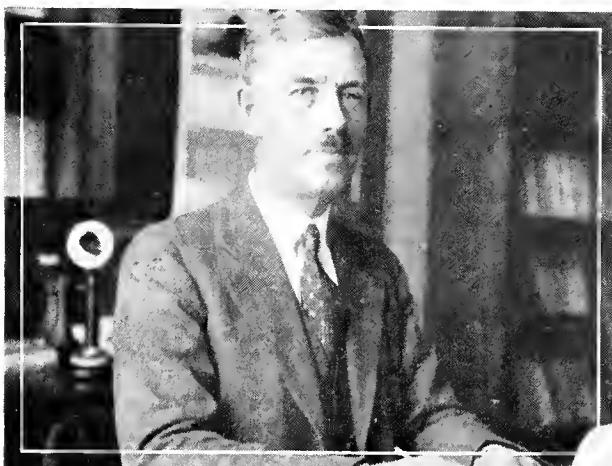

The Engineering College offers full four-year degree courses in civil, electrical, mechanical, and mining engineering, the four foundation divisions of the profession. It also offers the first two years of a course in chemical engineering, which, though a younger branch, has nevertheless made decided progress in industry.

CORRESPONDENCE

MRS. CLARA BOWMAN, B. A.
Director of Correspondence Study

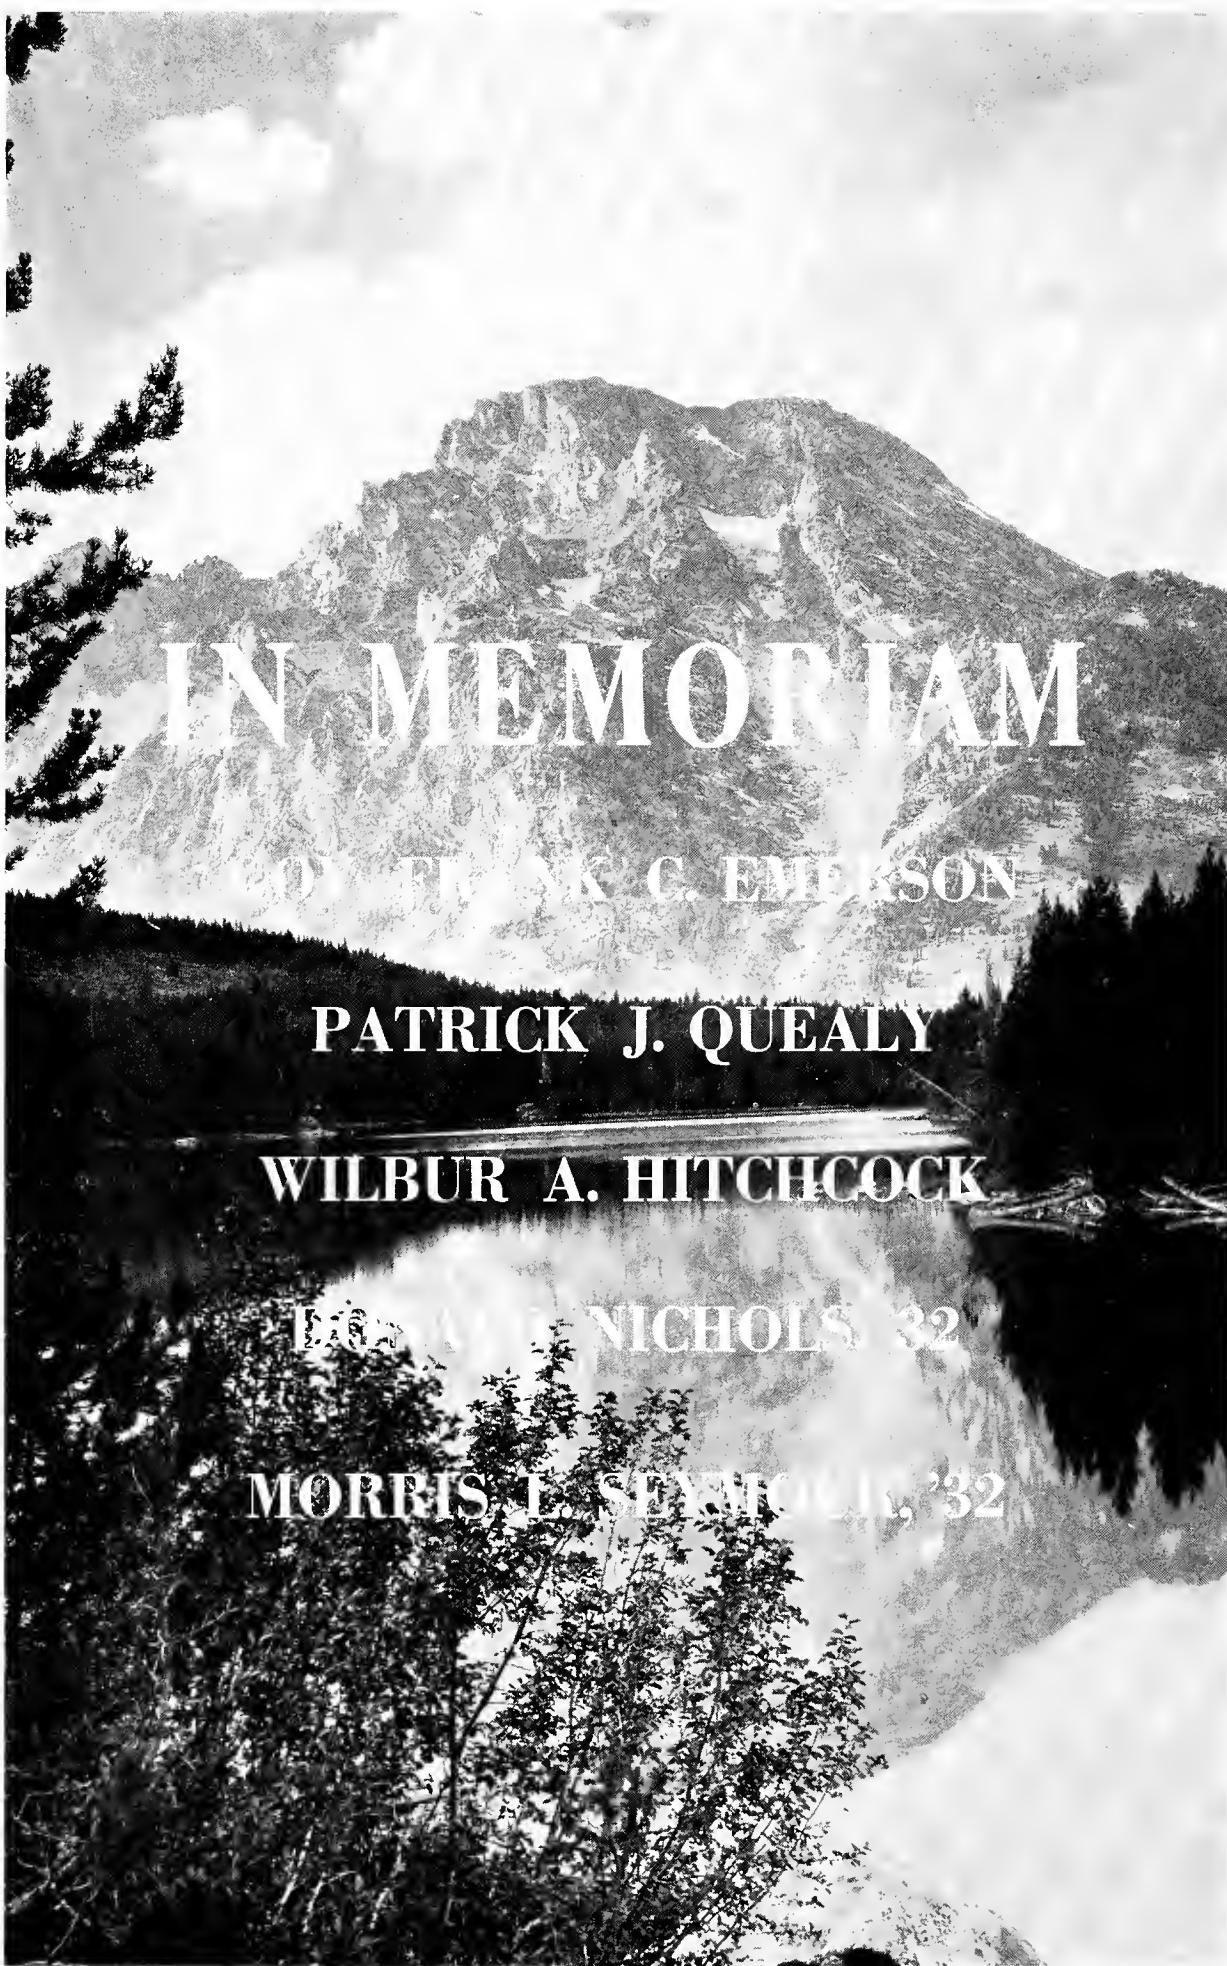

FOR those people who desire courses in college subjects, yet have not the time or means to engage in resident study, the Correspondence Study Division of the University offers such work through extension courses. Increasingly large numbers are being enrolled in this division, which is a decided asset to those benefiting therefrom.

A. E. BOWMAN, B. S.
Director of the Extension Division

EXTENSION

THE Extension Service is organized to teach the fundamental principles and demonstrate the most practical methods in Home Economics and Agriculture to those who cannot attend the University. The work is carried out in definite and systematic way with the county agents and state specialists co-operating with the people in working out community and county problems.

THE A. S. U. W. COMMITTEE

THE A. S. U. W. Committee, the governing body of the Associated Students of the University of Wyoming, has the full responsibility of sponsoring and managing all all-school activities, including athletics, debate, dramatics, and the publishing of the college weekly, "The Branding Iron." The famous Carnegie athletic investigation two years ago brought to light the fact that the University of Wyoming was one of three universities in which undergraduate control of athletics and other activities really existed. The delegates and officers of the A. S. U. W. Committee are elected each spring in an all-school election.

THE Associated Women Students, as the name implies, is an organization of all women students registered in the University; it is affiliated with the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students—the national organization of self-governing students. The chief function of this group is not to assume responsibility for the conduct of women students; its greatest field of opportunity and endeavor lies in the power the organization affords for helping students to grow in character and to achieve a healthful, rich development of self. The program of Vocational Guidance, which is the project of the year, is one of the means by which it is hoped to accomplish these desirable ends.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

THE senior class of 1931 has successfully completed a year as pacemaker and model for the rest of the University. Since the day in the spring of 1930, when the impressive Swingout and Bridle and Spurs Ceremony symbolically passed the under-graduate leadership to the class of 1931, it has done its tasks well. The traditional dance of the class, the Senior Black and White, is given each spring before the many graduation ceremonies begin.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

THE junior class is traditionally the busiest of all; it has the important task of publishing and financing the Wyo and must present the Junior Prom, the most elaborate social function on the campus. The Prom of the class of 1932 was by far the most pretentious of any given thus far, strikingly beautiful modernistic decorations being employed, and an orchestra imported for the occasion. The class of 1932 originated in their first year the annual Freshman Bust-Out, which has already become a fixed custom upon the campus.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

THE sophomore class has the important and difficult task of disciplining the freshmen, and when this arduous task has lightened sufficiently, it must turn its attention to the Powder River Ball. This typically Western function, in which a ballroom is transformed into an old-time forty-niner dance hall, complete with bar, gambling devices and a continuous riproaring dance, suffices to keep the class busy during the remainder of the year after the freshmen are finally subdued.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

THE freshman class has a number of tasks to perform. Immediately upon arrival on the campus it must paint the "W" on the hill, don their identifying caps, and attend certain functions arranged for their benefit by the sophomores. An all-freshman dance is given by the class soon after the year starts. In the spring, the now firmly entrenched Freshman Bust-Out, when the class stages a pajama parade, bonfire and dance, and installs the officers for the coming year, signifies the passing of the freshman class.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

THE Women's Pan-Hellenic is made up of six women fraternities on the campus, the local groups being admitted on the same basis as the nationals. The organization is banded together by a council of representatives consisting of one alumni, one senior and one junior delegate from each group. Dr. Clara McIntyre has been chosen to act as faculty representative on the council.

It is the purpose of this council to foster a feeling of good will between the groups and to iron out any difficulties which may arise. The social events sponsored by Pan-Hellenic are a formal dance, which was this year given at Gray's Gables, and a breakfast in the spring quarter for the women on the campus receiving the highest scholastic averages in their respective groups.

THE Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of a faculty adviser and two delegates from each social fraternity on the campus. The members serve two-year terms, one from each organization going out every year so that there is never a complete change in personnel at one time. This group has as its purpose the furtherance of co-operation between the fraternities. It acts upon fraternity policies and regulates the rushing and pledging program. In the promotion of scholarship a cup is awarded each year to the fraternity having the highest scholastic average. The Inter-Fraternity Ball, sponsored annually by the Council, is one of the outstanding formals of the year.

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR SWING OUT

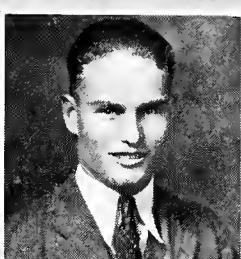

THE Junior-Senior Swing Out, and Bridle and Spurs ceremony is one of the most beautiful of Wyoming's traditions. Each spring on the south campus this ceremony is staged to symbolize the passing of the seniors from the University, and the elevation of the junior class to the position of school leadership. While the band plays the inspiring "Alma Mater," the juniors file slowly from Old Main to the campus, where they form in a "W," followed by the seniors bearing a brown and yellow chain, who form beside the juniors. In true western style, the chap-clad senior president rides forth from the "U. W. Outfit" to meet the similarly clad junior president, who receives from his predecessor the bridle, signifying leadership, and the spurs, for inspiration. While the two classes join in the "Alma Mater," the chain is passed from the seniors to the juniors; the officers mount their horses and are gone with a clatter of hoofs; and the seniors pass through the gate of "U. W. Outfit," symbolically for the last time.

THE FRESHMAN BUST-OUT

Another class tradition of an entirely different character which is staged each spring is the Freshman Bust-Out, originated by the class of '32, and already firmly established as an annual event. At the close of the year, to symbolize their impending elevation to the standing of upperclassmen, the freshmen assemble in the evening near the Men's Hall, and led by a band and clad in pajamas, the entire class parades from the campus around town, and back again, to assemble around a huge bonfire, into which frosh caps are hurled, and into which a coffin-encased effigy, representing the now dead freshman class, is tossed. On impromptu platforms the officers elected for the coming year are introduced and installed, and then the entire class retires to the hall of the Men's Dorm, to dance and repulse any sophomores who might attempt to gain an entrance.

*The campus puts on its spring dress—
Turner wins the quarter at C. C.—the geology field trip fleet—Barker, Pohle and Hale at the C. C. dual—those spring riding classes—the impressive
senior Swing-out—the commencement parade—the geologists digging their way to the Summer Camp in June.*

The summer geologists swing their hammers—more coed cowgirls—fall brings the freshman swimming lessons in the Peanut Pond—Choppy and Ed pause to look the Cowboys over—the Education Building in the good old summer time—coed geologists making themselves useful at the Summer Camp.

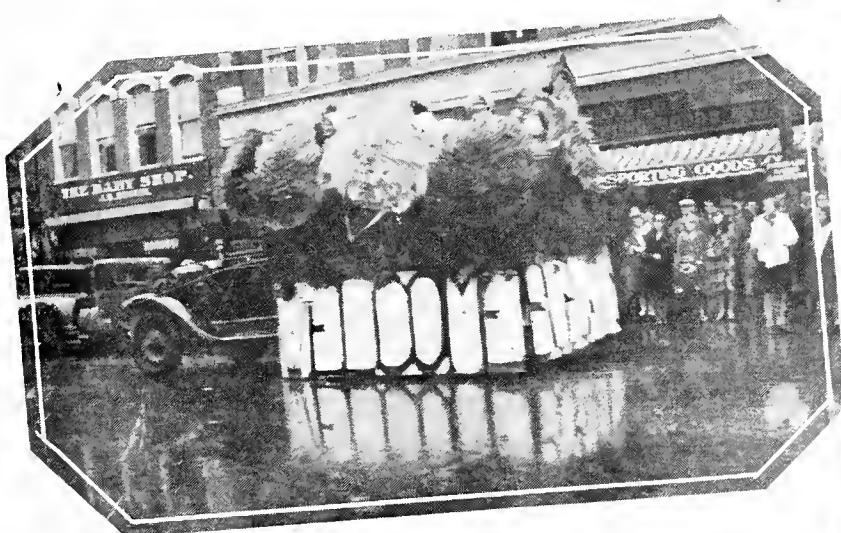

Homecoming — Hoyt Hall exhibits some of that "booster" painting—the Kappa Kappa Gamma's house takes third prize—the prize winning Sig Alph float parades through the rain—a bit of action in the Big Game—the crowd fills the stadium—the colors go up.

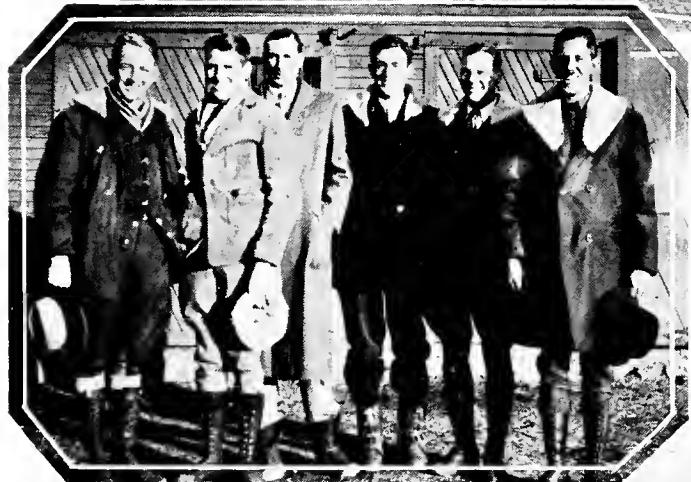

Sigma Alpha Epsilon transforms their home into a ranch house to win first place—the Merica Hall float rides over the glistening streets—Sammy punting under Choppy's watchful eye—the frosh perform between halves—the Kappa Sig house wins second place—the Alpha Tau Omega float.

That Cheyenne trip—the band leads the parade through the Capital city—action in the Warren Bowl—boarding the special in Laramie—the stock judges—Katherine Baily goes to Notre Dame to be Prom queen—the special arrives in Cheyenne—Wyoming coeds stop at Virginia Dale to celebrate the Aggie victory.

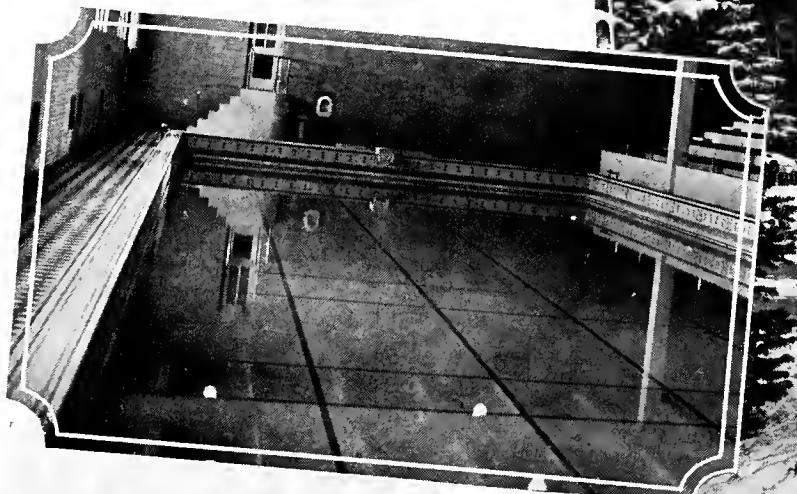

The Alpha Chis from C. U. on hand to help install the new chapter—those impromptu Sigma Nu touch football games—a part of the newly installed Sigma Chis—the national council delegate and national president of Alpha Chi Omega attend the installation—the Tri Delt actives line up—Alpha Chi Omega's newest chapter—the Episcopal Club.

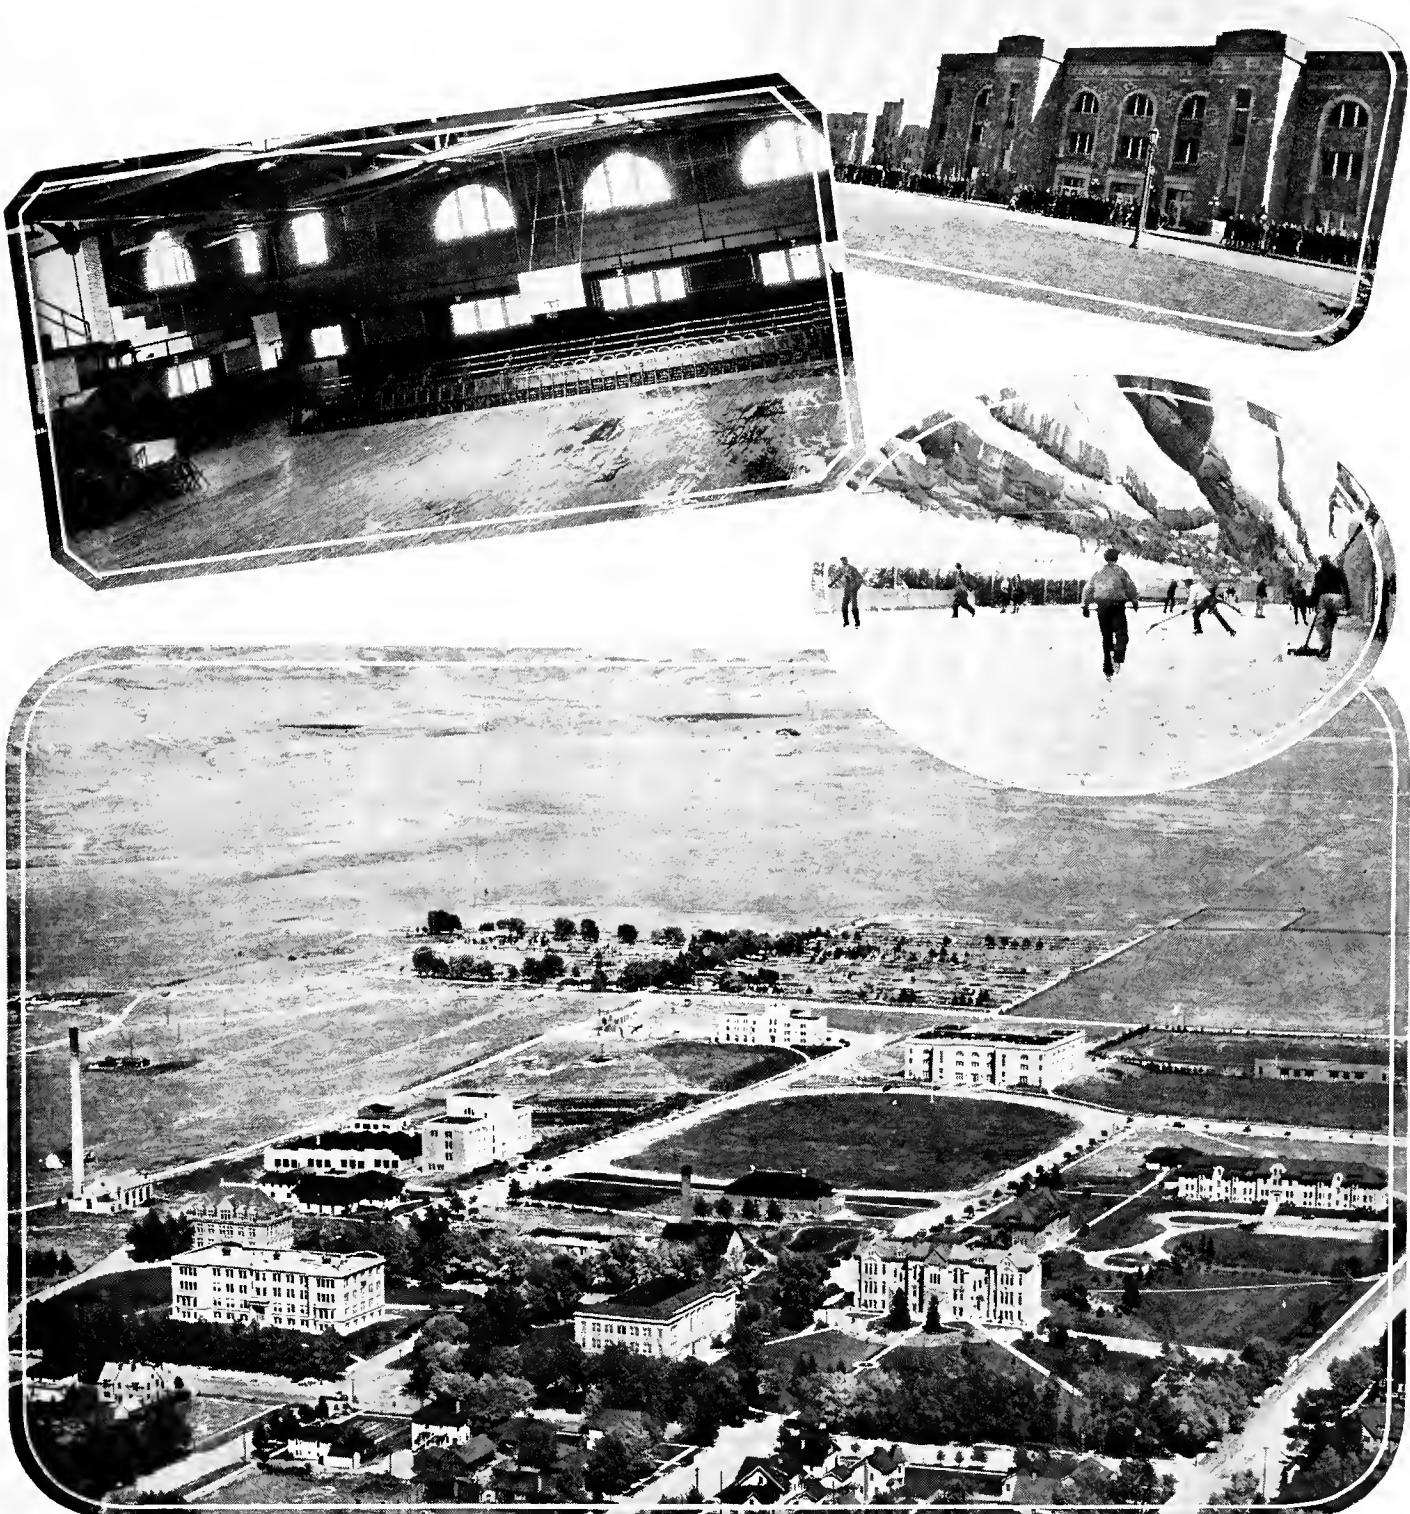

The Coreboy hockey team tangles with the Colorado Mines team—Governor Emerson on his last visit to the campus—a glimpse of the pool—Merica Hall in a snow scene—skiing in the Laramie Mountains—another view of the Coreboy-Mines hockey clash.

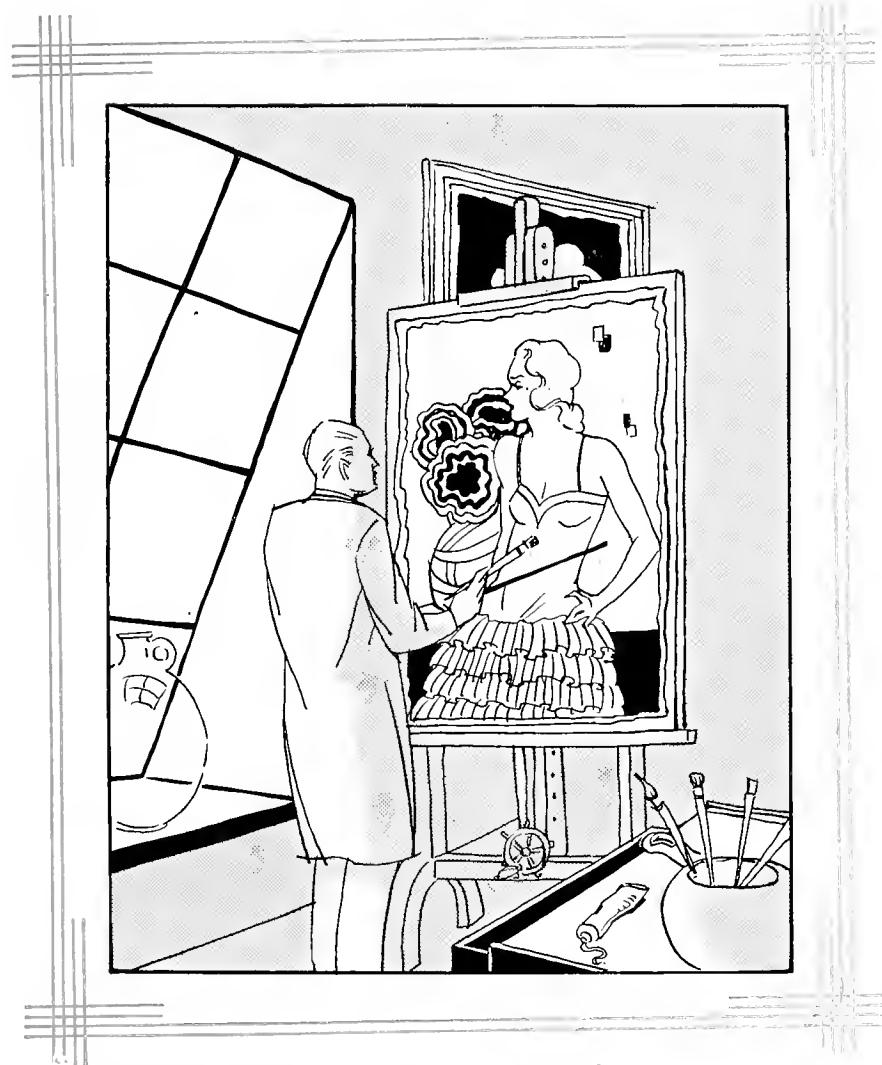

The Wyoming coed—a corner of the gymnasium—the army turns out to honor the visiting legislators—a last skate on the rink before the ice disappears—how the most altitudinous college campus in the world looks from still higher up.

Familiar spots—the road east to Cheyenne near Happy Jack Canyon—and the road west to Saratoga through the Medicine Bowes—Summit Inn and Pole Mountain—Gray's Gables, scene of countless collegiate parties—the Medicine Bow lakes—the main lodge at the University Summer Camp.

FAIR WOMEN

POPULARITY CONTEST

WHILE the Dekes of Virginia were wrestling with the knotty problem of determining the most beautiful coeds on the University of Wyoming campus, the school at large was similarly engaged in determining the most popular girls in the University by the traditional Popularity Contest, conducted by the Wyo each year. Eight girls were entered in the contest, Miss Rachel Achenbach, Miss Eva Burton, Miss Lillian Carleson, Miss Jane Kenley, Miss Mary MacKenzie, Miss Fannie Jo Reed, Miss Louise Scott, and Miss Shirley Smith being the candidates of their respective organizations. With votes being obtained by means of Wyo sales, an interesting and active campaign of several weeks' duration was carried on, with the result that Miss Fannie Jo Reed, Alpha Chi Omega, placed first by a commanding majority, Miss Lillian Carleson, Pi Beta Phi, took second, and Miss Louise Scott, Delta Delta Delta, placed third.

THE BEAUTY CONTEST

ETA CHAPTER OF D. K. E. UNIVERSITY, VA.

Mr. Elmer Modeer,
Editor, 1931 WYO,
University of Wyoming,
Laramie, Wyoming.

February 4, 1931.

Dear Mr. Modeer:

A very unfortunate circumstance has been the cause of our delay in returning to you the photographs submitted with the results of our selection. By some unpardonable error of the Postal Service, the package containing the pictures was delivered to another Fraternity House and it was with the greatest difficulty that we succeeded in rounding up the mislaid pictures.

However, we proceeded to an open forum selection on Lodge Meeting Night, with all members enthusiastically on hand. The outcome of the hotly contested discussion and subsequent balloting saw Miss No. 30 take first place by a commanding majority, Miss No. 3 was a good second, while third award for pulchritude went to Miss No. 26.

In placing the first award, we experienced extreme difficulty, as it involved choice, and choice in such a multitude of "Belles" is, to say the least, distasteful. In the final analysis, the thing which had the most to do with the choice was our inveterate love for the truest lady. It is the appearance of that true beauty which shines in the countenance as the reflection of an inner beauty and the representative most nearly conforming to our standards along these lines, was Miss No. 30. Her dignified and patrician mien is such as would command attention from the most casual observer, and although it is perhaps not the politic thing to say, she quite swept us off our feet.

Scarcely less popular was radiant Miss No. 3, a great favorite with the West Virginia contingent, who placed highest confidence in a warm heart and cheerful disposition. Miss No. 26's simple charm won her a host of stout supporters.

In closing, it is needless to say that we deeply appreciate the honor you have bestowed upon us in singling us out for judges in a matter which is of such vital interest to you, and hope that our selections will meet with popular approval.

We remain,

Yours sincerely,

ETA OF DELTA KAPPA EPSILON.

Louis Mackall, Jr., President.

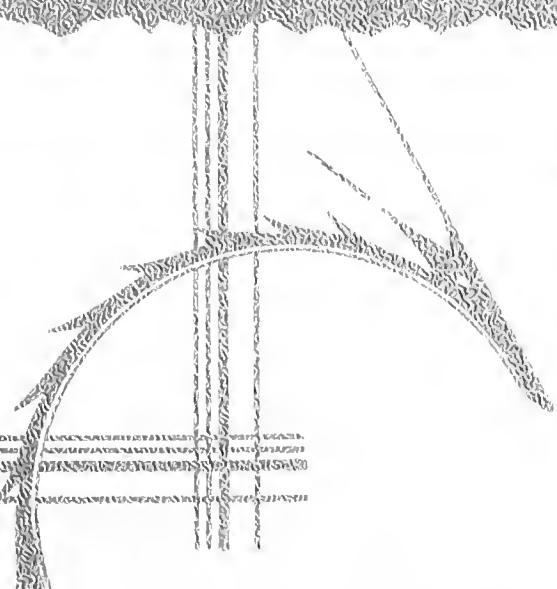

Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon, University of Virginia, Judges in 1931 Beauty Contest.

Miss Peggy Simson, chosen by the Dekes of Virginia as Wyoming's fairest coed. "Her dignified and patrician mien is such as would command attention from the most casual observer." Miss Simson is a freshman, comes from Walden, Colorado, and is affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma.

MISS PEGGIE SIMSON

Miss Pauline Garner, "a great favorite with the West Virginia contingent, who placed highest confidence in a warm heart and a cheerful disposition." Miss Garner, who was given second place, is a sophomore and wears the badge of Delta Delta Delta. Her home is in Casper.

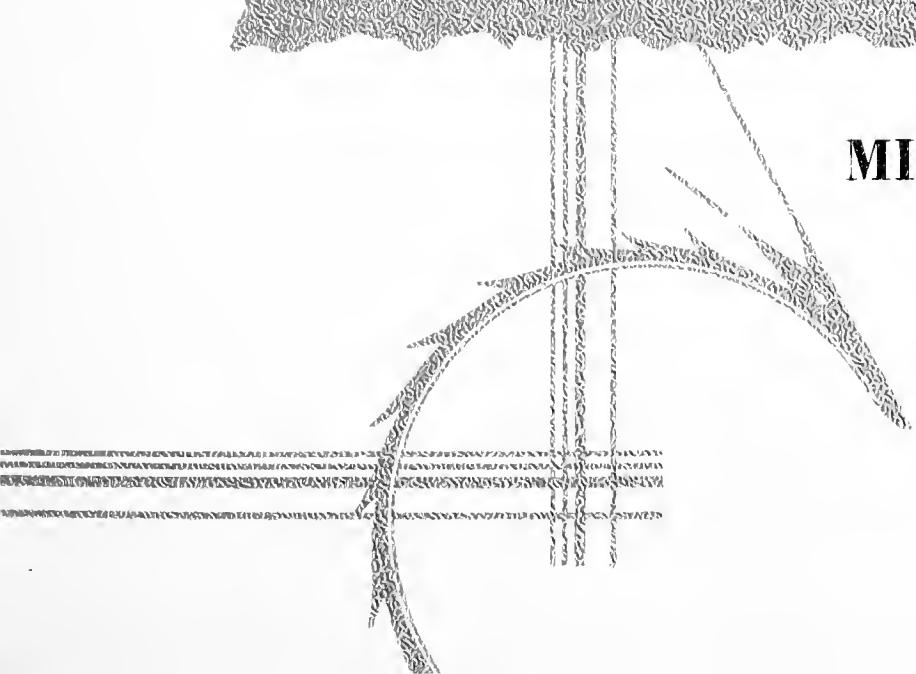

MISS PAULINE GARNER

Miss Eleanor Atwell, whose "simple charm won her a host of stout supporters." Miss Atwell, who resides in Laramie, belongs to the graduating class of 1931. She's a member of Pi Beta Phi.

MISS ELEANOR ATWELL

Miss Fannie Jo Reed, winner of the Popularity Contest. Miss Reed comes to the University from Sage, is a junior, and has been elected to Iron Skull, Blue Pencil, Spurs and Zeta Nu, among others. She's president of Spurs and her sorority, Alpha Chi Omega.

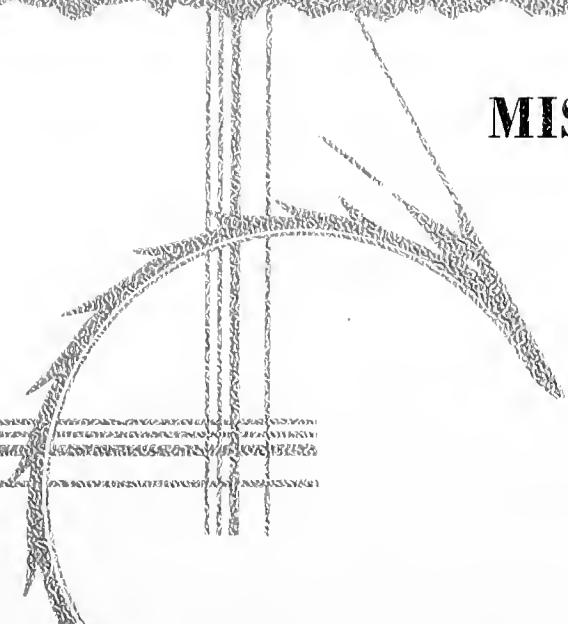

MISS FANNIE JO REED

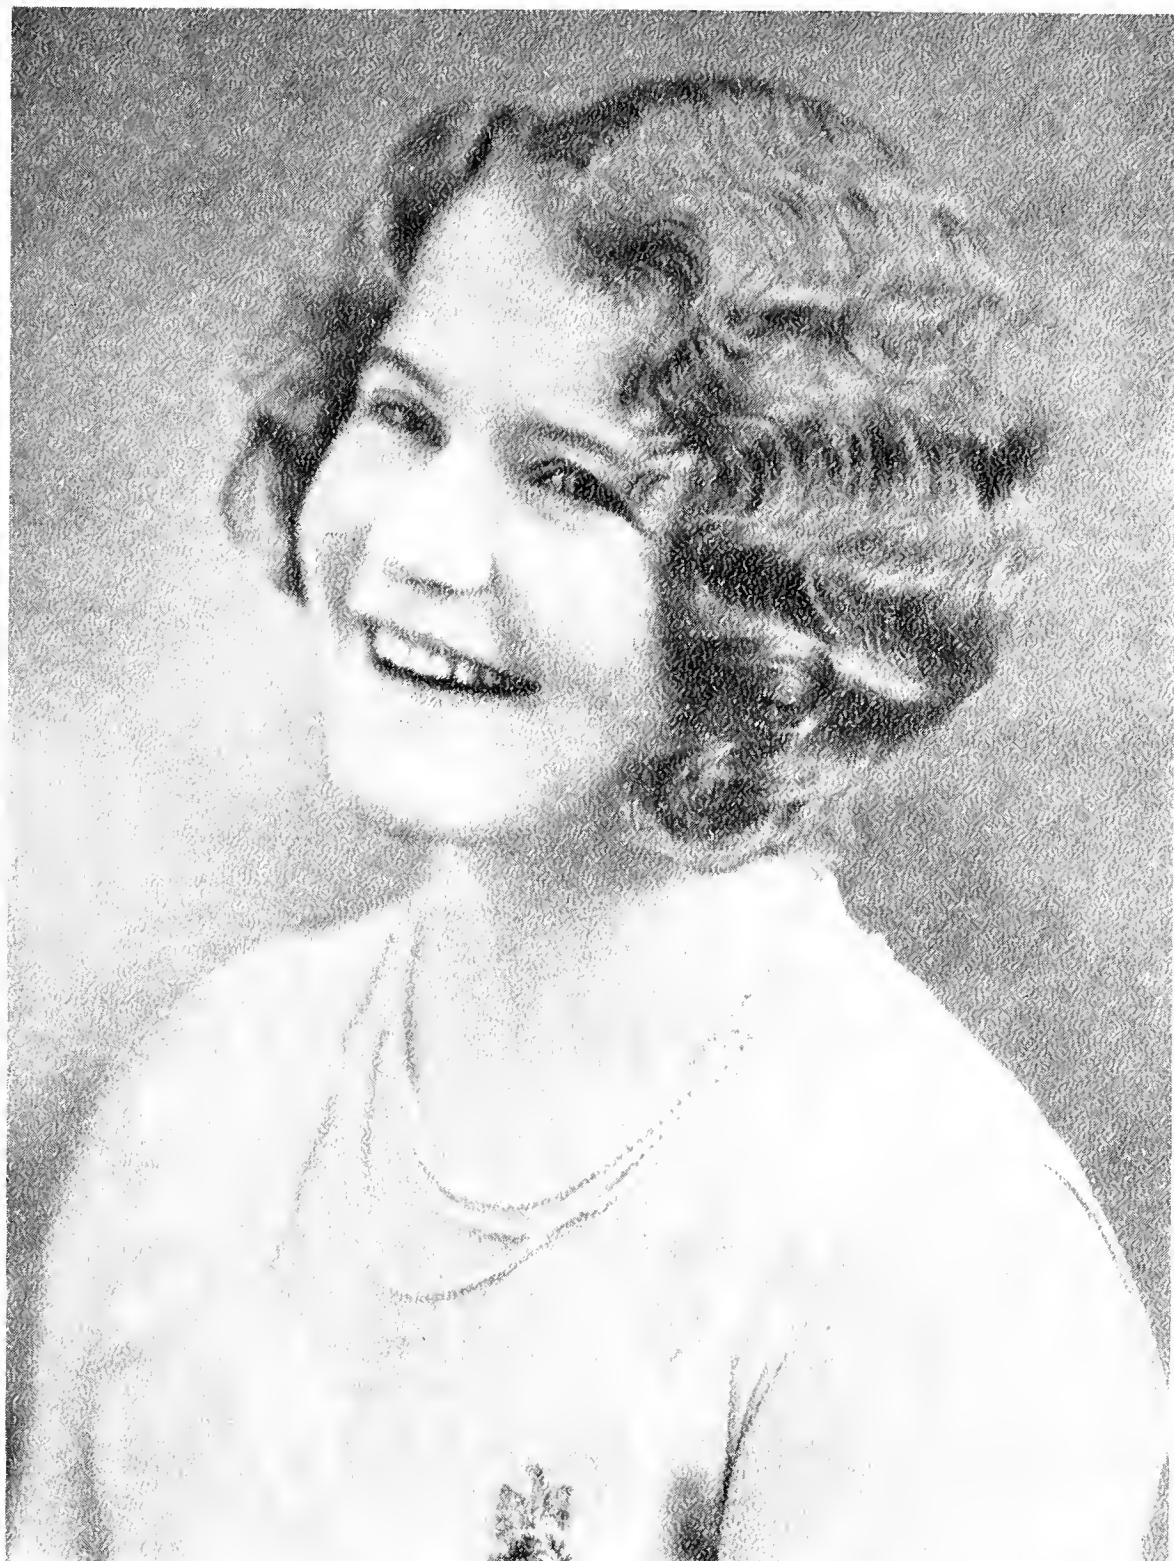

Miss Lillian Carleson, who won second place in the Popularity Contest, is a sophomore from Rock Springs, and wears the arrow of Pi Beta Phi. Iron Skull, Spurs and Zeta Nu, among others, list her as a member.

MISS LILLIAN CARLESON

Miss Louise Scott, third place winner in the Popularity Contest, is a member of the Class of 1933, and enrolled in the University from Saratoga. She has twice been secretary of her class, is a member of the debate squad, and holds membership in Big Sisters, Spurs, Iron Skull, and Delta Delta Delta.

MISS LOUISE SCOTT

ALMA MATER

*Where the western lights long shadows
Over boundless prairies fling,
And the mountain winds are vocal
With thy dear name Wyoming.
There it is, the brown and yellow,
Float in loving loyalty,
And the college throws its portals
Open wide to all men free.*

*Yonder we can see it standing,
Circled by the purple hills,
While the flaming glow of sunset
Every western window fills.
'Tis the college. Ah, we know it,
Shrine of many joys and tears,
And the rays of light above it,
Are prophetic of its years.*

CHORUS

*And so our songs we bring,
Our Alma Mater sing,
To her our hearts shall cling,
Shall cling for evermore.*

SOCIETY

Isabel Thompson is crowned Queen of the Engineers' Ball.

On October 3 the annual Coed Ball was staged by the women of the University in the Little Theater, from which men were excluded, and which proved to be an excellent mixer for the women of the campus. The upperclass women played the part of host and escorted the freshmen girls to the dance.

Homecoming, the week-end of October 10-12, was the largest in point of attendance and elaborateness of program that has yet been staged by Wyoming. Besides the Alumni Banquet and the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night, numerous smokers, teas and receptions were given by the various organizations on the campus. A Homecoming parade was held for the second time on Saturday morning, in which a score or more of floats were entered. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won first place among the men's floats, and Alpha Chi Omega won the cup for the best women's float. The sorority and fraternity houses were elaborately decorated for the occasion, Sigma Alpha Epsilon winning first place by transforming their home into a realistic ranch house. Kappa Sigma took second place and Kappa Kappa Gamma third.

The banquet, held after the big game, was attended exclusively by alumni, and the Commons was well filled. The Homecoming Dance, which brought the week-end to a close, was attended by faculty, grads, and undergrads, and was, as usual, the largest attended dance of the year, over three hundred couples crowding into the big gym.

The annual Ag dance, the most informal party of the year, was held again in the the hayloft of the big barn on the University stock farm, on October 18.

THE social season at the University of Wyoming was opened by the "W" Club the first weekend of the school year, when they staged an all-school mixer in the big gymnasium. The affair was held on Saturday night, September 20, and in its informal atmosphere old acquaintances were renewed and the freshmen welcomed into the student body. The next week-end saw the first A. S. U. W. dance of the year.

Junior Prom Queen, Mary MacKenzie, surrounded by her attendants.

The Ag Club was host to a large group of pleasantly rowdy farmers and farmerettes.

Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Chi replaced Delta Phi Sigma and the Independent Club, respectively, the next week-end in elaborate ceremonies that brought national officers and visitors from all parts of the country to the campus. Both installations were climaxed by formal dinner dances, attended by representatives of the other campus Greek organizations, members of nearby chapters and the visiting officials.

The second A. S. U. W. Dance was given the 31st of October in the Little Theater.

The first formal party of the year was staged by the engineers on November 21, when they presented the annual Engineers' Ball in the big gymnasium. The couples danced under a huge spider web spun of streamers of brown and yellow, the University colors, and blue and white, the colors of the College of Engineering. The web, which covered the entire ceiling, was gay with fluttering pennants carrying the color scheme, and huge spiders with gleaming jeweled eyes lurked in the corners of the web. During the evening, the annual coronation of the queen of the ball was held. The queen was selected before the ball by balloting of the engineers, and Miss Isabel Thompson of Laramie received the honors this year. Her attendants were Miss Beverly Meyers, Miss Elizabeth Thornberry, Miss Mary Coe, Miss Helen Hall, Miss Bessie Kennedy and Miss Mary Iva MacKenzie.

An A. S. U. W. dance opened the social season on January 9, after the Christmas holidays, and this was followed the next night by the A. W. S. Costume Party, at which women only were present. Miss Lillian Carleson and Miss Inez Goetz were awarded prizes for the most beautiful costumes, and Miss Mary Belle Pemberton and Miss Margaret Grisinger won the fox trot prize.

The 1931 Junior Prom and Prom week-end was held January 23, and was easily the outstanding social event of the year. The big gymnasium was lavishly decorated in modernistic style, all done in black and white. An elaborate black and white ceiling was constructed, and huge panels screened off the lounges from the floor. One end of the gym was built up to accommodate Tony Ferero's band from Denver, while the other end was built into a dais for the Prom queen.

The promenade was led by Joe Porter, Prom chairman, and his guest, Miss Margaret Thomas. Later the coronation of the queen took place. Miss Mary Iva MacKenzie was Prom queen and her attendants were Miss Pauline Chaddock, Miss Helen Hougen, Miss Helen Solberg, and Miss Eleanor Buckles.

Following the formal, buffet suppers were served at the sorority houses at 2:30. Prom week-end came to a close the next afternoon with a series of tea dances given by the sororities.

The 29th annual Cadet Ball was presented February 13, and was only outranked by the Junior Prom in elaborateness. The gymnasium was decorated with a combination of futuristic and militaristic themes, numerous brightly colored panels lighted by subdued floodlights sharing the gym with the cannon and other military equipment. Several hundred couples attended, including officers and their ladies from Fort Warren, and cadet officers from the Colorado School of Mines and the Colorado Agricultural College. Hume Everett's band from Denver furnished the music. The feature of the evening was an exhibition drill by a crack squad, which went through a complicated drill for ten minutes without a command.

The sororities of the campus played hostess jointly the night of February 27, when they presented the Pan-Hellenic formal at Gray's Gables. Decorations consisted of the emblems and colors of the various organizations.

The annual A. W. S. formal was the first major social event of the spring quarter. The results of the election for the next year's officers were announced and the officers presented. The dance was held at the Laramie Country Club.

The following night the big whoopee party of the year was staged in the gymnasium when the sophomores presented the annual Powder River Ball. Here the students reverted for a night to the old days of Wyoming, and cowboys, gamblers, miners, and cowgirls hung about the bar and gaming tables, and danced hilariously in an atmosphere of a '49 barroom.

DRAMATICS

on the afternoon of Memorial Day, May 30, and drew wide comment. The drama has an all-male cast and but one setting, the entire action taking place in a front line dug-out. Frank Mann took the part of Captain Stanhope, while other leading parts were taken by Lowry King as Lieut. Osborne, Robert Simpson as Capt. Hardy, Patrick Quealy as Lieut. Trotter, Josef Replogle as Lieut. Raleigh, and Joe Sullivan as Private Mason.

The chief dramatic feature of the fall quarter was the producing and taking on tour of the clever comedy by Frederick Lonsdale, "Aren't We All?", by the University of Wyoming Players. The Good Will Troupe, as they were known, made a twelve day trip through the northern and central part of the state, playing at Cheyenne, Torrington, Glenrock, Sheridan, Gillette, Casper, Buffalo, Douglas and Midwest. Besides the dramatic troupe, an orchestra was taken on the tour, and played before the high school assemblies and at dances following the plays. Following the return of the players, the play was presented October 29 at the Little Theater. Lowry King as Hon. William Tatham, Nancy Burrage as Lady Trenton, Zene Bohrer as Lord Trenton, Helen Hylton as Margot Tatham, Geraldine Truitt as Angella Lynton, Patrick Quealy as Rev. Ernest Lynton, and John McNulty as Morton, were especially good.

Theta Alpha's winter dramatic offering was Karel Capek's fantastic "R. U. R.," which is the abbreviation for Rossum's Universal Robots. The play is a fantastic representation, symbolic of the machine age, against which it is a direct protest. It deals with the creation of a type of mechanical man, and the robots, as they are called, eventually rise and

THE University of Wyoming dramatists scored a distinct triumph last spring when they were privileged to present R. C. Sheriff's world famous war drama, "Journey's End." The University was one of three collegiate institutions that have been permitted to present this play, West Point and Dartmouth sharing the privilege. The play was produced by Theta Alpha Phi, on May 29 and destroy mankind. In order to give as many persons interested in drama a chance to play in the production as possible, two casts were organized by Mrs. DeKay, dramatic director, and the play was presented twice, the afternoon of January 24, the better cast playing in the evening, and the less experienced one in the afternoon. A resume of the play was later put on for the benefit of the legislature during their visit.

The University of Wyoming Players, encouraged by the success of the fall tour, made another trip during the latter part of April, a company of 22 making the journey, and traveling 1,200 miles in twelve days, going as far north and west as Cody. The popular college comedy, "The Poor Nut," was chosen as the vehicle, and proved a great success. The play was presented on the Wyoming campus several years ago by Theta Alpha Phi, and its popularity prompted its selection as the tour drama. Harry Mills Astin was a great hit as the poor nut, the Phi Beta Kappa grind who wished to be an athlete. Nancy Burrage as Margie Blake, Hermione Bradstreet as Julie Winter, Keith Bahrenburg as Spike Hoyt, and Patrick Quealy as the trainer, were all excellent in their parts.

One of the most important dramatic events of the last several years will be the re-presentation of the pageant "Vedauwoo," written and produced by Mrs. Mabelle DeKay, dramatic director, and presented in Vedauwoo Glen, a natural amphitheater east of the Sherman Hills, discovered by Mrs. DeKay. The pageant was first presented in 1924, and for the new presentation, Mrs. DeKay has rewritten the pageant in poetry instead of prose. The new presentation will be early in June.

The pageant deals with the history of Wyoming in a series of allegorical episodes, beginning with the formation of the natural phenomena of Wyoming and carrying the story on down to the present time. The theme deals with the wooing of Wyoming by Vedauwoo, Earthborn.

Mask and Sandal, the junior dramatic organization, offered a number of plays during the year, mostly shorter productions. Among the most popular of these were a set of four plays given March 4 and 5, "Shall We Join the Ladies," "Minuet," "How He Lied to Her Husband," and "The Affairs of Anatol."

The "Poor Nut" cast pauses during a rehearsal.

THETA ALPHA PHI

THETA ALPHA PHI is a national honorary dramatic fraternity established in 1919 at Chicago, "to foster an interest in wholesome dramatics and to provide means for uniting students, alumni and instructors who have dramatic talent." There are 66 chapters now established. The Wyoming chapter was established in 1921, and has been one of the most active societies on the campus since. Membership is extended to those who have successfully performed in two major or four minor roles, or have shown proficiency in some other phase of dramatic art. Most of the talent for the major campus productions is furnished by Theta Alpha Phi.

Theta Alpha Phi holds its annual initiation in the unique Vedauwoo Glen, natural amphitheater in the Laramie mountains, discovered by Mrs. Mabelle DeKay and named after the pageant which was first held on its natural stages.

MASK AND SANDAL

MASK AND SANDAL is the junior dramatic organization, the purpose of which is to stimulate campus interest in dramatics and to prepare students for membership in Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic society.

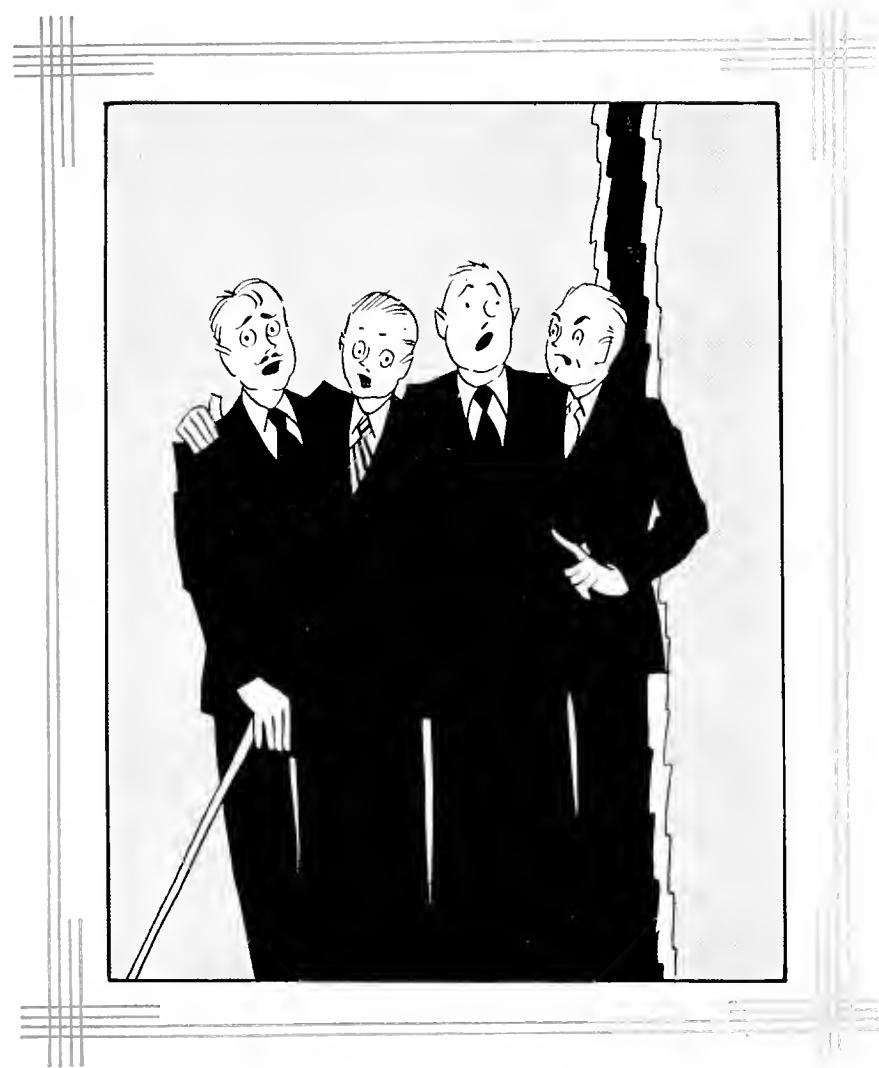

During the year 1930-1931 Mask and Sandal has admitted several new members, elected pledges at try-outs, and presented a number of one-act plays for the entertainment of the student body.

In past years the junior organization has from time to time presented one-act plays and has maintained a high standard of activity throughout the years.

Membership in Mask and Sandal is based on dramatic ability, directing of plays, or work in lighting, costuming and makeup.

MUSIC

THE MESSIAH

THE eleventh annual performance of The Messiah, the outstanding musical event of the year in the University, was presented December 14, 1930, in the auditorium of the new Laramie High School, before a large crowd including many visitors from out of town. The University Chorus of over one hundred people, under the direction of George Edwin Knapp, conductor, presented the famous oratorio of Handel, assisted by the University Orchestra of forty pieces under the direction of Roger C. Frisbie, and four soloists. The solo parts were taken by Celia Merril, soprano; Bessie Dade Hughes, contralto; Frank M. Wood, tenor; and John C. Kendel, bass.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

THE Women's Glee Club is open to any women students who have had previous experience in part singing. The group meets for rehearsal once a week in Music Hall. This year the activities of the Glee Club have been particularly interesting, programs having been given at McFadden, Rock River, Harmony, the Laramie High School, as well as music which has been furnished for student assemblies. The organization presents a well balanced program, solo numbers in Voice, Violin, Piano, and Trumpet being offered by the members, in addition to the songs by the group. There are approximately forty girls in the Glee Club, which is under the direction of Roger C. Frisbie, Professor of Organ and Theory.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA is the oldest national music fraternity for women, being established at the University School of Music of the University of Michigan in 1903. The objects of the fraternity are: to form bodies of representative women who shall by their influence and their musical interest uphold the highest ideals of a musical education, to raise the standards of productive musical work among the women students of colleges, conservatories and universities; to give moral and material aid to its members, to promote and dignify further the development of music in America and to assist in the development of a stronger bond of musical interest and understanding between foreign countries and America.

It is necessary for students to receive faculty recommendations and obtain a high scholastic average before they are eligible for membership. At present there are 57 active chapters with a total membership of over 5,000. The official publication of the fraternity is Pan Pipes. The badge is seven Roman gold pan pipes, encircled by a jeweled ellipse bearing the Greek letters "S A I" on black enamel.

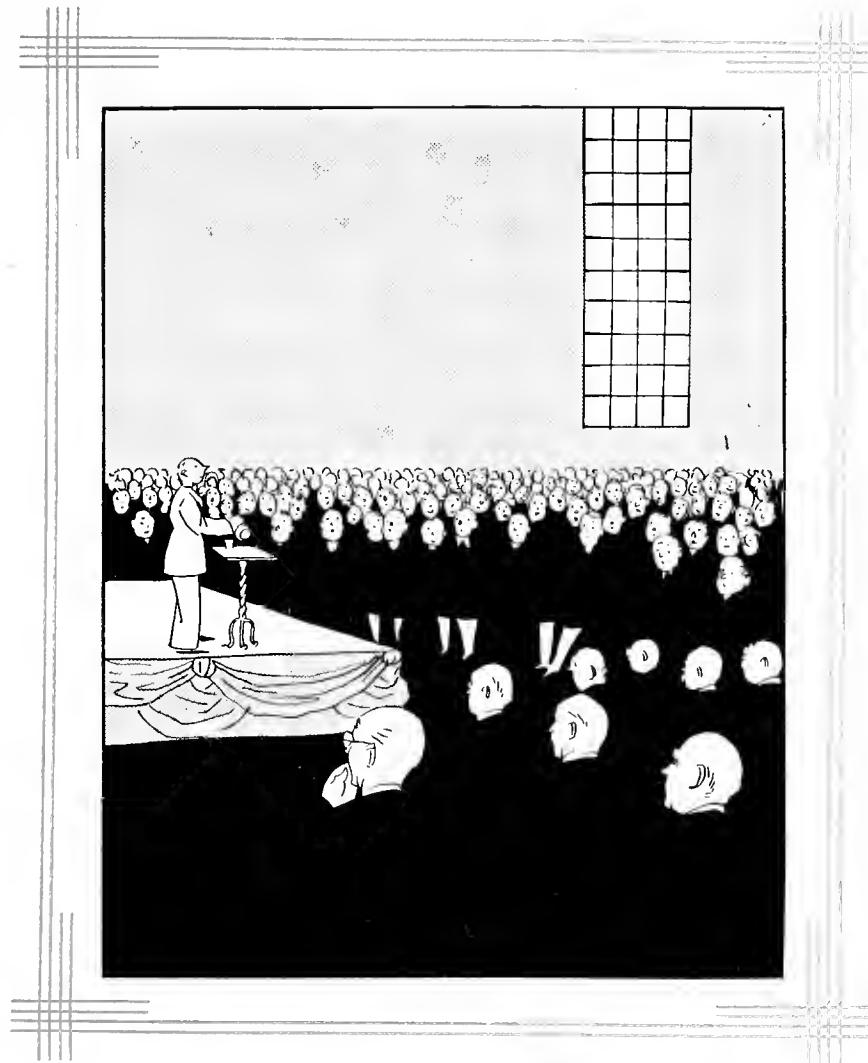

The Wyoming chapter, Sigma Kappa, was established in 1925, largely through the efforts of Miss Helen Hylton of the music faculty.

MEN'S DEBATE

WYOMING was well represented in the men's division by a strong aggregation of debaters, who were rounded into shape under the coaching of Professor Louis A. Mallory, and Mr. Wilmer E. Stevens, assistant. Harold Scott and William C. Holland, the veterans of the squad, with three years of experience, carried the major share of the competition for the season. They represented Wyoming on the tour to the Pacific Coast, and at the meet of the Rocky Mountain Forensic League. Norris Embree, completing his last year of forensics, and Lawrence Burley, sophomore, turned in some very creditable performances on the home platform.

The home schedule was opened on February 16, with two non-decisions, with Weber College and Colorado Teachers. In the former, William Holland and Lawrence Burley defended a protectionist policy, while in the evening discussion Harold Scott and Alan Linford advanced the cause of free trade. March 21, a negative team of Lawrence Burley and Norris Embree met the University of Nebraska. The season was closed on the campus by an Oregon style discussion with Utah University.

Due to a rather limited home schedule, it was not possible for all of the squad to engage in a contest. However, there is some very promising material on the squad from which it should not be difficult to turn out a succession of strong teams. Norris Embree, and Harold Scott, with his record of over forty debates in his three years of experience, will be lost by graduation, but fortunately there will be a nucleus of experience and also some promising material with which to replace them.

The members of the squad in the 1931 season were Harold Scott, William Holland, Lawrence Burley, Norris Embree, Alan Linford, Byron Bender, Archie McClintock, Harold Schreiber, Harry Staples, Elmer Scott, and Urban Bury.

Top Row—Loomis, Ashley, Thompson, Fair, Edmonds, Ford, Faris.

WOMEN'S DEBATE

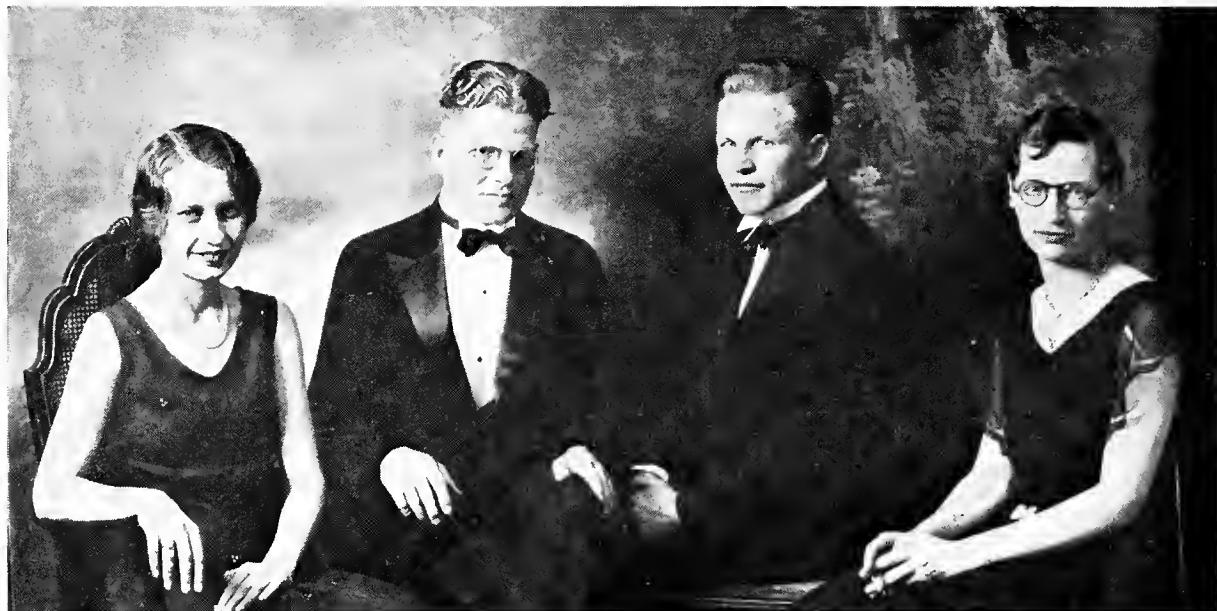

FORENSICS continued to be one of the activities to command major interest from Wyoming coeds. The squad was under the tutelage of Mrs. Josephine Thompson, who has been very successful in producing outstanding teams during the last several years.

This year two topics furnished the questions for discussion, first: Resolved, that the several states should require all employees to contribute to an unemployment insurance fund to take care of the unemployed; and secondly, that the several states should compel all automobile owners to carry public liability insurance. These were selected because they were subjects for discussion by the schools to be met in the eastern tour, which was taken at the close of the season. In the Rocky Mountain region nearly all of the schools were debating on the question of free trade, and in consequence it was difficult to find opponents for the women's teams.

The first debate of the season was with the University of California, in which Wyoming upheld the affirmative in favor of unemployment insurance. Perhaps due to the pertinence of the subject, this contest attracted one of the largest audiences of the season. Bertha Ashley and Dorothea Smith represented Wyoming in this discussion.

Evidence of the interest in forensic activity is by the fact that this season there was the largest squad in the last several years. Although it was not possible to use all of them in intercollegiate meets, still their training and experience should be a valuable asset in moulding future teams.

The members of the squad were Bertha Ashley, Dorothea Smith, Alice Ellen Ford, Louise Scott, Marcella Fair, Elsie Gronlund, Olive Cushing, Barbara Faris, Edna Pearl Pendleton, Helen McCormick, Allene Loomis, and Eleanor Buckles.

Smith, Holland, Scott, Ashley.

DEBATE TOURS

JN keeping with the practice of former years, the University of Wyoming sent both a men's and women's debate team on extensive tours. A team composed of Harold Scott and William Holland went to the Pacific Coast, while the women's team made up of Bertha Ashley and Dorothea Smith toured in the opposite direction, meeting six schools in the Middle West.

The men's group debated the subject, "Resolved that the nations of the world should adopt a policy of free trade," and carried both sides of the question. The first debate of the western tour was a non-decision discussion with Occidental College, and opened a series of five debates which were held in Los Angeles. Other teams met were Southwestern University, Southern California, California Tech, U. C. L. A., Redlands, B. Y. U., and Utah.

The women's team, composed of Bertha Ashley and Dorothea Smith, carried through the difficult task of debating two questions with contests on both the negative and affirmative. Teams met included Nebraska, Iowa, McMurray College, and Purdue.

At the meet of the Rocky Mountain Forensic League, held in Boulder, Colorado, April 22-25, Wyoming exhibited formidable strength in the debating division, and tied for first with Colorado Agricultural College. The team which represented Wyoming was composed of Harold Scott and William Holland, after dropping their initial contest by a 2 to 1 decision, swept through the remaining encounters, defeating Colorado University 2 to 1, Montana State 3 to 0, Utah University 2 to 1, and Brigham Young University 3 to 0. Aggies having dropped a debate to Utah, had the same percentage of victories as Wyoming. The results of this meet demonstrated that Wyoming can successfully vie for honors with any university in this region. In the same meet, Stephen K. Vaught placed third in extemporaneous speaking.

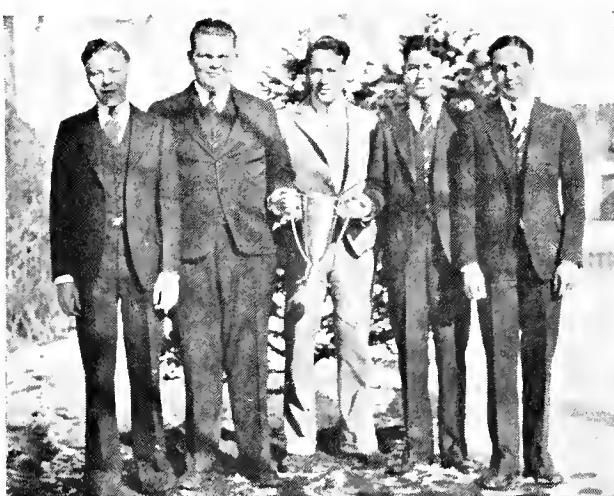

Dolan, Harris, Fair, Barker.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURAL DEBATE

ALPHA CHI OMEGA won the women's intramural debate trophy offered by Senator Kendrick for the year 1930-1931 when both their affirmative and negative teams reached the finals, making a final debate unnecessary. The winning squad was composed of Elizabeth Dolan, Alice Harris, Marcella Fair, and Bernice Barker. The Kendrick trophy must be won three times in succession to become the permanent possession of any organization.

MEN'S INTRAMURAL DEBATE

Nelson, Quealy, Cooper, Millett, Rizzi.

Sigma Nu won the intramural debate competition for men when their negative team, composed of Patrick Quealy, Jr., and George Millett defeated the Wesley Club affirmative team in the finals. As this was the third consecutive time that the Senator Warren trophy was won by Sigma Nu, it becomes the permanent possession of this organization. The defeat of the Sigma Nu affirmative team in the semi-finals marked the first defeat for the organization since the Warren cup was first offered in 1929.

DELTA SIGMA RHO

DELTA SIGMA RHO is a national honorary forensic fraternity which was founded April 13, 1906, at Chicago, by representatives from the Universities of Chicago, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Northwestern. Delta Sigma Rho was established at the University of Wyoming, May 4, 1917.

Because of the high entrance requirements, membership in this organization is of especial significance. In order to be eligible for membership a person must have two years' experience in intercollegiate competition and must be past the middle of the junior year in college.

The sole purpose of Delta Sigma Rho is to foster the development of forensic talent among its members. In addition to being interested in debating on the campus, Delta Sigma Rho encourages this activity in Wyoming high schools by presenting a silver loving cup to each of the members of the winning debate team in the State High School Tournament.

THE 1931 WYO

JN planning the 1931 Wyo, the chief aim of the staff has been to create a volume that would serve as a memory book of the year 1930-1931 for the entire school. With this in mind, no definite theme was carried out in the art work, the division and sub-division pages being designed to reflect the present campus and events of the year as much as possible.

The task of publishing a yearbook is not easy; too much credit cannot be given those faithful members of the staff who have labored to make this book possible. If the errors that are inevitable in a book of this size are not too severely criticized, then the staff may feel that its work has not been in vain.

UNO WILJKE
Business Manager

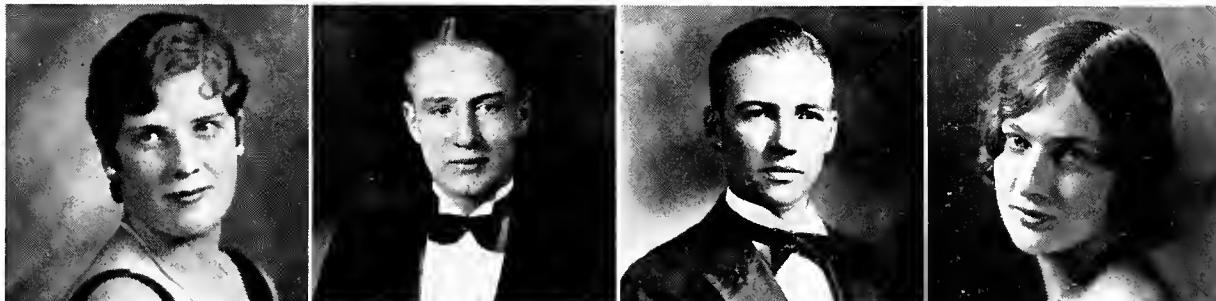

TO deal in facts and figures, to think in terms of contracts and discounts, this is the unromantic duty of the business management. As business manager of the 1931 Wyo, I wish to thank all the members of the staff for the co-operation and the valuable assistance they have given me in the preparation and in the fulfilling of the plans that have helped to make the Wyo. I realize that there have been times when the work has not been exactly pleasant.

And now we retire in favor of the new management, wishing them success.

THE BRANDING IRON

THE Branding Iron, the student newspaper, is published weekly by the Associated Students of the University of Wyoming. It was edited this year by George Holtorf, with Gene Cross as associate editor, and managed by Calvin Owen and James Rennie.

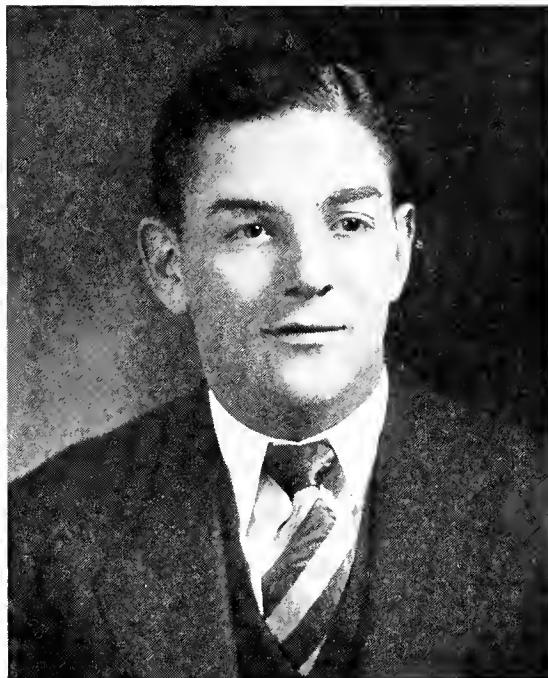

An unusually large number of students sought positions on the staff this year, and many of these, notably several freshmen, did excellent work. This increased interest in journalism promises higher standards of campus journalism in coming years.

The Branding Iron has a three-fold purpose; to disseminate campus news, provide a publicity organ for the University, and to provide training for students interested in journalism. Besides the regular issues, a number of special editions are published each year, including the Curling Iron, a special coed issue, a freshman issue, and a "scandal sheet."

WYOMING QUILL

WYOMING QUILL is the literary publication of the campus, and is published by Thorne Rune of the American College Quill Club, once or twice each year. One issue was distributed this year in March, and marked the eleventh year of publication for Wyoming Quill. Many writers of national reputation have had their first work published by the Quill, notable among these being Ted Olsen, one of whose short stories was chosen for the O'Brien selection of best short stories for 1930, and Olga Moore Arnold, whose writings have appeared in many national magazines, recently.

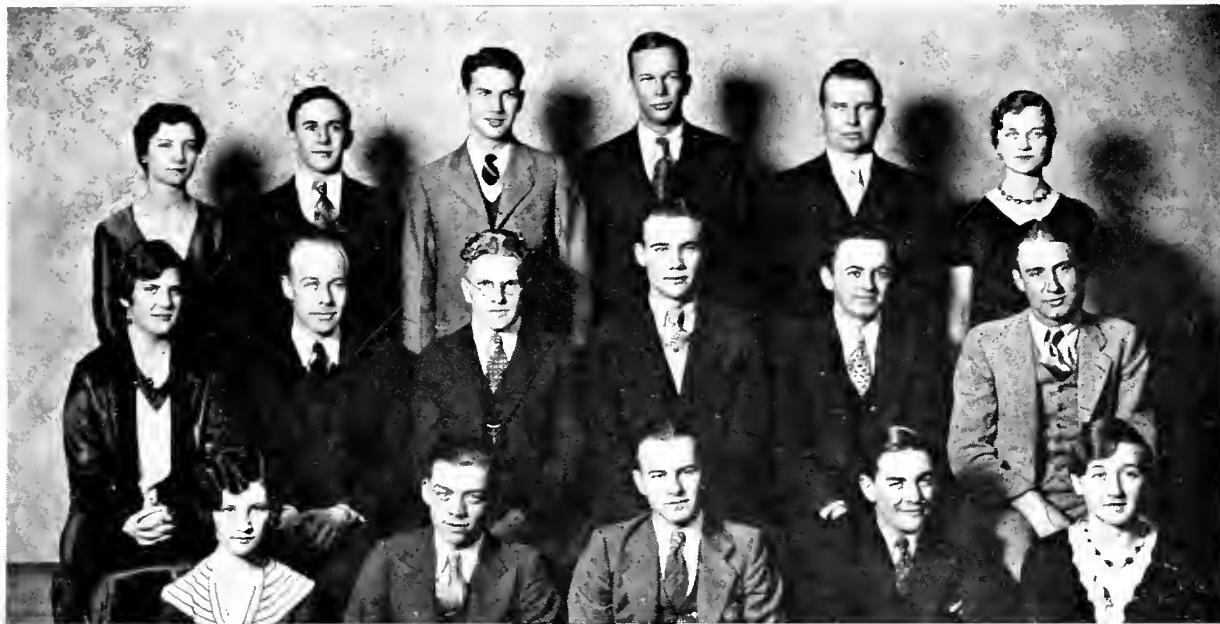

The magazine this year was edited by Marion Rice, and is especially commendable for the variety and literary finish that characterizes the selections. Lorin H. Guild was business manager.

Particularly outstanding among the selections this year were "A Cigarette for Dad," a short story by Lorin Guild, and short stories by Clara F. McIntyre and Molly Peacock. Articles and stories by Louise Rhodes, Margaret Thomas, and Naida Cox are also deserving of mention. Much commendable poetry was contributed by Harry Mills Astin, Mary Lou Heaton, Sara Trousdale, Madeline Parker, Peggy Simson, and Bernice Burton.

STUDENT DIRECTORY

The student directory is published during the fall quarter by the Associated Women Students, and is a book of great service. Under the management of the A. W. S., the book is issued early enough to be of great use to the student body. The Directory contains a complete listing and classification of all students and faculty members, and complete directory of all organizations on the campus. The 1930 issue was edited by Elsie Gronlund.

BLUE PENCIL

DEDICATED to smudges of ink, roar of presses, chatter of linotypes and gibber of typewriters, Blue Pencil, honorary journalistic fraternity, was organized on the University of Wyoming campus in 1922 for the purpose of encouraging interest in journalistic writings, and rewarding excellence of work in that field. Membership is on the point system, points being awarded for the column inches written, proof reading of the paper and an associate editorship of an issue of the Branding Iron. Only those who have done particularly outstanding work on the Branding Iron, whether in editorial, reportorial or managerial capacity are admitted.

QUILL CLUB

AMERICAN COLLEGE QUILL CLUB, which originated at the University of Kansas in 1900, and now has twenty-three runes throughout the country, is one of the outstanding societies of its kind in the collegiate world. Its object is to encourage literary effort and criticism among undergraduates and to further the publication of student work, as well as to provide a common bond for those who are interested in writing. It publishes a magazine, The Parchment, and encourages each rune to issue a magazine annually. Thorn Rune, established at the University of Wyoming in 1915 as the third chapter of Quill Club, has always occupied a leading position in the organization, several of its members having held national offices. It is made up of students and faculty members who are genuinely interested in creative writing, and its meetings, which are held every two weeks, provide training in writing and criticism. Membership is determined by the quality of manuscripts submitted in the try-outs, which are held twice each year.

EASTERN STOCK JUDGING TEAM

THE 1930 Eastern stock judging team, composed of outstanding seniors in the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture, left Laramie on November 8 and was away for a month, returning December 6. The team helped to exhibit the University's prize winning sheep at the Kansas National Live Stock Show at Wichita, and the American Royal Show at Kansas City.

Practice judging work was done at the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan; the Kansas National and American Royal Shows; the Holbert Horse Importing Co., Greeley, Iowa; Purdue University at Lafayette, Indiana, and at the University of Illinois at Urbana.

The team participated in three intercollegiate judging contests, the Kansas National, where they placed sixth, the American Royal, where eleventh place was obtained, and the International Show at Chicago, where they placed thirteenth.

William Fletcher was high point man at the International and American Royal shows, and Jasper Pallesen was high point in the Kansas National contest.

The team was composed of William Fletcher, Thomas Parmalee, Jasper Pallesen, Harry McMillan, John Turner, Don Brown, and Harold Josendahl. The team was coached by S. S. Wheeler.

WESTERN STOCK JUDGING TEAM

THE western stock judging team, composed of juniors in the animal husbandry department, represented the University of Wyoming at the Western National Live Stock Show in Denver, January 24. They placed fifth in the intercollegiate judging contest.

In the sheep judging contest, the Wyoming judges were first, and second place was obtained in the horse judging contest. Besides taking part in judging contests, the team assisted in exhibiting the University live stock, which won numerous prizes.

Bert Kelly and Gerald Osgard placed tenth and eleventh, respectively, in total points among all judges.

The team was coached by M. A. Alexander and was composed of Herbert King, Harold Ward, Charles Sanger, Forest Sorensen, Stewart Kern, Charles Hale, Bert Kelly and Gerald Osgard.

LAMBDA GAMMA DELTA

LAMBDA GAMMA DELTA is a national honorary judging fraternity founded in 1923 at the University of Michigan by members of judging teams who were residing together, and incorporated under the laws of Michigan as a national fraternity for the purpose of admitting into membership active students in land grant colleges who participated in intercollegiate judging contests. The University of Wyoming chapter was the second established, and is known as the J. A. Hill chapter.

There are now ten chapters. Dr. Fred Hultz, head of the department of Animal Husbandry at the University is national president of the organization and sponsor of the local group.

MILITARY

OF WYOMING
R. O. T. C.

MAJOR BEVERLY C. DALY, U. S. A., Ret.
Commanding Officer, R. O. T. C.

THE Cadet Corps is one of the oldest organizations on the campus, dating back from 1891 when a regular officer was first detailed to the University as professor of military science and tactics. From the handful of cadets who wrestled with "present arms" and "squads east" in that dim past the corps has grown until it now numbers well over four hundred, having an advanced course with a strength of forty-five and a basic course of about three hundred and eighty. The Wyoming detachment of the Reserve Officers Training Corps constitutes an infantry battalion.

The last few years has witnessed increased interest and activity in the corps of cadets. The installation of E Company, Seventh Regiment, Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, has raised the interest and improved the work of the Advanced Course.

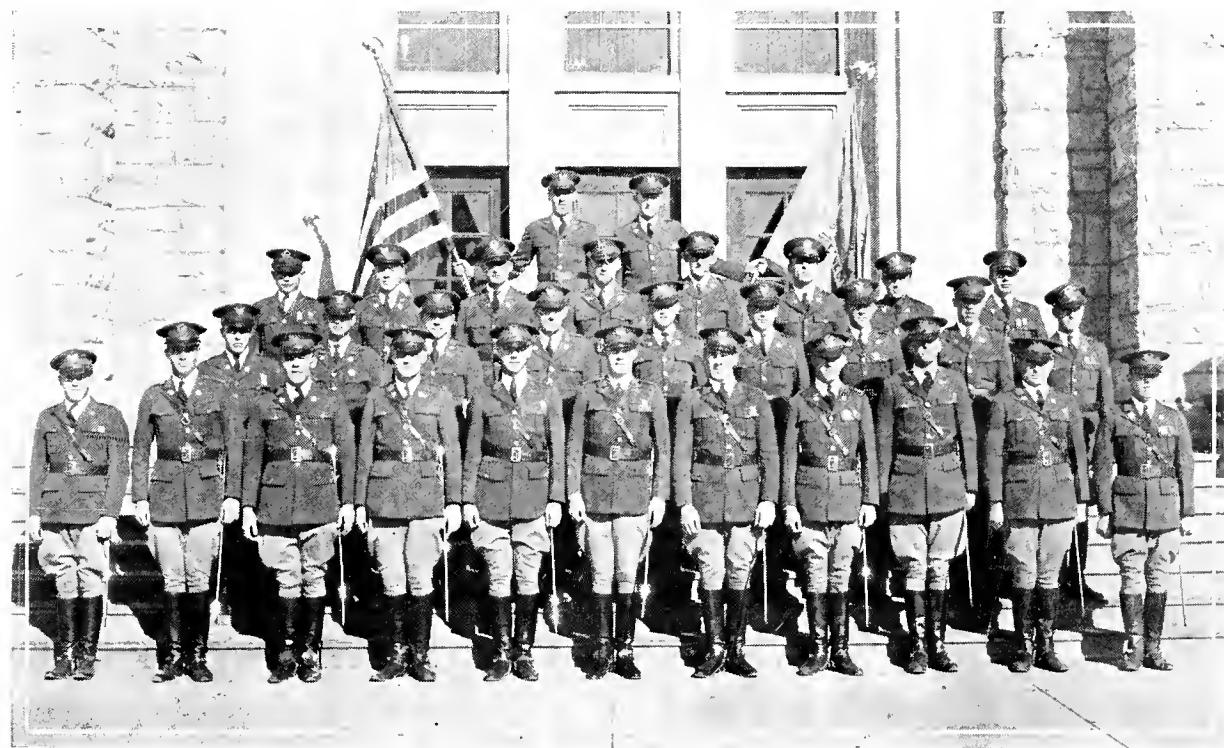

*Sergeant Knieker, Mr. Thompson, Sergeant Glorer.
Major Daly, Capt. Luck, Lieut. Adams, Lieut. Halloek.*

The unit is headed by Major Beverly C. Daly, U. S. Army, Retired, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, who has been in command of the Wyoming unit since 1911. Under his able direction the battalion has developed into one of the outstanding R. O. T. C. units of the country, last year winning the distinguished rating by the War Department.

Assisting Major Daly on the staff are Captain Harry C. Luck, U. S. Army, Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics, who is a newcomer this year, and Lieutenant Charles M. Adams, Jr., U. S. Army, Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Other members of the staff include Second Lieutenant Donald C. Halllock, Reserve Student Assistant, a graduate of the University; Sergeant Charles J. Glover, D. E. M. L., U. S. Army, Enlisted Assistant Instructor; Lewis T. Knicker, Retired, Property Custodian; and Harry W. Thompson, Director of the R. O. T. C. Band.

The unit consists of a battalion of four companies and the band. Company A is commanded by Cadet Captain Harry Bridenstine and Lieutenants Johnson, Sanders and Weissinger. Company B is under command of Cadet Captain Robert Simpson and Lieutenants Bergstrom, Gaddis and Winston. The commander of Company C is Captain Robert Cole, other officers being Lieutenants Koerting and Herrick. Officers of Company D are Captain Victor Mullens and Lieutenants Lippold, Mallalieu, and Rennard. Cadet Harry M. Astin also carries the rank of captain. Drum major of the band is Cadet Sergeant Hilton Dearinger.

Cadet Captain

R. O. T. C. BAND

THE R. O. T. C. Band is an invaluable unit, not only to the Cadet Corps but also to the University in general. In addition to its function in the Military Department, the band renders an estimable contribution to the students of the University and the residents of Laramie by playing for athletic contests, university functions and patriotic observances. This year the band has been furnished with brilliant brown and yellow silk caps and capes, which has added to the appearance of the unit.

RIFLE TEAM

THE Men's Rifle Teams, R. O. T. C., and Varsity, shot exceptionally well this year. Competing in 58 matches, 43 varsity, and 15 R. O. T. C., they won 18 and tied one of the varsity matches and won six of the R. O. T. C. matches. First Lieutenant Charles M. Adams, Infantry, D. O. L., coached the teams, and Chester Hyland was student assistant.

MILITARY ACTIVITIES 1930-1931

THE year 1930-1931 has been noted for many advances within the military organization. Last spring, in particular, meant more than the ability to desert the armory for the "wide open spaces," for much activity brought the Military Department into the limelight. The annual War Department inspection resulted in the local unit winning the long hoped for and important "distinguished rating." The winning of this rating indicates that the infantry unit of the R. O. T. C. at Wyoming is one outstanding among those in the country. As a token of their excellence, the members of the unit are entitled to wear white stars on a blue background on the right sleeves of their uniforms, the symbol of distinguished rating.

Each spring the corps gives its "Honor Parade," at which time trophies, donated by civic organizations and merchants of Laramie, are awarded to the cadets and cadet officers for their skill and ability. This practice has greatly influenced and improved the corps. At the Honor Parade, held last spring, the following prizes and medals were distributed: Jack E. Stenberg, a sabre and Sam Brown belt, given by the Rotary Club, for being the most outstanding cadet officer; Victor I. Mullens, a wrist watch, given by the Midwest Trunk and Sporting Goods Company to the most outstanding first year Advanced Course student; Alfred Jack Richard, a gold medal, offered by the Boosters Club for the most outstanding Basic Course student; for individual competitive drill three medals offered by the Lyons Club: 1st place, gold medal to Franklin Winter; 2nd place, silver medal to Hugh Dessert; 3rd place, bronze medal to Stephen Angelovic. Corporal Franklin Winter's squad of Company A won the squad competitive drill and medals presented by the Morgan F. Knadler Post of the United States War Veterans were awarded to the corporal and the squad members. Medals were also presented to the members of the Girls' Rifle Team by the Kiwanis Club.

Company B won the company competition, and was designated as the color company for the present year.

Summer camp, a big event in the lives of the Advanced students, was spent in 1930 at Fort George Wright, Washington. This beautiful but small fort is located just outside Spokane, and the natural beauty and rugged terrain make it an ideal location for the study of military science and tactics.

With the opening of the fall quarter, returning students found new, distinctive uniforms awaiting them. These were a great improvement over previous ones, and added greatly to the appearance of the unit. Later, leather belts with the Wyoming seal on the brass buckle were purchased for the entire corps, and replaced the old web belts to great advantage. The band, too, has been dressed up during the year, and what with their new brown and yellow silk capes and caps make quite an appearance on parade.

The twenty-ninth annual Cadet Ball, held February 13, was one of the big social events of the year. The big gymnasium was colorfully decorated in militaristic-futuristic style, and with subdued flood lights made a veritable garden of color over the entire gymnasium. Several hundred couples attended, including officers and their ladies from Fort Warren, and cadet officers from Colorado Agricultural College and Colorado School of Mines.

Drilling at Fort George Wright—the local unit on parade for the legislature—some field work at Fort Wright—the summer drillers at ease—General Howland visits the corps—a machine gunner aiming the wrong direction—the R. O. T. C. band steps out in Cheyenne—a popular tent at Fort Wright.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

S COMPANY, Seventh Regiment, of the national society of Scabbard and Blade, was installed at the University of Wyoming on June 4, 1929, by H Company, Fourth Regiment, of Colorado Agricultural College. It replaced the local honorary military society, Forward Echelon, which had been founded here on March 22, 1925.

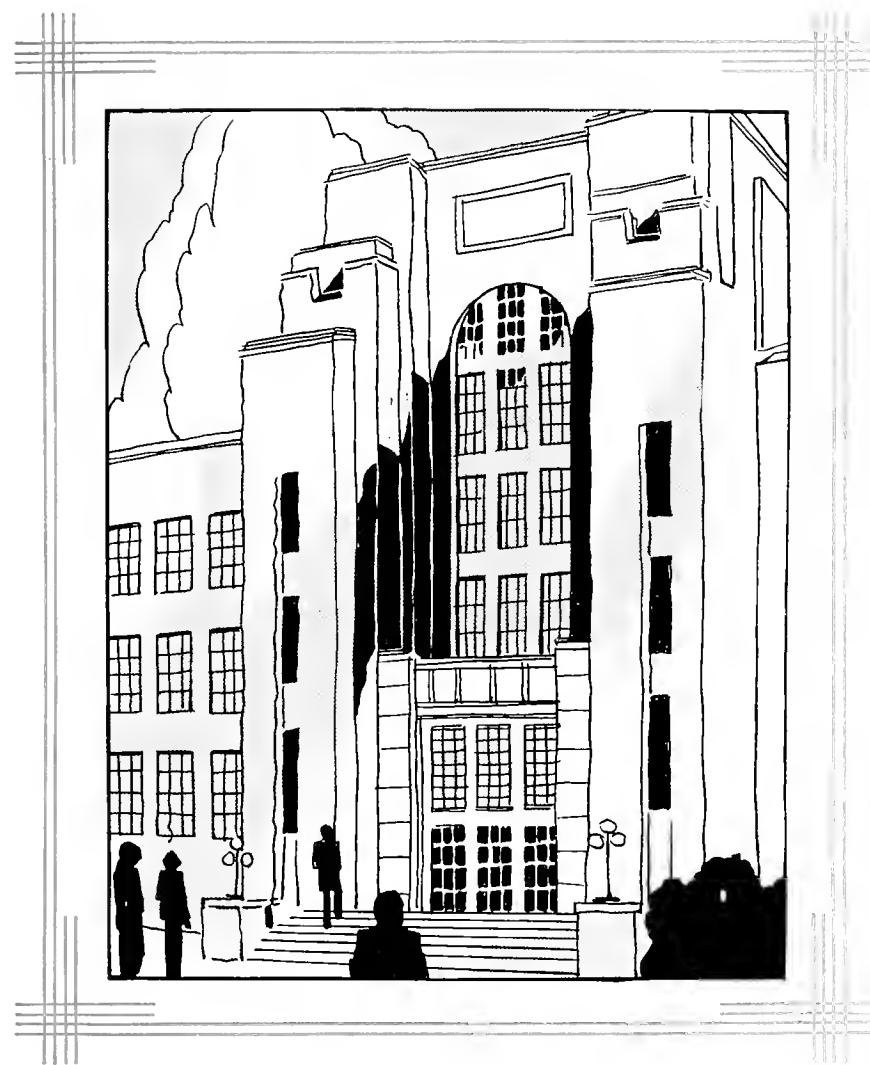

Scabbard and Blade is a national military society made up of selected cadet officers at colleges and universities where there are companies of the society. At present there are seventy-eight companies at as many different institutions offering baccalaureate degrees. The society was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1905, with the formation of A Company, First Regiment.

The purpose of Scabbard and Blade is to raise the standard of military training in American colleges and universities, to unite in closer relationship their military departments, to encourage and foster the essential qualities of good and efficient officers and to promote intimacy and good fellowship among the cadet officers. The society offers trophies each year for rifle and pistol competition between R. O. T. C. units.

HIGH SCHOOL WEEK

COACH JOHN CORBETT

Coach John Corbett, who founded the state high school tournament fourteen years ago, and under whose direction it has grown from a small meet that was easily held in the old little red gymnasium to an affair that now taxes the capacity of the Half Acre.

Cheyenne, winner of State Basketball Title.

HIGH SCHOOL WEEK

THE Fourteenth Annual University of Wyoming High School Week, staged during the spring vacation, was one of the largest and most successful ever held since their inception in 1917, over 700 high school boys and girls from 63 Wyoming high schools taking part. The High School Weeks have proven to be a remarkably successful way to provide personal contact between the University and the high school students of the state. They have played a large part in the rapid growth of the University in the last decade. Each year the campus is transformed into a miniature city, as from six to seven hundred contestants, and as many other visitors, descend upon the University to be its guests for a week.

Forty-nine basketball teams entered the tournament this year, which was but three less than the previous year, in spite of the new method of classification which cut down the number of teams eligible for the state championship. The teams were divided into four classes, one championship class, and three classes determined by the male enrollment of the high schools. Entrants in the championship class were determined by district tournaments except in the southwest district, where the entrants were picked on the basis of season's records. Play in the championship class was on the so-called Hicks plan, providing for one defeat elimination and a consolation tournament for the losers in the first round, in order to give every team entered a chance to play in at least two games. Classes B, C, and D played on the usual two game elimination plan, which has been the custom of the tourney for many years. The winner of the championship class was automatically the state champion.

Unlike the year before, when the tournament was from the start a race between Wheatland and the rest of the field, there was no outstanding favorite for the title, all the teams being evenly matched on their season records.

Hanna, winners Class B.

Byron won the consolation tourney with little difficulty save for the final game with Cowley. The consolation semi-final game between Cowley and Buffalo, which the former won after three extra periods, was one of the feature games of the tournament.

The teams entered in the championship class were Rock Springs, Lyman, Kemmerer, Casper, Cheyenne, Laramie, Wheatland, Evanston, Glenrock, Byron, Cowley, Worland, Lander, Gillette, Buffalo, and Sundance.

Play in class B soon resolved itself into a duel between Hanna and Rawlins, these teams dominating the class, although Lusk, Preps, and Green River had good teams. Both teams defeated each other during the early games of the tournament, and met in the finals, Hanna emerging the victor, 17 to 14. The teams in this division were Torrington, Rawlins, Lusk, Jackson, Green River, Superior, Basin, Preps, Hanna, and Lingle.

Cokeville proved to be the class of class C, going through the tournament without a defeat, although Chugwater forced the title game into an extra period before succumbing to the steadier play of Cokeville. Guernsey and Manderson made good records in class C. Other teams entered in class C were Pine Bluffs, Saratoga, Hillsdale, Glendo, and Upton.

Teams in class D were more closely matched than any of the others, and no favorite ruled even to the final game. One and two point victories were the rule in this division. Carpenter won by defeating Egbert 17 to 9 in the finals. But four games in class D were decided by more than 20 points. Veteran, with but eight male students enrolled and winner the previous year, made a good showing, but could not quite take the title. But four games in class D were decided by more than 20 points. The entrants in this class were Baggs, Carpenter, Hawk Springs,

Cheyenne, the winner of the title, proved themselves to be the best tournament team, although their games with Rock Springs in the semi-finals, and Laramie in the finals, were closer than the scores of 19 to 11 and 28 to 17 would indicate. Kemmerer and Byron both showed themselves to be strong teams and had Byron displayed the form in their first game that they did in the consolation tournament, they might have gone far.

Cokeville, winners Class C.

Fort Laramie, Iowa Center, Medicine Bow, Rock River, Veteran, Egbert, Encampment, Big Piney, and McFadden.

The official all-state honor team, picked by the varsity basketball of the University, this year consisted of Robert Stine, Cheyenne, and Frank Ferrarini, Kemmerer, forwards; George Hittner, Laramie, center; Don Tottenhoff, Cheyenne, captain and guard; L. Pentila, Rock Springs, guard, and Jack Clark, Laramie, utility. The second team was Donald Young, Kemmerer, and Earl Wilkinson, Cheyenne, forwards; Jesse Smith, Evanston, center; Don Titus, Wheatland, and E. Radakovich, Rock Springs, guards.

Sixteen schools from all over the state were represented among the winners in the academic contests, which drew the largest number of entrants in the history of the tournament. Debate teams from 28 schools were entered in the tournament, which was won by Rock Springs, represented by Lavina Postel and Elwood Heiner. Laramie, represented by Jack Woodford and Phil Hurwitz, was runner-up.

Winners in other academic events were as follows: Reading, Sadie Mae Boggs, Sheridan, first; Tammy McDonald, Greybull, second. Essay, Helen Mills, Wheatland, first; Kenneth Poch, Pine Bluffs, second. Oratory, Gray Bream, Casper, first; Katherine Absher, Torrington, Maxine Mitchell, Powell, tied for second. The winner of the special essay prize, instituted by the Wyoming Federation of Women's Clubs, was won by Betty Jackson of Newcastle.

First place in the piano contest was won by Zella Wyatt of Casper, second place going to George Miles of Torrington. The violin contest was won by Olga Sarcletti of Rock Springs, with Alfred Mokler, Thermopolis, second. Voice, Dolly Boullette, Lander, first; William Purdy, Kemmerer, second.

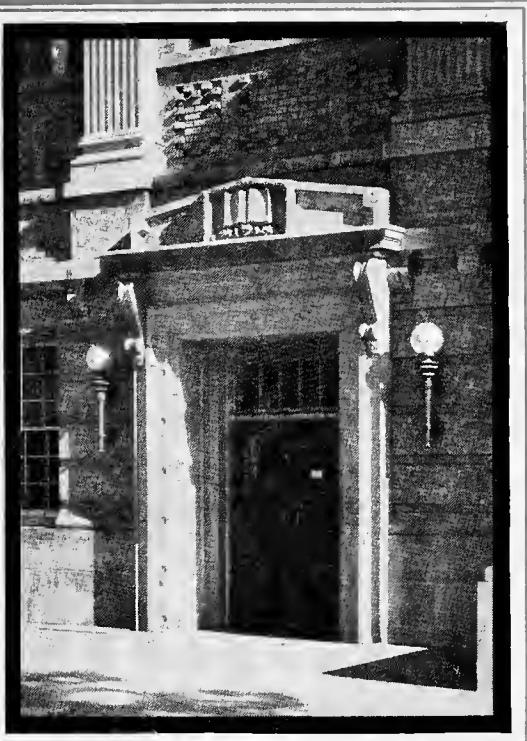

Winners in Academic Contests.

Carpenter, winners Class D.

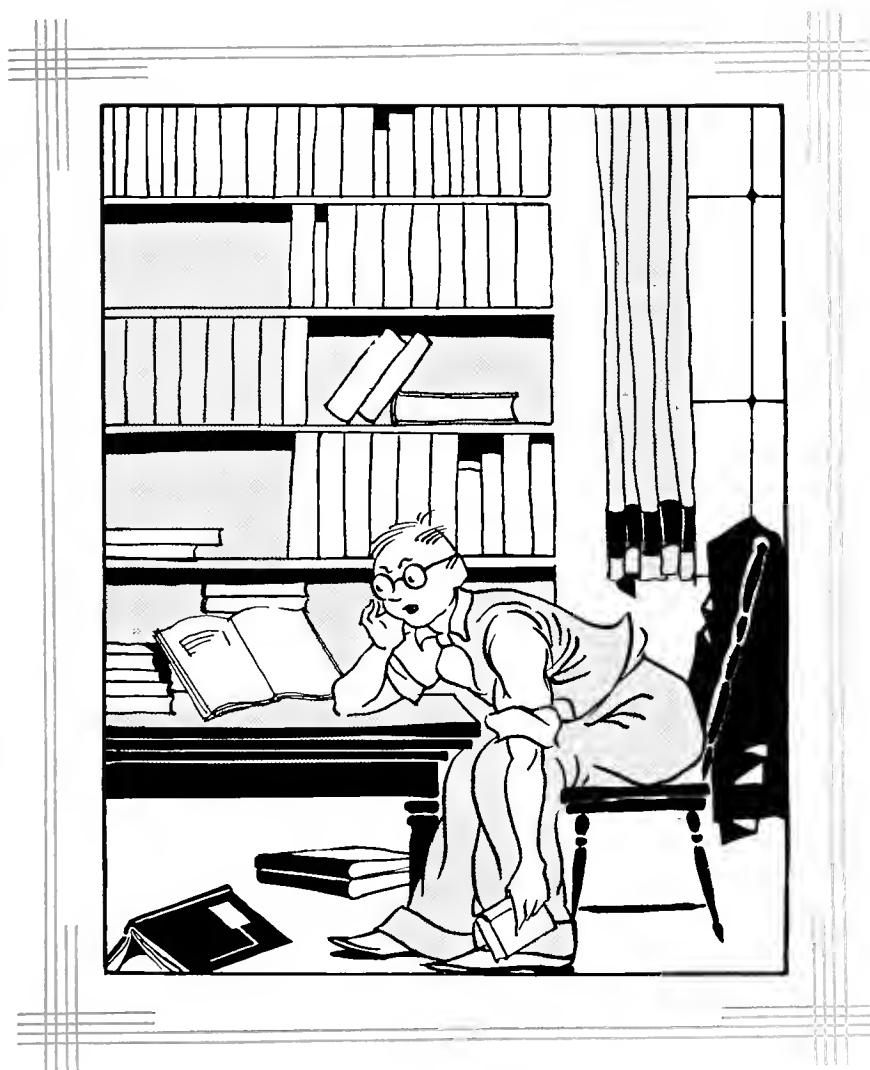

In the commerce contests, Walter Scott of Gillette, won first place in the novice typewriting contest, followed by Ralph Sundin of Rawlins. Miss Helen Tarver, also of Gillette, won first in the amateur typewriting contest, and Elaine Cook of Evanston was second. Amateur shorthand went to Myrtle Clusler of Laramie, with Angela Kershisnick of Rock Springs, second.

SCHOLASTIC HONORARIES

PHI KAPPA PHI

PHİ KAPPA PHI is a national honorary scholarship fraternity composed of professors, graduate and undergraduate students elected from all departments or colleges of the university in which a chapter is located. The number of undergraduate members is restricted to not exceeding the upper one-fifth of the graduating class, who have distinguished themselves by scholarship, character and service in their college or university.

Phi Kappa Phi was organized in 1898 at the University of Maine by men who saw the need of an honor society formed on broader lines than any then in existence. Its primary object is to emphasize scholarship in the thought of college students, to hold fast to the original purpose for which it was founded, and to stimulate mental achievement by the prize of membership. The fraternity has expanded until there are now 45 chapters. The local chapter was established in 1922.

SIGMA XI

SIGMA XI was founded in 1886 at Cornell University by a group of scientists with the intention of establishing in scientific and technical institutions a society, the badge of which should have the same significance of scholarly merit as that of Phi Beta Kappa among classical students.

The society has fifty-two chapters and a membership of about 20,000. The main essential to this organization is high scholarship, but character and promise of advancement in scientific fields are also taken into consideration. Various chapters specialize in different kinds of work, some emphasizing research work and experimentation, some aiding in the interpretation of science to the general public, while others work for social contacts between the scientific workers. The Wyoming chapter stresses research and experimentation.

The local chapter was installed in 1929, a charter being granted to the Science Club, which for some years had been active on the Wyoming campus.

PHI EPSILON KAPPA

PHI EPSILON KAPPA is a national honorary fraternity organized for the purpose of fostering physical education and sponsoring athletics. This fraternity has for its main purpose the idea of developing students and the history of physical education. It attempts to bring athletics to a higher level and sponsors clean, sportsmanlike conduct in athletics.

This fraternity is found in all the state universities of the country, including Michigan, Wisconsin, Montana, Oregon, California, and Idaho. Some chapters are found in other universities over the country. It brings together these institutions as far as physical education and athletics are concerned.

To be a member of this fraternity the individual must be interested in athletics or a student of physical education. Usually physical education majors and minors are members in this fraternity but anyone interested in athletics and physical education may be eligible for membership in Phi Epsilon Kappa fraternity.

The local chapter was founded in 1927 and has been active in university affairs since.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON

PHUpsilon Omicron, national home economics honorary fraternity, was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1909. Delta Chapter was installed on this campus in 1915. There are now fifteen chapters. This organization has never been large, due to rigid entrance requirements, but has been very active.

This fraternity was founded to promote Home Economics activities on the campuses on which chapters were established. New members are chosen from the sophomore class to become active in the junior year. Miss Elizabeth J. McKittrick is adviser for the group and is an honorary member affiliated with Delta Chapter. Mrs. Verna Johanneson Hitchcock, also of this campus, was elected national president of the fraternity at National Conclave held at Trout-Dale-in-the-Pines, Colorado. Delta Chapter was hostess at this conclave.

Each year Phi U offers a scholarship to the most outstanding freshman girl in Home Economics. This award is made near the close of the year at the Honor Assembly. This year saw the completion and publication of the High Altitude Cookbook, on which the group has been working for the past year.

SPURS

SPURS is a national honorary sophomore girls' organization founded in 1922 at Montana State College. There are chapters in colleges throughout the western states, thirteen in all.

It has for its purpose the promotion of school spirit and the support of all activities in which the student body participates, the fostering of loyalty and a spirit of helpfulness among the women of the university, and the upholding of all traditions of the College. Spurs, in addition, has many traditions—to give a pep dance each fall, to assist with High School Week, and to attend all athletic contests in a body. This year, Spurs has been conspicuous in its support of the basketball team.

IRON SKULL

BEWARE! The Red and Green Eyes of the Iron Skull Are Upon You." Iron Skull is an honorary sophomore society formed on the Wyoming campus in 1919 for the purpose of promoting and upholding the traditions, athletics, and scholarship of the University. The organization was at first open only to men, but in 1921 the group reorganized and admitted women. 1921 also brought the establishment of a traditional "Iron Skull Skid," held each May, at which time bids are given to twenty-five freshmen, who, by their scholarship, activity in college organizations, pep, and recognized leadership, have acquired the highest number of campus-activity points, thereby gaining the attention of the sophomores.

Following the Skid, which is traditionally unique, an impressive pledging ceremony is held on the roof of Old Main. Initiation is held the following fall.

BIG SISTERS

THE Big Sister organization, which is a branch of the Associated Women Students, was introduced on the University of Wyoming Campus in 1925. At that time there were only two members; now the group consists of eighteen upperclass women. The purpose of the organization is freshmen orientation.

Members of Big Sisters are chosen from the freshman class and are active during their sophomore year. Selection is made from the various groups on the campus to enable the members to come in contact with every new student. The Big Sisters are especially active at the beginning of the fall term, and do much to help new students adapt themselves to the campus.

AG CLUB is made up of wide-awake students of the Ag College who wish to make the most of their college training. Meetings are held twice a month, at which time entertainment is provided by eminent speakers who discuss important problems of modern agriculture. The Ag Club backs the live stock judging teams, aiding them financially and securing medals for the freshmen of high rank in the annual freshman judging contest.

When freshmen enrolling in the College of Agriculture arrive to begin school at the University the club members aid them in registering and in becoming located comfortably. The Ag Club gives a beefsteak fry each fall in a popular retreat in the hills, where the new members become acquainted with the faculty and older members. Another beefsteak fry is held near the end of the school year. At this time plans for the next year are discussed and the seniors are given a send-off.

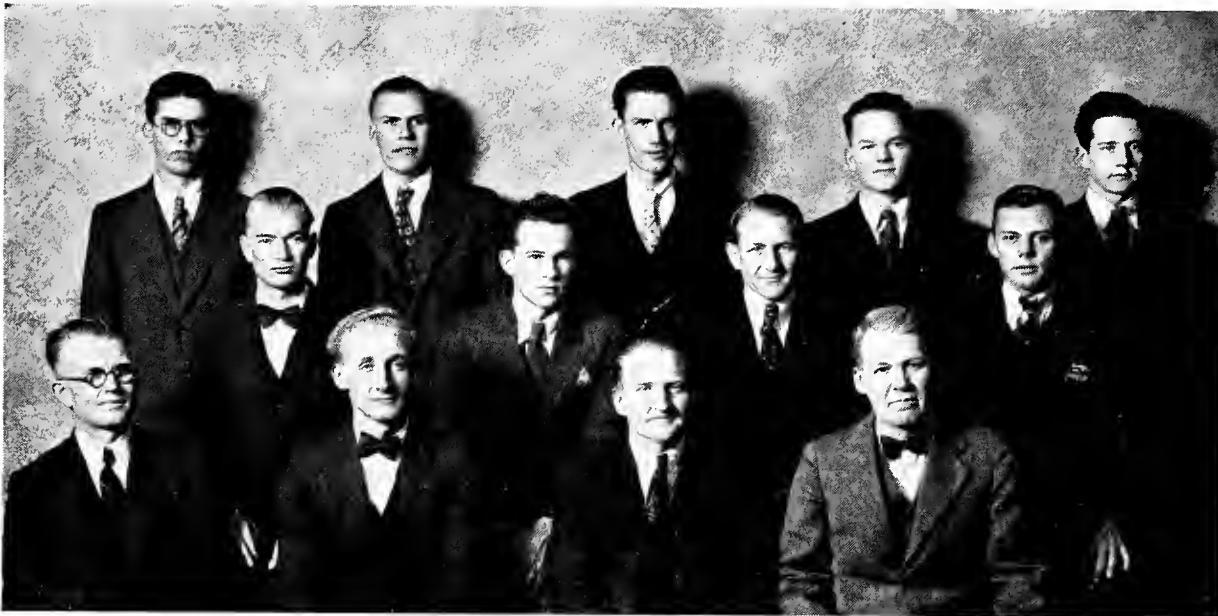

The annual Ag Club dance, held at the stock farm each fall, is one of the most popular dances of the year, being sponsored entirely by the Ag Club.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY

THE Engineering Society of the University of Wyoming is an organization of students from all branches of the Engineering College, having for its purpose the encouragement and supervision of engineering activities. It is mainly through its efforts that the traditional Engineers' Ball and Engineers' Open House have been so successful in the past.

The society has constructed a large duplicate of their pin which is electrically illuminated and when placed on the front the building attracts much attention. Meetings are held twice a month, at which times talks pertaining to engineering problems are given. Very often motion pictures on engineering subjects have been shown.

KAPPA PHI

KAPPA PHI CLUB, national Methodist sisterhood, was founded at Kansas University in 1916. Wyoming Eta Chapter, one of twenty chapters, was installed in 1919.

The organization aims to promote religious training and fellowship among Methodist college women through each chapter's bi-weekly meeting, the monthly publication, The Candle Beam, and an annual grand council.

Social activities also constitute a part of the Kappa Phi program, including teas, parties, and banquets.

At present Kappa Phi has thirty-five active members on its chapter roll.

IRRATIONAL CLUB

THE Irrational Club is an organization for all students who are interested in mathematics. It meets every two weeks, at which time various topics are discussed which are of particular interest to mathematics students. Talks are given both by the members of the club and also outside faculty members.

The club has one social meeting each quarter. In the fall, the first meeting takes the form of a get-acquainted party. During the winter quarter there is another social gathering which, this year, was a George Washington party. And last, but far from being the least, comes the big beefsteak fry in the spring, which is the one meeting of the year claiming full attendance.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

THE Pre-Medical Club is a local organization founded to promote better scholastic attainment, an opportunity for cultural expansion and appreciation of medical work, and general good fellowship among all students taking pre-medical, pre-pharmacy, pre-dental and zoology as a major subject at the University of Wyoming.

Its scholastic aim is fostered by Theta Nu, a national pre-medical honorary society on the campus. Members of this organization at present are James Simon, Waldo Wiseman and Charles Thompson.

The Pre-Medical Club meetings are held once a month at which times various interesting speakers have been obtained. Among those during the year have been Mrs. Cockerell of Colorado University, who gave an illustrated lecture on medical work in foreign countries; Dr. Hunt and Dr. DeKay on different phases of medicine, and Miss Maltoon of the Ivinston Hospital on hospital work at Camp Meade, Georgia. Social meetings have also been held occasionally during the year.

VARSITY VILLAGERS

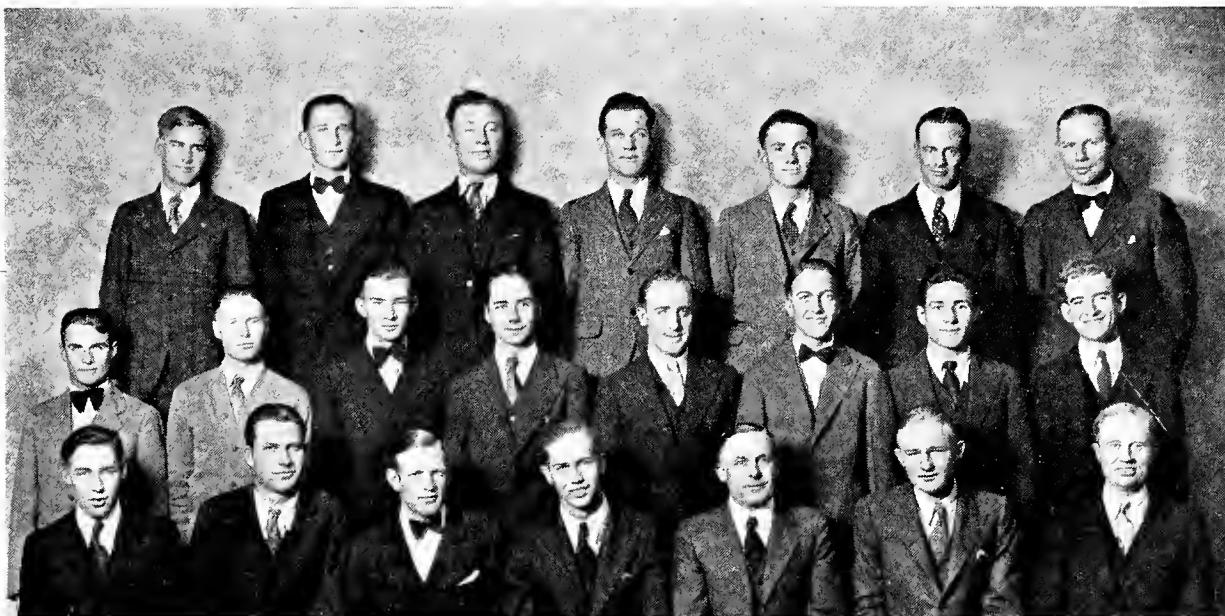

VARSITY VILLAGERS is a local organization made up of girls who either live in Laramie, or are making their home in town during the school year. The group was organized six years ago for the purpose of bringing town girls in a closer contact with campus life. Last year it was reorganized under a new constitution and since then has made rapid strides forward and is now recognized as one of the leading social units on the campus.

During this year a successful effort has been made in promoting social activities as well as those scholastic. Teas, dances, informal parties and a picnic have made up the social program.

This year's active group numbers more than in any previous year, and many of the most active members rank high scholastically, and have been active in extra-curricular activities such as debate, Quill Club, Alpha Zeta Pi, Branding Iron, Cap and Gown, Spurs, Blue Pencil, Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, Big Sisters, and Delta Sigma Rho.

WYOMING WESLEYAN FRATERNITY

WYOMING WESLEY is a local fraternity, organized to promote a closer bond of fellowship and interest, and to advance campus activities among the men students of Methodist preference in the University. Eligibility is based on scholarship, leadership, sportsmanship, and advancement of Christian ideals. It was founded in the fall of 1930 and is aiming for the national Methodist fraternity, Phi Tau Theta. During the past year a basket ball team and two debate teams were entered in the intramurals at the University. One of the debate teams, Gordon Tate and Willis King, came through victorious to the final debate, losing a close contest to the holders of the Warren trophy. The basket ball team got under way rather late in the season, but furnished lively competition for their opponents. At the end of the season they played the Wesley Foundation team of Fort Collins.

SORORITIES

PI BETA PHI

PI BETA PHI, recognized by the national Pan-Hellenic Congress as being the first national fraternity for women was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, April 28, 1867. The organization was then called the I. C. Sorosis. In 1888 the name was changed to Pi Beta Phi and in 1889 the fraternity chapter was established as a national organization. Wyoming Alpha Chapter was established in 1910. Pi Beta Phi now has 75 chapters and a membership of 20,220. Publication is "The Arrow."

Among the famous members of the fraternity are Mrs. Calvin Coolidge; Carrie Chapman Catt, American leader of woman suffrage; Gladys Henry Schick; Florence Schee Robnett, dean of women at Northwestern University. Dr. Grace Raymond Hebard was instrumental in forming the local chapter and was actively affiliated with the group as chapter advisor. Among the prominent alumnae of the local chapter are: Mary B. Wilson, New York business woman, Agnes Matilda Wergeland, noted former history instructor of the University of Wyoming and Louise Price, editor.

Members of Pi Beta Phi have been active in dramatics, Quill Club, Branding Iron, and Wyo work, music, debate, Cap and Gown and have held important A. S. U. W. offices.

INSTALLATION OF SIGMA CHI

SIGMA CHI'S 90th chapter replaced the Independent Club on the University of Wyoming campus, October 24, 1930, when the fraternity national officers and delegates from the Rocky Mountain chapters effected the formal installation of Gamma Xi.

The Wyoming Sigma Chis were especially favored on the occasion by the visit of a fine representation of eminent men, not only outstanding in the fraternity, but in the public life of today. Mr. A. P. Thomson, acted officially as installing officer; he was assisted by leading men of the fraternity, including Milton H. Love of Salt Lake City; Cloyd F. Woolley of Denver; Dr. Joseph C. Nate, John S. McMillin, Frank L. Grant, John C. McClain, Sigma Chis living in Wyoming; and active members of the chapters at Colorado Aggies and Colorado University.

Preparatory plans were begun October 22 and were conducted by George D. Luther, national secretary, and A. L. Putnam, chapter advisor to the new chapter.

The installation and initiation ceremonies took place in the Laramie I. O. O. F. lodge hall. Fifty-six men, 26 actives and 30 alumni, were initiated at this time.

The installation banquet, at the Connor Hotel immediately followed the initiation ceremony. The new members were favored by addresses by the distinguished visitors, Norris Embree, local president, Jack Adams, alumni representative, President A. G. Crane, and Dean Justice F. Soule.

The formal installation dance was given by the new chapter at Gray's Gables the following evening. The dance was attended by representatives of the other fraternities on the campus and by members of the faculty.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA INSTALLATION

Beta Kappa, the fifty-fifth chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, was installed at the University of Wyoming, October 23, 1931. The local group, Delta Phi Sigma, was pledged on the evening preceding formal initiation. A reception was given by the new chapter, on Friday afternoon of installation week, for faculty members, students and townspeople, and a banquet and dance was held later in the evening at Gray's Gables. The local Pan-Hellenic entertained at a breakfast the following Saturday morning at the Connor Hotel for the members and pledges of the new chapter and the national officers.

The installing officers were: Mrs. Gilbert Van Auken, national president; Mrs. Peyton Wemyss-Smith, national inspector; and Mrs. Vernon Jeurink, Colorado Alumnae chairman. Active and alumnae members from Boulder, Denver, and Cheyenne attended the installation ceremonies and social functions of the week.

FRATERNITIES

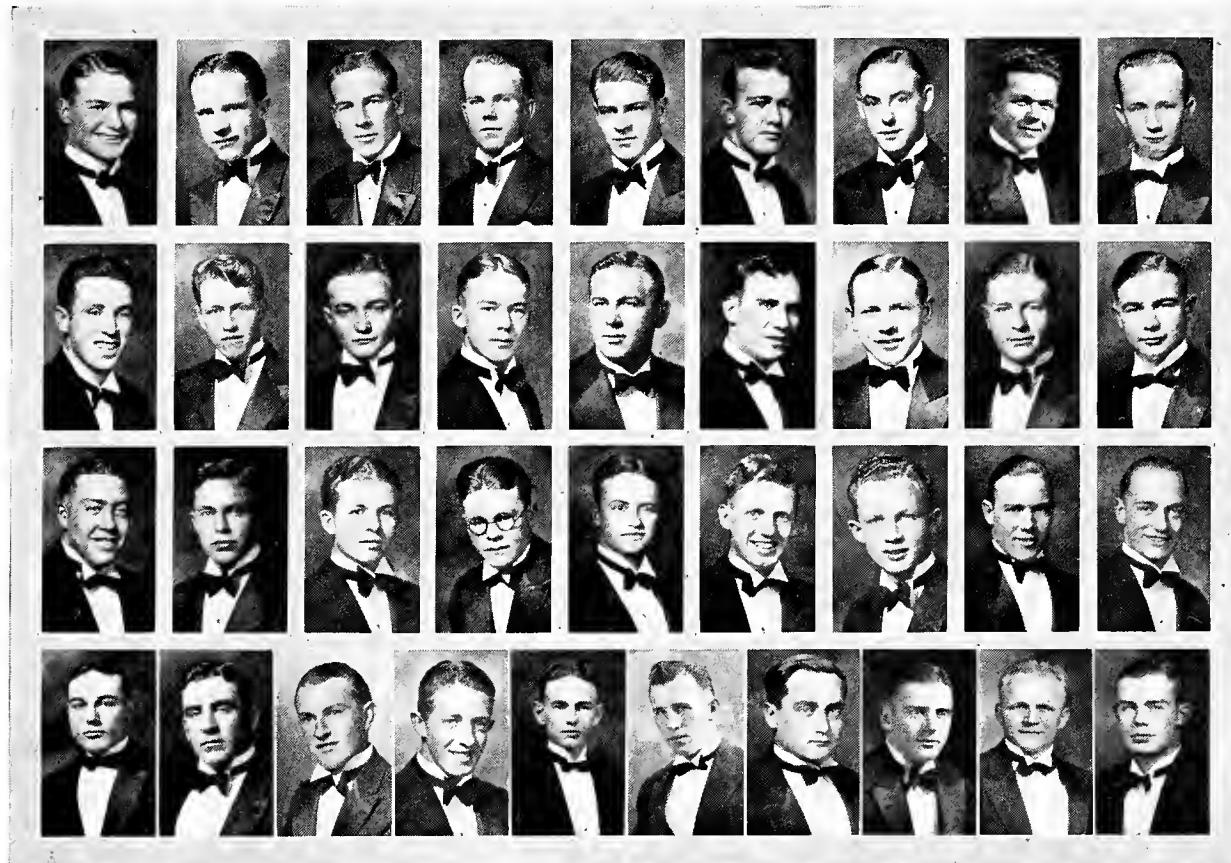

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

ALPHA TAU OMEGA was founded at Richmond, Virginia, September 11, 1865, by Otis Alla Grazebrook, Alfred Marshall and Erskine Mayo Ross. It was the first fraternity founded after the Civil War and was projected as a national organization. Installed in 1913, the Wyoming chapter was named "Wyoming Gamma Psi." There are 91 active chapters of the fraternity and a total membership of approximately 25,000. A congress of the chapters meets biennially. Publication is The Palm.

Prominent members of the fraternity include Irving Bacheller, author; Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men, University of Illinois; R. L. Bullard, Major General, United States Army; Thomas W. Gregory, former U. S. Attorney General; B. S. Hopkins, professor of chemistry and discoverer of Element 61; Robert E. Vinson, president of Western Reserve University; Robert Lee Williams, former Governor and Chief Justice of Oklahoma.

Prominent alumni of the local chapter are Tracy McCracken, editor of the Wyoming Eagle, and Arthur Taliaferro, attorney.

Active members of Alpha Tau Omega are engaged in work on the Wyo, Branding Iron and Theta Alpha Phi plays. They are represented in football, swimming, boxing, and wrestling. Important A. S. U. W. and class offices are held by members of this fraternity.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON was founded at the University of Alabama, March 9, 1856, by eight students. Chief of these was Noble Leslie De Votie, who had written the ritual, devised the grip and chosen the name. The fraternity was designed to be national in extent and had seven chapters before the end of the year 1857. Wyoming Alpha Chapter was installed January 26, 1917. At present the fraternity has 106 active chapters and approximately 34,000 members. The publication of Sigma Alpha Epsilon is The Record.

Prominent members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon include former Secretary of War J. M. Dickinson, United States Senator Pat Harrison, "Bobby" Jones, Governor William Brandon of Alabama, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada. Prominent alumni of the local chapter are: Carl F. Arnold, Professor of Law, University of Wyoming; Dr. Samuel H. Knight, head of Department of Geology, University of Wyoming; E. Deane Hunton, head of Division of Commerce, University of Wyoming; and Lewis J. Holliday, president of the Board of Trustees, Laramie Public Schools.

Active members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are well represented in football, basket ball and track, and in work on the Wyo and Branding Iron. Several class officers and places on the debate team are also held by members of this group.

SIGMA NU

SIGMA NU was founded at Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Virginia, January 1, 1869, by James F. Hopkins, Greenfield Quarles and James M. Riley. The local chapter was installed October 29, 1920. There are 96 active chapters and approximately 28,000 members. Publication is The Delta.

Prominent alumni of the fraternity are: United States Senators George of Georgia, Patterson of Missouri, Steck of Iowa, Steiwer of Oregon, Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore College; Harry W. Chase, president, University of Illinois; Zane Grey, novelist. Well known alumni of the local chapter include: Ralph Conwell, University of Wyoming Faculty; Herbert Woodman, member of Elihu Root's law firm, and Ralph E. McWhinnie, registrar, University of Wyoming.

Members of Sigma Nu have gained recognition in debate, football, basketball, swimming, and track. Outstanding work has been done by members of Sigma Nu on the Wyo, and Quill Club. The chapter as a whole stands high in scholarship and has been awarded the Gallaher cup for the year 1929 as a result of maintaining the highest scholastic average of any chapter in the Sigma Nu fraternity.

SIGMA CHI

SIGMA CHI was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, June 28, 1855, by James Parks Caldwell, Thomas Cowan Bell, Daniel William Cooper, Isaac M. Jordon, William Lewis Lockwood, Benjamin Platt Runkle, and Franklin Howard Scoby. Gamma Xi was installed October 24, 1930. At the present time there are 91 active chapters and a total membership of about 28,000 men in the national organization. The publication is The Magazine of Sigma Chi.

Prominent members of the fraternity include Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; Booth Tarkington, nationally known author; George Ade, humorist; George McCutcheon, cartoonist; and John Studebaker, manufacturer.

Sigma Chi at Wyoming has been well represented in intramural competition this year, having won two sports out of the first five entered. Members of the fraternity have gained recognition on the Wyoming football, basket ball, and track squads this year. The editor of the Branding Iron is a member. Many honorary societies on the campus have representatives of the local chapter.

DELTA MU ALPHA

SIX men, on October 21, 1922, founded the local fraternity of Delta Mu Alpha. Among the charter members who have shown success and high calibre in the business world are G. Edward Pendray, daily picture editor, the New York Herald-Tribune, contributor to many magazines under the pen name of "Gwain Edwards," author of "The Earth Tube"; E. A. Blanchard, member of the legal staff, Union Pacific R. R.; James Pryde, California aviation promoter; Joel Nelson, oil operator; and H. H. Higgins, coach of U. W.'s national collegiate champion debating team in 1924, instrumental in advising the original six.

Purchase of a new and adequately furnished fraternity home has been an accomplishment of the group this year. Major athletics and intramural and minor sports have been well represented in Delta Mu Alpha members. Class organizations and honoraries have chosen officers and members from this fraternity.

Members are well represented on the Branding Iron, debate, Rifle Team tumbling, Theta Alpha Phi, Blue Pencil, and hold several class offices.

ATHLETIC ADMINISTRATION

JOHN R. RHODES
Athletic Director

BEHIND all athletics at the University of Wyoming is the A. S. U. W., which manages all the finances and arranges the schedules for the various teams, in co-operation with the Director of Athletics. The A. S. U. W. has been singularly successful with athletic management, particularly in view of the fact that Wyoming is one of the few universities in which football does not leave a profit to finance other sports. The Carnegie Institute investigation of college athletics two years ago brought to light the fact that the

WILLARD WITTE
Basketball Coach

University of Wyoming was one of three colleges in which true undergraduate control of athletics existed.

John "Choppy" Rhodes, one of the youngest athletic directors in the country, is completing his first year at the helm of Cowboy athletics, and has put new life into the athletic program. Besides being athletic director, Rhodes also is head football and track coach.

On the football coaching staff Coach Rhodes had a number of capable men helping him. Clarence Raisch, a former Nebraska star, had charge of the line, while Coach Willard Witte handled the freshmen team, and found time to help Choppy with the varsity backfield. Assisting Witte with the yearlings was Charles Coughlin, and the ends were under the direction of Capt. Harry C. Luck.

Willard Witte, head basketball mentor, won himself the title of "miracle man," by taking over the Cowboy cagers in his first year of coaching, and with little experienced material, succeeded in developing a team that won the Division championship, and lost the conference title by a narrow margin. "Chuck" Coughlin, all-conference guard with Wyoming in 1930, was Witte's assistant, and was largely responsible for the strong defense that characterized the 1931 machine.

Swimming for the past two years has been under the direction of C. L. Porter, former University of Michigan star. During this time the Cowboy mermen have made good records, although material has not been exceptional.

Clarence Raisch, besides being line coach for the football squad, took over the Wyoming wrestlers this year, and made a good record, the Cowboys taking third in the division meet.

Tumbling and gymnastic activities have been in the hands of Raymond Frazer for a number of years, and under his able direction Wyoming has always had strong teams. Frazer also handles the boxers.

This spring Coach Rhodes takes charge of the track squad for the first time. In the past Wyoming has been handicapped by the late springs of the high altitude in developing track teams. With the completion of an indoor track in the armory, Wyoming should be in better shape for track hereafter.

W CLUB

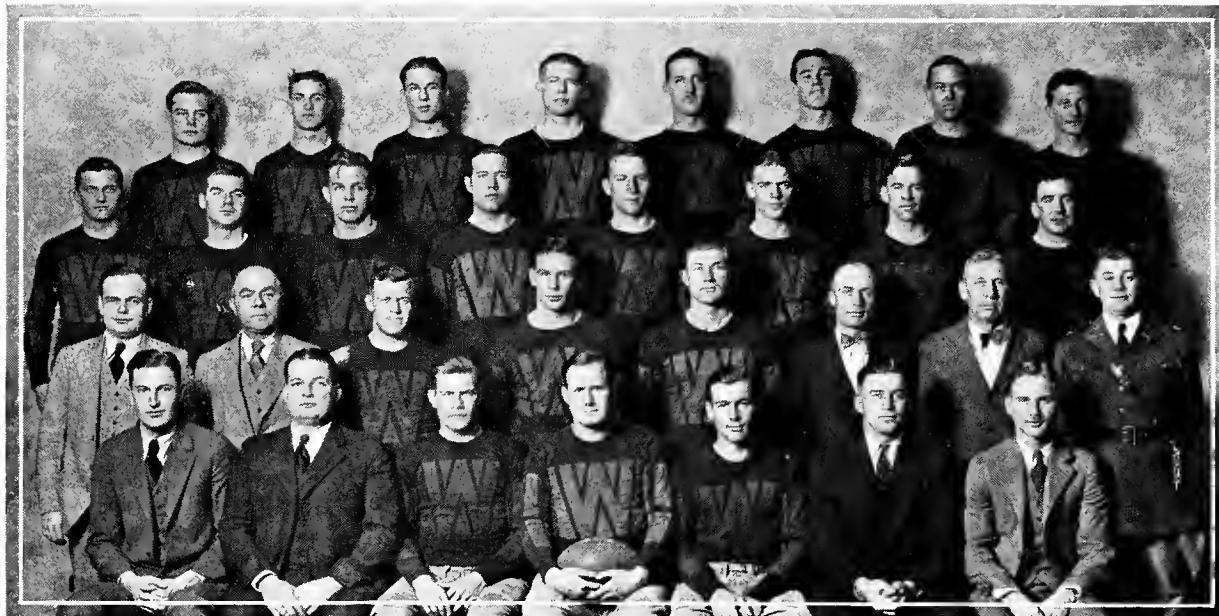

THE "W" Club is an organization composed of all men who have won one or more letters in varsity athletic competition, for the purpose of bringing into closer unity those men who have played together in some branch of sport. Besides its honorary significance, it helps in orienting freshmen, and takes an active part in campus affairs. Last fall the "W" Club dance held the first Friday night of the school year, proved to be an excellent get-together mixer for the entire school. When Wyoming played Utah for the basketball championship in Salt Lake City in March, the "W" Club leased wires, and gave a complete telephoned play-by-play account of the three-game series for the benefit of the student body that remained at home. The club permitted several other towns to take advantage of its service, so that play-by-play accounts were received in Wheatland and Cheyenne also. The club is trying to arrange for a club room so that the future athletes will have a place to get together.

THE 1930 FOOTBALL SEASON

THE story of the 1930 football season is that of a gradually improving team which found itself in the latter part of the season, and demonstrated that Wyoming could produce winning football teams. John "Choppy" Rhodes took over the reins as head coach this fall, and with little time to become acquainted with his material, or install his new system, was forced to take on four of the strongest conference teams on consecutive Saturdays, beginning in September. In spite of this handicap, Rhodes and his Cowboys scored on every team played, except for the mighty Utah outfit, and during the last half of the season won two games, tied one, and lost one. On the 1930 squad, Captain Dave Kidd, Ben Joyce, and Sammy Hale played their last games for the Brown and Yellow. Captain Kidd is one of the best all-around linemen to play on a Cowboy eleven in years, and will be missed greatly. Joyce is the most aggressive player on the squad and has been a sparkling end. Hale's work at quarterback and his open field running made him one of the best known signal callers in the conference. All these men will be missed next fall.

CAPTAIN DAVID KIDD

A popular leader and fine player, Captain Dave Kidd proved to be an ideal leader for the 1930 Cowboys. Dave's work at end tackle during his career at Wyoming has been outstanding. Coming to Wyoming after a year at the University of Illinois, where he captained the Illini frosh eleven, Dave has been a star line-man throughout his three years.

1931 PROSPECTS

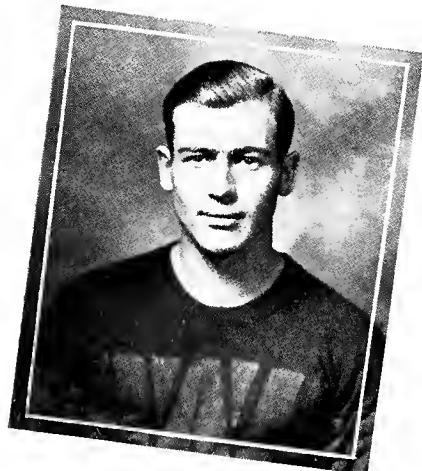

SELDOM has Wyoming faced a football season with as bright prospects as is the case this year. With John "Choppy" Rhodes' system well installed, and an excellent coaching staff assisting, the best drilled and smoothest working machine in years is in prospect. But three of the 27 men recommended for letters will be lost by graduation, and the greatest frosh team in years will bolster up the veterans. The freshman line averaged well over 190 pounds and the backfield contained a number of stars. With a wealth of material and a proven coaching system, Wyoming should have a great season in 1931. The Cowboy schedule for 1931 includes games with Creighton, Brigham Young, Colorado Aggies, New Mexico, Montana State, Utah State, Santa Clara University, Colorado Teachers, and Chadron Normal.

The Wyoming line stops a Cougar line plunge.

WYOMING-BRIGHAM YOUNG

WYOMING'S 1930 Cowboy football team opened the season at home against the Brigham Young University Cougars, in a game that was watched with unusual interest. Although Wyoming lost the game, 19 to 12, the team thrilled its followers by its great stand against the title-contending Cougars. Trailing 19 to 0 after a shaky first half, the Cowboys suddenly found themselves and began a drive that soon had the Cougars with their backs to the wall. At the opening of the second half, after receiving the opening kick-off, the Cowboys on three plays drove across the B. Y. U. goal line. After battling in mid-field several minutes, Dir intercepted a Cougar pass and raced 62 yards for another score. Wyoming was advancing rapidly when the game ended.

UTAH-WYOMING

JN their second game of the season, Wyoming's Cowboys drew as their assignment the powerful University of Utah Redskins, who subsequently raced through another undefeated season that won them their third consecutive conference championship and the rating of one of the four or five strongest elevens in the country. Realizing that the game was hopeless, Coach Rhodes chose to start a team composed mostly of substitutes, saving his regulars for the remainder of a hard schedule. Utah was anxious to make an auspicious start, and with Wyoming below par and the Utes on edge, the result was a rout. Utah piling up 72 points to none for Wyoming. In this game the Cowboys' fatal weakness that cost them several games during the season, an inability to stop forward passes, was again evident.

UNDER drizzling skies, before a large Homecoming crowd, the Wyoming Cowboys saw another win slip from their grasp when the forward pass defense broke down temporarily in the third quarter, allowing the Montana State Bobcats to score 20 points, and eventually win 20 to 13. It was a bitter defeat to take, for Wyoming had things in hand during the first half and last quarter. In the first quarter, Wyoming drove on straight football 67 yards to the Bobcat goal line. Wyoming failed to kick goal. Dir was proving to be almost unstoppable. Then came the fatal third quarter, when the Bobcats scored three touchdowns entirely by the aerial route. The Cowboys recovered, and in the final stanza again dominated, scoring a touchdown and kicking goal.

UTAH STATE-WYOMING

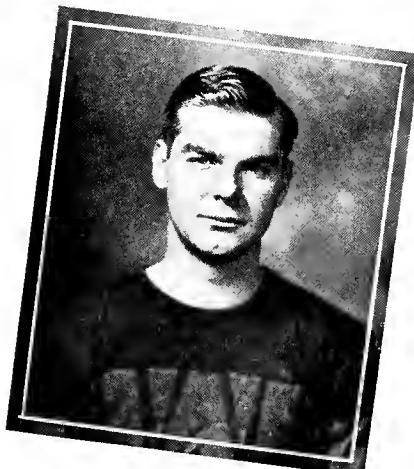

THE Cowboys met the remaining western division representative the following Saturday, when they tangled with Utah State at Logan in a driving snow and sleet storm. The Farmers won 13 to 8, by scoring twice in the first five minutes of play. The Aggies caught Wyoming off guard at the start of the game, and Gillespie raced 70 yards for a marker in the first minute. Before the Cowboys could recover, Aggies pushed across for another touchdown. This ended the scoring for Utah, and for the rest of the game Wyoming held the edge. In the final quarter Ross punted to the Aggie one-yard line, and when Aggies attempted to kick the slippery ball, they fumbled, and recovered behind their goal, giving Wyoming a safety. Later Barnes culminated a drive by crashing over for a touchdown.

THWARTED in four attempts to achieve a conference victory, the Wyoming Cowboys journeyed to Cheyenne to tangle with Colorado Teachers, and managed to end the game with a tie score, in spite of listless playing. The Cowboys appeared over-trained, and although they roused themselves after the Teachers scored in the third quarter, and managed to tie the count, the winning punch was lacking. During the first half of the game neither team threatened, both being content to exchange punts. In the third quarter the brilliant Butler of Teachers broke loose and pushed across the Cowboys' goal line. Aroused by the possibility of defeat, Wyoming rallied, and with three sparkling runs by Dir, Cowboy star offensive man, pushed 55 yards for a tying marker.

JN the feature game of the season, the Cowboys set Wyoming into a frenzy of joy and startled the conference by journeying to Ft. Collins and by outfighting and outdriving them throughout the game, defeated Colorado Aggies 21 to 6, for Wyoming's first conference football victory in three years. Wyoming's latent power suddenly found expression, and nothing could halt their drives. Led by the diminutive Jerry King, Wyoming outplayed them in every department. Aggies scored first, but King retaliated by dashing 50 yards for Wyoming's first score. Later he reeled off another 50-yard jaunt for Wyoming's second score. In the second half, the Cowboys dominated, playing in Aggie territory throughout, and in the final quarter, Barnes dashed 14 yards for final score.

King, the speedy Wyoming quarter, retaliated by dashing 80 yards around end for a touchdown, and Dir kicked goal, giving Wyoming a short-lived lead. Denver scored in the second quarter, to lead of 12 to 7 at the half. The Lobos were unable to cope with the Cowboy line, and King, Dir, Barnes and Ross pounded the southwesterners' line effectively throughout. Wyoming drove over for two touchdowns in the first half with straight football, Dir playing the leading role. The Lobos counted once on a freak play, picking up a fumbled pass and running twenty yards for a touchdown, and the half ended 13 to 6. In the third quarter, the Cowboys stopped a New Mexico drive on the two-yard line, and from then on dominated. FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

THE University of Wyoming freshman football team for 1930 was one of the finest that Wyoming has ever had. The yearlings had a first string lineup that outweighed the varsity considerably, having a line that averaged more than 190 pounds, and a backfield that averaged 175. Fifty men worked out under coaches Witte and Coughlin during the year, and 28 were awarded numerals for their work. In their first game of the season against the 20th Infantry at Ft. Warren, they were held to a scoreless tie in a game played in a blinding snow storm. Later in the season they tangled with Colorado Teachers Frosh, and trounced them soundly, 31 to 13. The final game was played on the home field against the Colorado Aggie Frosh. The Farmer yearlings had a line that averaged 195, and were reputed the greatest frosh aggregation in the Aggie history. The Calfboys had things their own way from the start, and won, 20 to 0.

Numerals were awarded to Dean O'Connor, Lawrence Phelan, Clarence Smith, Paul Parkhurst, Kenneth Fiero, Taft Harris, Floyd Foresman, Ralph Cottrell, Reed Cottrell, John McGill, Albert Finnerty, George Brenton, Roy Sandburg, Albert Pellegrini, Cecil Fell, Joseph Bird, Warren Collins, Cecil Best, Kenneth Hodges, Harold Abel, Uno Korhonen, Louis Falxa, Hurley Scherffius, William Engstrom, Walter Dowler, William Logan, William Chapman, and John Deti.

CHAMPIONS

THE 1930-1931 Cowboy basketball machine, in one of the most sensational developments in the history of the conference, rose from an unknown and doubtful quantity at the start of the season to the general recognition as the class of the conference. With little experienced material to work with, and Coach "Dutch" Witte in his first year as a basketball mentor, the outlook was none too promising. A combination of several veterans and a number of brilliant newcomers, under Witte's guidance, rapidly developed into a sensational machine, and after dropping the initial conference clash to Colorado Teachers, the Cowboys swept through the remaining eleven games without a defeat, to become champions of the eastern division of the Rocky Mountain Conference. The Cowboys, composed of one junior, two sophomores, and two freshmen, then journeyed to Salt Lake City, and were barely nosed out of the conference title, Utah taking the deciding third game by one point in an overtime period game.

CAPTAIN JAY GAER

Unfortunately injured in football, Captain Gaer was lost to the Cowboy squad for the entire season, a necessary operation placing him in the hospital for the early part of the season. A fine leader and an excellent guard, Gaer's loss made a hole in the Cowboy defense that was hard to fill.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

THE Wyoming Cagers opened the season in a two-game series against Brigham Young University, after two practice games with the Rock Springs U. P. club, which were won with ease. The Cougars and the Cowboys battled on almost even terms during most of the first game, although Wyoming held a slight lead at the half, 16 to 14. In the second half the Cougars pulled away, with some brilliant shooting by Romney (who subsequently made the All-American third team), but Wyoming rallied, due mainly to the shooting of Rider, freshman flash, who counted three goals, one in the last 10 seconds of play, that won the game, 37 to 36. Romney led the field in scoring, counting ten field goals and a free toss. Witte led Wyoming with 13 points.

top of their game. Controlling the tip-off and using their great height to advantage, the Teachers defeated the Cowboys 34 to 27. Although the game was lost, it enabled Coach Witte to find an effective combination. The moving of Witte to forward and insertion of Rugg at the running guard position proved to be the necessary shift to start the Cowboys functioning. Witte scored 18 points to lead the field in scoring, and Rugg's work at guard was outstanding. Rugg and Kimball, both former centers, soon developed into the finest pair of guards in the conference.

The Brown and Yellow opened the home conference season against Denver University, and sounded a warning to the conference by decisively trouncing the Pioneers, 47 to 28. The Cowboys started slowly, and held a scant 15 to 14 lead at the half. Late in the second half they suddenly started a whirlwind attack that left Denver gasping and helpless. The Pioneers had rallied and taken an 8-point lead, when the Cowboys broke loose with a barrage of baskets that gave them a one-sided victory. The play of Casey Rugg was outstanding, the stellar guard being all over the court, and counting ten points as well. Joe Schwartz led the pack in scoring with seven goals and two free tosses.

With Denver temporarily out of the way, Wyoming turned attention to Colorado University, division champions, who, with all members of the championship team back save one, were doped as the team to beat for the championship. Before 3,500 fans, the Cowboys turned back the champs 34 to 29, leading practically all the way. Jack McNiff covered Middlemist, star center of the Silver and Gold, holding him scoreless from the field, and with their big gun silenced, the State cagers were helpless.

Moving to Boulder, the two quintets resumed hostilities in the next game on the schedule, and before a dumfounded crowd who believed Wyoming could not win away from home, the Brown and Yellow mowed down the erstwhile champs 36 to 26 and assumed the position of title favorites. Uncanny accuracy at the free throw mark was the factor that produced the Cowboy win, 18 out of 22 tries finding their way into the netting for the Cowboys. McNiff again held the great Middlemist helpless.

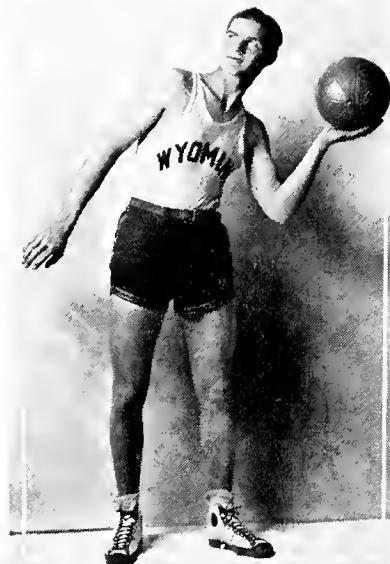

For the benefit of the visiting legislature from Cheyenne, the Cowboys scheduled a non-conference tilt with the Kearney, Nebr., Teachers, who were leading the Nebraska conference. The Teachers were helpless before Wyoming's fast passing, the Cowboys collecting a 24 to 4 lead at the half time. Witte used every man on his squad in winning, 38 to 17.

Following the non-conference breather, the Cowboys journeyed over the Divide to tangle with the Western State five. The Mountaineers were considered still in the running for the title, and the winner was doped to be the one to beat Teachers. Western State found themselves unable to cope with Wyoming's fast breaking offense and man-toman defense and the Brown and Yellow quintet walked off with both games, winning the first 37 to 28, and the second 39 to 15. Young Witte, whose sharpshooting was making him the talk of the conference, garnered 22 points during the series, while Schwartz added 20 to the Wyoming scoring column. Wyoming was now the sensation of the conference. With a squad composed of two juniors, two sophomores, and eight freshmen, Wyoming had developed into the fastest passing, sharpest shooting, coolest playing team in the division, and it was conceded that the title was a race between Wyoming and the percentage column, as Wyoming had less games than Teachers and needed to win more games than the Bears in order to take the flag.

played on top of the world. Les Witte, leading scorer of the conference went on a rampage the first night caging seven field goals and two free throws, Wyoming winning 32 to 22. The second night proved easier than the first and Wyoming chalked up her eighth straight conference win, 34 to 16.

Colorado Aggies moved onto the half-acre for a two-game series with the Cowboys the following week-end, and the first night, by putting on the most amazing shooting exhibition ever seen on the Wyoming floor, almost succeeded in upsetting the Brown and Yellow. Counting 15 field tries out of 22 attempts, Aggies played even with Wyoming throughout the contest, leading 21 to 20

at the half. Schwartz put up a remarkable exhibition for Wyoming, scoring 11 goals and two free throws, besides playing a wonderful floor game. The race between the basket eyes of the Aggies and Schwartz was a tie, 41 to 41, with but a few seconds to go, when Rugg dashed through the Aggie defense to sink a short shot as the gun sounded.

The second night found the Cowboys passing and shooting as of old, and with the Aggie sharpshooters distinctly less sharp-eyed, an easy victory was the result. Led again by Schwartz, the Cowboys won their tenth consecutive victory, 43 to 22. Kimball and Rugg kept the Aggie forwards from approaching near the basket, while five forwards on the squad took turns at bombarding the Aggie goal. Schwartz added 15 points to his total, making 39 for the two games.

The crucial championship game with Colorado Teachers next faced the Cowboys. The final game of the season, the winner would take the division title. Before a crowd of over 4,000 people, the Cowboys rose to new heights of perfection in their passing attack, and while the jubilant crowd cheered frenziedly, came through with their eleventh consecutive win and the division title, 42 to 38. Sifting through the Teacher defense with brilliant passing, the Cowboys swept to a 23 to 12 lead at the half, and during the remainder of the game maintained a lead that could not be overcome. Kimball, giant guard, went out of the game on personals early in the half, and McNiff sprained his ankle.

However, Dearinger and McGinty came through in the pinch in a spectacular fashion, and a Teacher rally was staved off. Witte led the Wyoming attack with 14 points, and Rugg and Schwartz contributed eight each.

With the division title safely stowed away for the second time in Wyoming's athletic history, the Cowboy Cagers turned their attention toward the University of Utah Redskins, winners of the Western division, with whom they were to tangle for the conference championship.

Wyoming startled the conference by taking the Redskins down 32 to 27 in the first game, despite the absence of McNiff. It was the first win for an Eastern division team since 1927. Joe Schwartz dazzled the crowd with his shooting, caging seven goals.

WILFRED BYRNE

The win was costly however, as Schwartz drew up with a sprained ankle.

The crippled Cowboy youngsters saw the second game go to the Utes, 40 to 24. With the game slipping from their grasp, the Cowboys seemed content to wait for a supreme effort in the final game.

The final and deciding game saw the title go to Utah in a heart-breaking game in which Wyoming led during almost the entire game, only to see victory slip from their grasp in an overtime period, 40 to 39. With McNiff and Schwartz playing with sprained ankles, and Witte leaving the game early in the first half on personals, the battered Cowboys fought on even terms with the Utes during the entire contest, which ended 37 all at the expiration of the regular time.

THE ALL-STAR TEAMS

SELDOM has one team in the Eastern division been represented so well on the all-star teams as has Wyoming this year. On the all-division team, picked by Curley Grieve of the Rocky Mountain News, Wyoming placed two men on the first team, Schwartz, who led the division in scoring, and Witte, who was second in scoring, placing at forward. Kimball was given a berth on the second team, and Rugg and McNiff were given honorable mention. The all-conference team, picked by C. L. "Poss" Parsons of the Denver Post for the basketball guides, placed Witte and Kimball on the first team, Schwartz on the second squad and both Rugg and McNiff were given honorable mention. Had not Schwartz been forced to play in the championship series with a sprained ankle, he undoubtedly would have made the first team, for he is generally regarded as the greatest individual player to perform in the Eastern division for several years. So near to the same calibre were all the Cowboy regulars that many selections differed, although all placed several Cowboys on the first team. The Associated Press selection placed Witte and McNiff on the first team, while the Wyoming Eagle selections placed Schwartz, Witte and Rugg on the all-division team.

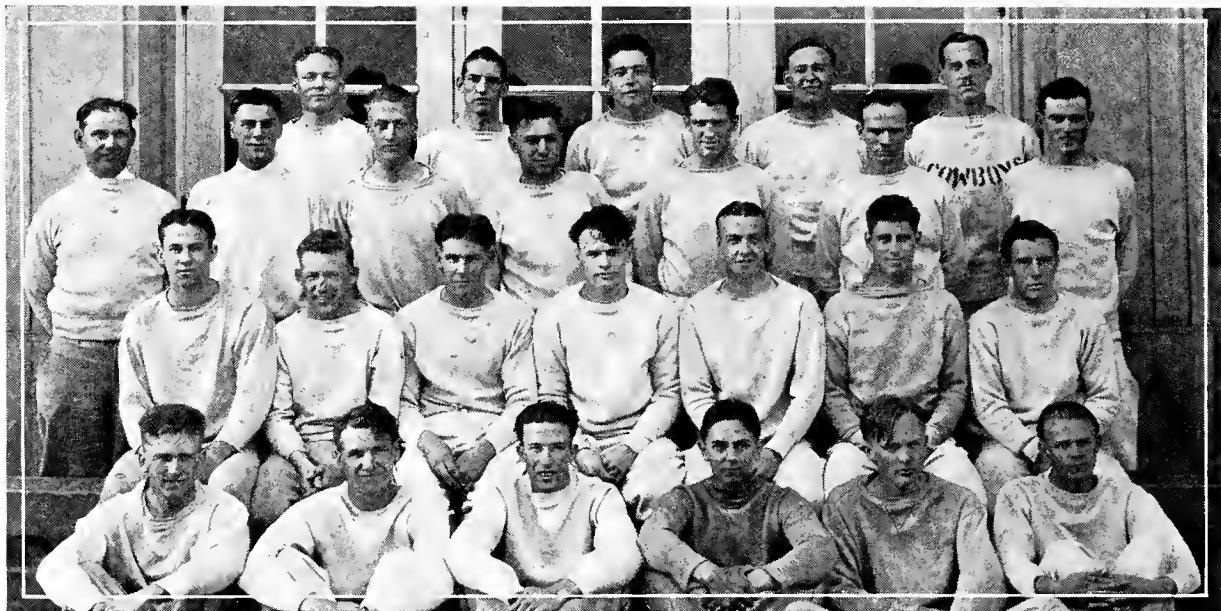

PROSPECTS FOR 1931-1932

Seldom has any college had such bright athletic prospects as has Wyoming in basketball for the coming year. The entire squad that won the Eastern division title, and was barely nosed out for the conference title, will be back next year. Of the five men who started a majority of the games this year, McNiff is a junior, Schwartz and Rugg are sophomores, and Witte and Kimball are freshmen. The possibilities for a great team at Wyoming have brought national attention. Lawrence Perry, nationally known sports critic, writing in his nationally syndicated column, says of the Cowboys, in part: "Coach Witte at Wyoming has another brilliant crew of youngsters coming up comparable to the Montana State Bobcats, conquerors of national championship fives. Kimball is the greatest guard since Breeden of Montana, and Les Witte, brother of the coach and former Nebraska prep star, is like "Cat" Thompson except that he is a lefthanded shooter and dribbler and exceedingly hard to stop when coming down from the off-side of the floor. Rugg, a brilliant floorman, and the veteran Schwartz are polished performers, as is also Ed McGinty, the former All-American scholastic forward."

The Cowboys are preparing a schedule designed to take them through the Middle West next season, playing leading Big Six and Big Ten teams. Judging by the success of B. Y. U. this year on a similar trip, after being beaten by the Cowboys, Coach Witte's youngsters should make an impressive showing.

1930 TRACK

THE first meet of the 1930 track season found Wyoming, as usual, less further advanced than its Colorado rivals, due to the later spring at the higher altitude, and Wyoming finished third in a triangular meet at Boulder between Wyoming, Colorado University and Denver University. Colorado won the meet with 113 points, Wyoming accumulating 28. Turner's fine running in the quarter gave Wyoming its only first.

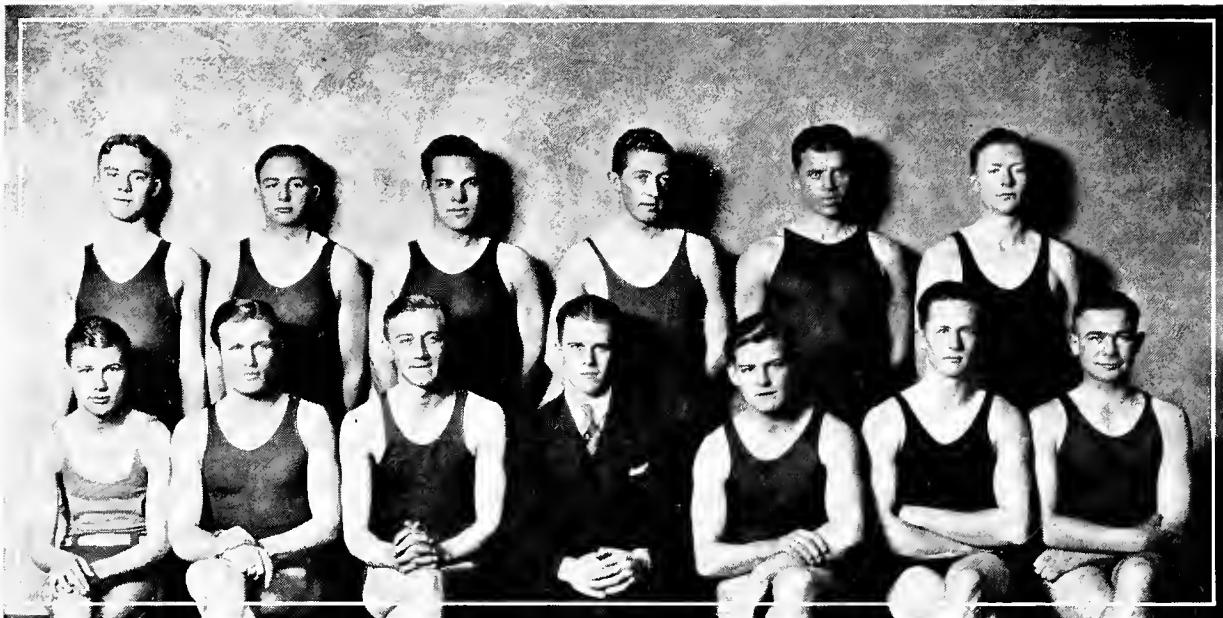

The following week a dual went to Colorado College, 88 2-3 to 51 1-3. Scott, Turner, Hale, Gray and Shelton won first places in their events for the Cowboys.

The Cowboy track squad entered the annual Boulder Relays, but failed to win a first place in competition against schools from all over the West. Colorado University retained its championship.

The Cowboys took fifth place at the Eastern division meet, Turner winning the championship in the quarter mile for the only Cowboy first place.

While it is too early to predict the Cowboy track success for 1931, indications are that Wyoming will be stronger, as much veteran material is available, and with the completion of the indoor track in the armory, the climate handicap should be lessened.

An interesting sidelight on Cowboy track is the fact that Paul Scott, dash man of last year, was one of the three Americans on the Oxford track team in its famous annual dual with Cambridge.

SWIMMING

THE Wyoming swimming team finished a fairly successful season, considering the fact that Coach C. L. Porter had but two veterans to mould his team around. Capt. Robert Laughlin and James Simon were the only two letter men available when Porter first issued the call for mermen. The first meet of the season, shortly after the holidays was a dual with Colorado Aggies. The lack of veteran material was evident, as Aggies won 47 to 26. Laughlin, Simon and Whitehead did the best work for the Cowboys.

Against Colorado Teachers at Greeley the Cowboy swimmers found an improved Teacher squad, and were forced to bow $43\frac{1}{2}$ to $25\frac{1}{2}$. Laughlin, Simon, Holden, Whitehead, Hill, and Kraft were all point getters for Wyoming.

The Cowboys played host to the division swimmers in the annual Eastern division meet to close the season, and finding the big pool to their liking, the powerful C. U. squad walked off with the division title for the second consecutive year. Teachers finished second and Wyoming third. Colorado Aggies were unable to arrive because of a snow storm.

The division champions at Boulder took the Cowboys into camp, 63 to 13, in the Boulder pool. Wyoming failed to garner a first place.

WRESTLING

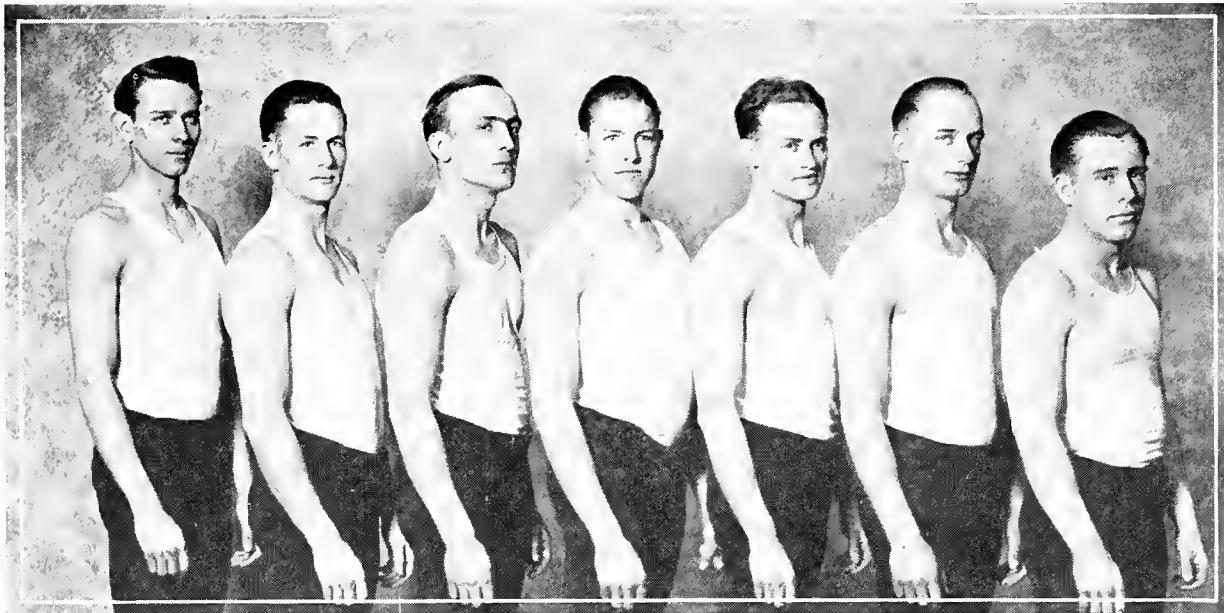

WYOMING'S wrestlers opened the conference season pitted against the Colorado Teachers' squad at Greeley shortly after the Christmas holidays. The Cowboy grapplers dominated throughout, winning every match save one, and taking the meet $23\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$. Schultz, Hemenover, Capt. Clark, McGinnis, and Finnerty won their matches, Klohs losing in the heavyweight division on a decision.

Taking on the husky Colorado Aggie squad next, the Cowboys found the going rougher, and fell, 21 to 9. Schultz and McGinnis won their matches handily, but the others could not hit their stride, Capt. Clark losing a decision for his first defeat in college competition.

Colorado University journeyed to Laramie for the final dual of the season, and took the Cowboys into camp 26 to 6. Clark and Hemenover won their matches.

At the conference meet the Cowboys finished third, and had not Umbach fractured a rib in the preliminaries, might have finished near C. U., who won the title.

Letters were awarded to Schultz, 115-pound; Hemenover, 125-pound; Capt. Clark, 135-pound; McGinnis, 145-pound; Bundy and Umbach, 155-pound; Finnerty, 165-pound; and Klohs, heavyweight. Under Coach Raisch's first year of tutelage, the Cowboys improved rapidly and should be a strong squad next year. Due to his brilliant showing during the past year, Capt. Wynn Clark was sent to the National A. A. U. Championships, held at San Diego, Calif., and succeeded in winning second place in the 125-pound class, losing the national championship in the finals by the narrow margin of 10 to 11 on the point system, neither contestant gaining a fall.

Sealey, Captain Blackmore, Buchner, Brandon, Cogswell, Snyder, Richard.

APPARATUS AND TUMBLING

THE Wyoming mat and ring artists opened their season against the Colorado Aggie squad, and lack of practice was evident as Aggies won 182 to 163. Captain Blackmore was the individual star of the meet, however, with Richard and Cogswell doing well.

The next meet was with the Colorado Teachers' squad, and the Cowboys showed improved form in taking the dual meet $191\frac{1}{2}$ to $177\frac{1}{2}$. Captain Blackmore was again the star of the meet, with 47 points.

Colorado University, in the closest match of the conference season, won from the proteges of Coach "Babe" Frazer by a score of 173 to $170\frac{1}{2}$.

The gymnastic artists of the division met at Greeley for the annual meet, and in a close contest, Colorado Aggies won the title. Aggie artists accumulated $229\frac{1}{2}$ points, Colorado University was second with $218\frac{1}{4}$, Teachers took third with $199\frac{3}{4}$, and Wyoming was fourth with $192\frac{3}{4}$. With none of this year's squad lost by graduation, next season should find Wyoming a strong contender.

Robbins, Simon, Humphries, Wiseman, Gammeter, Brown, Turner, Mucho, Craven.

HOCKEY

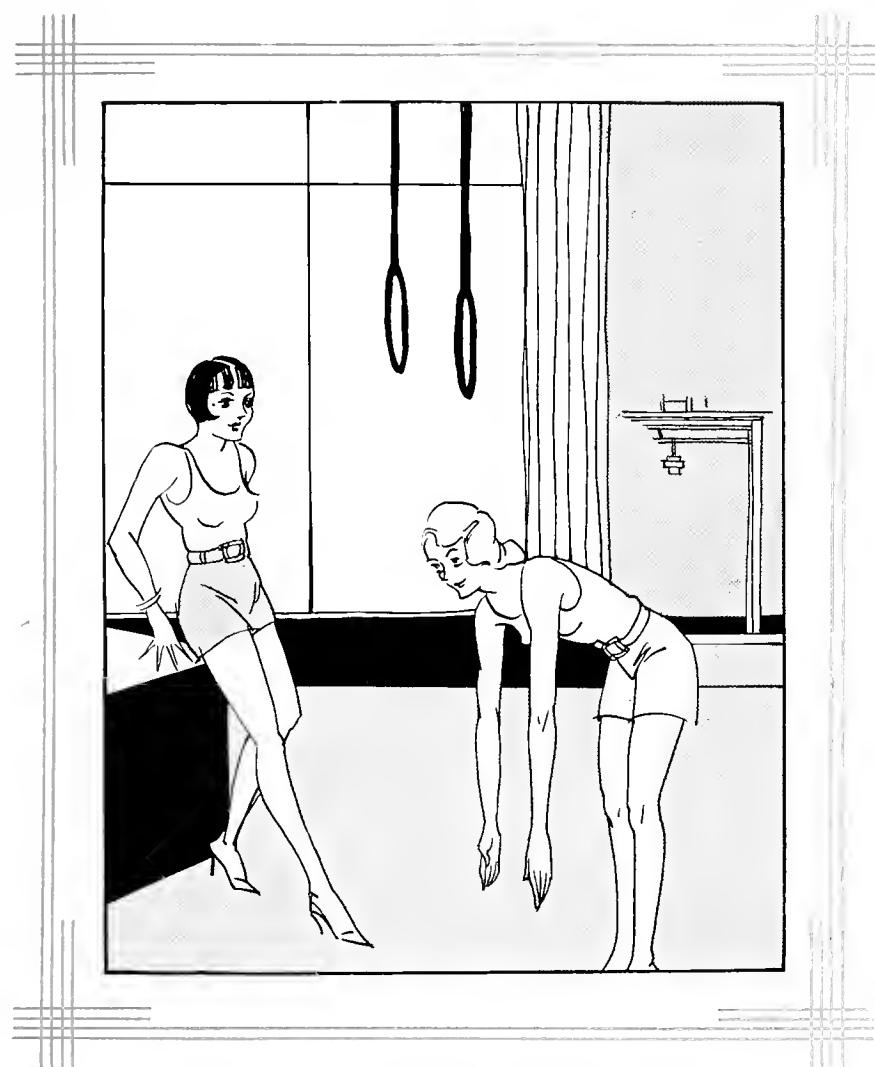

WITH the completion of the 350-foot ice skating rink on the campus, Wyoming put its first ice hockey team into the field, and built the foundation for the coming year, when hockey will become an official conference sport. The team was recruited from stars of the intramural teams, with Humphries and Gammeter as the nucleus. Two varsity matches were competed in, both with Colorado School of Mines, Mines taking both contests, 5 to 3 and 5 to 1. With a year's experience behind them, the Cowboy skaters should play a leading part in the conference ice programs. Besides hockey, a curling rink is a part of the ice equipment, and proved to be a popular sport. President Crane is an expert curler, and sponsored the sport on the campus.

TENNIS AND GOLF

The varsity golf activities of 1930 were confined to the division meet at Denver. Although the Cowboy team took fifth place, Jay Gaer was runner-up to the division championship, narrowly missing the championship by a few strokes.

The 1930 tennis team opened the season with a dual meet with Colorado Aggies at Ft. Collins, and the Farmers were victorious, 5 to 3. Kellogg, playing No. 1, and Hardin, were victors in their single matches, and Kellogg and Anderson won their double match.

A swing through the Colorado section of the division later in the spring by Kellogg, Anderson, Burley, McClintock, Hardin, and Sullivan, found the Colorado College and Colorado University courts rained out, so the only matches of the trip were played at Teachers. Teachers walloped the Cowboys, 6 to 1, only Burley turning in a victory for Wyoming.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

LED by Bernice Keating, team captain, the Women's Rifle Team defeated several of the hardest shooting coed teams in the United States this season. They won the title of Rocky Mountain Conference Champions for Women in small bore indoor rifle marksmanship by defeating the University of Utah. For their excellence in shooting, members of the team won points in the W. A. A. as follows: Burke and M. Condict, 225; Platt, 200; Biggs, 175; Mullens, Orr, Raab, Meyers, Thompson, and Keating, 150; Campbell and Morgenweck, 125; and B. Condict and A. Slade, 100. The title of the "Best Woman Shot Small Bore Indoor Rifle Marksmanship, Season 1930-1931, University of Wyoming," was won by M. Condict, with a score of 967 out of a possible 1,000. A beautiful silver cup was her reward. A. Burke placed second. Captain Harry C. Luck, Infantry, D. O. L., coached the team, and Cadet Captain Victor Mullens acted as assistant coach.

The average score per position in all matches of the team was 96.65, while that of their opponents was 96.625.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

PLAY DAY, which is the annual get-together of the five Colorado colleges and the University of Wyoming, was held last year at Colorado College. This is one of the outstanding events of the year. The privilege of being one of the lucky twelve chosen to go to Play Day is highly coveted. The competition at Play Day is organized in such a way that members of all of the colleges work together for the honor of one of two color teams. Competition includes track events, baseball, basketball, and swimming. The swimming was held last year in the beautiful pool of the Broadmoor Hotel. The Play Day this year will be held in Boulder.

The interest in hockey during the fall term reached a high pitch. The intramural tournament ended in a tie between Pi Beta Phi and Hoyt Hall. Neither team seemed able to break the defense of the other and drive through for a goal. Long after the second half ended with a tie score, 0-0, the teams struggled on trying to break the tie until darkness terminated the game with the score still 0-0. The inter-class tournament resulted in a victory for the sophomores. An honorary varsity team was selected which made a trip to Fort Collins on November 8 and lost to the Aggie girls with a score of 5-1. The following week the Aggie girls played a return game here and lost to Wyoming 2-0.

The annual fall week-end camping trip for the junior and senior majors of the department of Physical Education was held this year at Scout Lodge on Pole Mountain. Rain and darkness added zest to the wood gathering, fire making and supper preparations that first night. The heroic candle-light defense staged by certain members of the party against the raid of an army of rats upon the pantry saved the supplies and furnished an unusual entertainment for the more timid who kept to their beds. The moonlit brilliance of the second night was even more distracting than the excitement of the preceding night in keeping the camp awake.

In the interim between Hockey and Basketball seasons, an inter-class Volley Ball tournament was held which resulted in a championship for the Junior-Senior team.

The interest of the winter term centered around intramural and inter-class basketball tournaments. The final game between Pi Beta Phi and Delta Delta Delta, which resulted in a 26-24 victory for Pi Beta Phi, was the outstanding game of the tournament. The sophomores won the inter-class tournament.

A new W. A. A. activity has been introduced this year which has not only aroused interest among the students but has attracted attention in the community of Laramie. This activity is "Dancing to Poetry." Many unusual and beautiful dances have been developed by the group in translating into motion the thoughts of the master poets. This group made five public appearances during the winter term.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

SWIMMING

THE intramural athletic season was opened in December with the intramural swimming meet, which was won by Alpha Tau Omega fraternity when their well balanced team won out by placing in every event. Strong competition was offered by Sigma Nu, winner the two previous years, who placed second, and Sigma Chi, who finished third. The meet brought entries from every fraternity on the campus and also the Men's Dorm, in accordance with the regulations of intramural play, which made it necessary for each organization to enter every intramural event in order to be eligible for the all-intramural trophy.

HOCKEY

The completion of the new skating rink on the campus inaugurated a new intramural sport, when the intramural ice hockey league was formed. Sigma Chi won the first hockey title by going through the season undefeated. The crucial game came early in the tournament when Sigma Chi defeated Sigma Nu after trailing the first two periods. The Faculty Club, with such stars as John Corbett, former All-American, and the Men's Residence Hall had strong teams and finished second and third respectively.

BOXING AND WRESTLING

The annual boxing and wrestling tournament resulted in a win in boxing for Sigma Chi, while Alpha Tau Omega took first place in the wrestling tournament. The competition was close in both sections, the victorious teams winning on 15 points each.

BASKETBALL

Basketball, the most popular of all intramural sports, was won by Alpha Tau Omega after a hard race. Twelve teams entered the league, which was divided into two divisions. Alpha Tau Omega won its division when it defeated the strong Dorm team after trailing almost the entire game. Kappa Sigma defeated Sigma Nu, last year's champion, to win the other division. In a thrilling nip and tuck struggle, Alpha Tau Omega won in the last thirty seconds of play from Kappa Sigma in the finals, 24 to 23.

GOLF

Intramural golf, the first of a spring intramural sports program which includes tennis, baseball, golf, track and horseshoes, was won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The tournament was on a 36-hole medal play basis, and the S. A. E. team composed of Jay Gaer and Sin Ridgley turned in a score of 342 to win first place. Sigma Chi placed second and Kappa Sigma third.

teams have been particularly strong, being barely nosed out of the title by the winners for the past two years. But two defeats have been sustained in the two years. This year's team was nosed out in the semi-finals by A. T. O., the winner, after leading for three-fourths of the game.

The dormitory hockey team was one of the strongest entered in the ice event, and was defeated only by the Sigma Chi and Faculty Club outfits.

Besides the athletics, the dormitory has a full social schedule, the usual two dances being given each quarter in the large social room, and other smokers, informal dances and open houses being given. The Hall also operates as an organization, and holds meetings regularly, many of which are featured by interesting speakers.

The student officers of the Hall are elected each quarter. The fall quarter officers were George Brockway, president; Lloyd Criswell, vice-president; Dixon Neiler, secretary; Ethian Harmon, treasurer, and Jack Howell, athletic manager. The winter quarter officers were Lloyd Criswell, president; John Norman, vice-president; Earl Johnson, secretary; Phil Konkel, treasurer; and Jack Howell, athletic manager. John Norman was elected president for the spring quarter, with Clifford Hansen as vice-president, Jack Ferren as secretary, Dan Griffen as treasurer, and Jack Howell again as athletic manager.

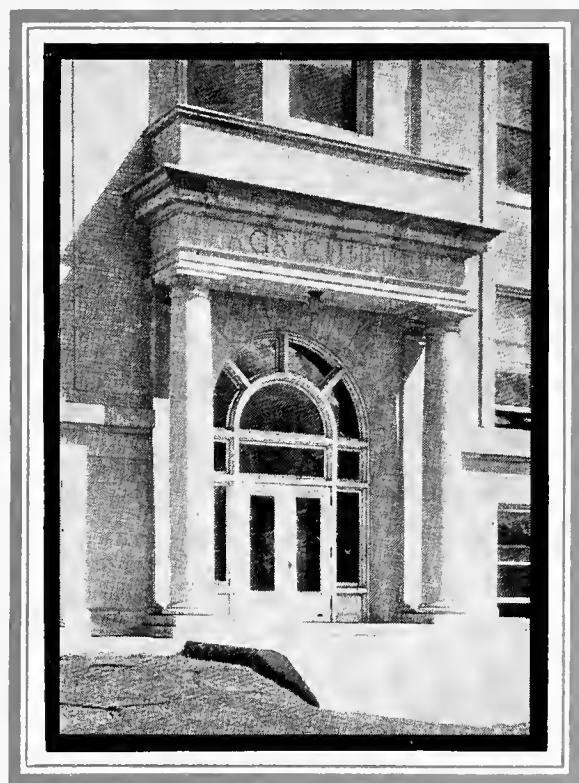

INTRAMURAL athletics have had an important new factor added in the Men's Residence Hall, whose teams have played an important part in all intramural activities. With the completion of the dormitory in 1928, intramurals began to play a more important part in the college athletic program. Intramurals had been previously almost exclusively an inter-fraternity affair.

Campus Surprised At Success of Local Group; Celebration Now in Progress

Announcement that Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, venerable local group, has at last consented to affiliate with Sigma Phi Nothing, came as a great surprise to local politicians. Sigma Alpha Epsilon has long withheld the repeated invitations of some of the very best national fraternities. The affiliation is the result, according to campus rumors, of the tireless efforts of Judge Hudson and Charles Bates.

Sigma Phi Nothing national officers expressed themselves in an interview yesterday as certain that the increased numbers would be of greatest value to the national organization. The grand president,

FLUNK DAY IS HUGE SUCCESS

STUDENT ENTHUSIASM CLOSES SCHOOL

Enthusiasm ran riot, and a mob spirit prevailed as students celebrated the 10th annual Cowboy Flunk Day.

Never before in the history of this institution has such open defiance of university regulations been evinced. Picture in your mind, if you can, hundreds, thousands, yea, even tens of thousands of students surging, swearing, sweeping, swooping, swimming, snickering, sneezing, snorting, sniffing, snooping, snoozing, snoozling, (Editor's note—read aloud) snapping, snitching and snooting in a wild gamut of color all over the campus and then stepped in it.

President Crane was quoted as saying as he stepped out on the palatial veranda of his home, "Campus sadrasas dendum, posse-commatus, pitheocanthrupus erectus O sole mio, sunniboy," which trans-

Find Haunted House Near Laramie?

Four in search of fossils today discovered a haunted house several miles from Laramie. We shall let Mr. Hanna tell the story in his own way.

"We was out trampin', innocently looking for fossils," said Mr. Hanna in an interview today. "Mr. Foresman, of the Christian Endeavor Society and two fellers from the Epworth League, Misters Cooper and Cooley was with me."

"They're all jolly fellers and we was enjoying ourselves muchly when all of a sudden we heard a ghostly busy signal from over the next hill.

"What can it be?" said Mr. Cooper.

"Ah, who can tell?" said Mr. Foresman.

"What can it be?" repeated Mr. Cooley.

"A busy signal," I triumphantly replied.

"And so it turned out to be or not to be, that is, the question. We rallied round, as they say in Cheyenne, and gave KI-YI, a familiar college jeer. Then, crawling over the boulders of East Ivinson Avenue and carefully holding Often, during those heart-broken days, I thought of him. It was hard to think of him as being like other men. He was gentle and dreamy, a friend to all. Dammit, that was just the trouble, he was a friend to all the women of the campus.

Why couldn't he be satisfied with one and let others take care of the multitude? Why couldn't he let well enough alone, plant his pin on me, and be my adoring slave?

He couldn't—wouldn't. He believed he had seen a light (probably street light) and he loved life. He loved the sunny fields, the glorious mountains and quiet lakes. (I hope he falls off a cliff or drowns in a lake.) And above all, he loved to be seen as a superior human being.

But these are the facts which were revealed to me when I saw him with unveiled eyes. A golden

He then said, "Give your all for old Wyoming!" He then bowed his head and with the tears rolling down his withered cheeks he left the scene of mad riotry with a sad smile on his face and a flower in his buttonhole.

From this time on all order was gone. Righteousness reverted to chaos, yes, to chaos, as Wyoming's triumphant athletes swept onward, ONWARD and ONWARD to the GREATEST victory that old Wyoming has ever witnessed. For the yellow and brown athletes won every event, taking first, second, and third places.

Even the staid university professors lost their customary decorum and joined the mad scramble of Bacchanalian revelry. Particularly outstanding were Professors Rudwin, Hepner, and Coulter, who played lawn games and hollered Tally-ho in loud childish voices.

Then came the night. Skyrockets gleamed, glistened, glittered, glowed, glowed, glimmered, and in general gummed up the atmosphere considerably. A huge bonfire was held on the Open Range, at which marshmallows were toasted. Then, after a pajama parade, in which all participated, a rousing cheer for old Wyoming was given and the students all promised on their word of honor, which didn't mean anything, to come back to classes the next morning, even though it was Sunday.

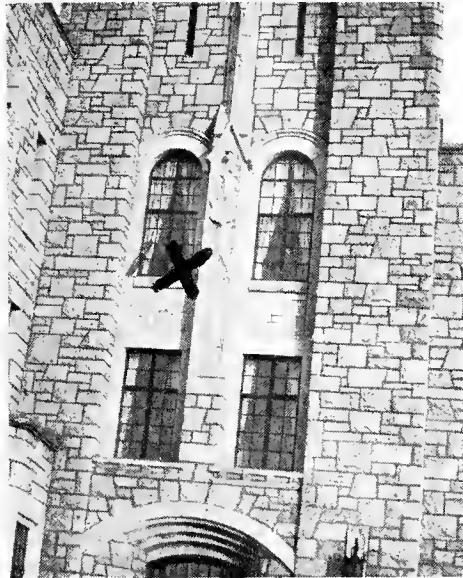

Rus: How did you even up with your chemistry prof.?

Famous Editor Ends It All

Leaps From Dorm; Inquest

Hearts throbbed in the courtroom as the pitiful story of little George Holtorf, suicide, was unfolded to a quivering audience Tuesday afternoon.

Last week this victim of life's fraud and cruelty plunged to his death from a third-story window in the men's dorm, arousing a furor of talk and an excited investigation of the youth's life. As fact after fact was revealed to the astonished investigators, excitement ran riot, for many heretofore unknown incidents in the youthful editor's life were brought to light. The office of the Cowboy Post was mobbed by white-faced coeds, timidly inquiring if any names were to be printed.

At last the verdict of suicide, caused by an aching heart, was given by the coroner's jury. Seven large tears were counted by an observant reporter welling from the tiny brown eyes of one of our more notorious campus beauties at this point in the proceedings.

Mr. Holtorf, ever the alert newspaper-man, photographed the scene of the suicide on his dizzy plunge downward. X marks the spot where his toe caught in a cornice of the building.

Brother Leviticus Horsecollar, intimated that he was not entirely "sold on the idea," but he said, "We have to take a chance every once in a while, and they may turn out alright." Brother Horsecollar said that the industry of the local group was refreshing and that he had received no less than 416 petitions in the last year.

Members of the local fraternity were hilarious over the good news and none of them could be found as the paper went to press. It was reported that the members of the fraternity were sojourning at the Campus Shop.

It is expected that the fraternity will immediately begin a drive for pledges. The group will keep their old motto, "Suffer little pledges, and come unto me."

The colors of the national group, Sigma Phi Nothing, are light and dark green, the flower is the grape, and the national song—"Many Brave Souls are Asleep in the Deep, so BEWARE."

Lizzie: Do you keep all of your love letters?

Vera: Sure thing! Some day I expect them to keep me!

The above photograph reveals the noted Professor Louis Mallory nonchalantly clinging to a Boy Scout immediately after a dramatic plane crash during a typical mid-winter blizzard in April. Following the accident, a Post reporter was sent to the scene, where he snapped a picture of the unsuspecting victim. The Professor, sensing the drama of the situation, had kindly waited until a photographer could reach the place. (Note the hail-stone at the left.)

Wyo Coed

A delightful service given by the POST for those having sore hearts, feet, heads, or —.

Dear Chaperon: May I bring my story to you? Before I came to college, I had never been around men so very much, but I thought that I could at least trust them. But since September I have put my faith in three men, and every time my trust has been betrayed, and I'm beginning to think that all men are "gay deceivers," as my mother would say.

The other night I came home from Epworth League with a boy who is fraternity man, or at least I think he will be soon, and whom I have gone out with quite a lot. He had promised me on his honor as a gentleman that he would never try to kiss me, and, oh, dear, chaperon, he broke his vow, for while we were sitting in the parlor he seized me violently and tried to kiss me. Of course, I drew back, and he laughed at me. One thing I could never endure is being laughed at, and it made me furious —and then I slapped him! I never in all my life want anyone to look at me the way he did, with the most scorching stare.

As I bent over to pick up the hair-pins that were flung all over the floor during the "struggle," I could feel his contempt. Now what I don't know is whether such a man, one who would betray a woman's trust, is worth another thought or whether I should just forget about him. I did what I have always been taught is right in case of such an insult, but he didn't seem to like it. If I gave him another chance, do you think he would attempt that again? I hope not, but it may be risky to try. Please write and tell me what you think.

"Speedy."

Dear "Speedy": You did exactly what was right, and although I am sorry you had to learn about men while you are so young, still it is better to be disillusioned now than later, with a man that you might really care for. I know that you will find the right man, one with your ideals, and who will not betray your trust, so wait and keep up the good fight.

"Junie": At your height and age, you should weigh about 276 pounds. If you can train down to this, I am sure you will be successful on your team.

"M. K.": No, it is not proper to sit outside in your escort's car. If you feel that you must talk over the evening with him, ask him in to meet the Dean. We must always be very careful of the impression we make on others.

"Margie": Arrange an introduction thru this girl who knows the boy in whom you are so interested. Do not make it obvious that it is an arranged thing, tho, or he will think you too bold, and be uninterested before he even knows your sterling character.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

Keep a small wooden box near your laundry bills. You will find it convenient to hold the buttons, hooks, etc., that may come off the garments during the washing process. Sometimes these buttons are difficult to match.

Fashion Notes

The milliners of London are racking their brains to devise new color combinations, especially in pastel shades. For one new idea they have gone 'way, 'way back to the days when Helen Kane thought violet and pale pink blended beautifully. Helen was right, as hose of violet denim and pale pink satin crepe go to prove.

Tie Siding seems quite enthusiastically sold on the idea of backless suits for spring street wear.

Some bright college boy should write the next best seller. He can call it Ex-Roommate.

RECIPES

Make Hangovers Into Delicious Tempting Dishes

Leftovers and hangovers are a problem to any fraternity cook. They can be made into delicious dishes and are a great saving. Here are a few recipes for using the leftovers.

Leftovers: Several ginger-ale bottles
seven lemon rinds
two broken chairs
three cups of hot water
five used towels
one large headache

Pick over the remaining bones and serve as chicken soup for breakfast. Those who eat it will never know the difference. The same dish may be used for luncheon as ham loaf, and for dinner as prune upside-down cake. Economy is the keynote of these recipes.

Bright Sayings of Our Children

We had little Dorothy at "Grandma's" where there was a puppy that would bark for food. After we returned home I heard her saying to little Eddie Hanna, a little boy who plays in our neighborhood, "Bark for it, Eddie, bark for it, and you may have some candy." All of us here at the A. T. O. house thought it quite cute.—Major B. C. D.

Little Dickie Grassman was visiting his rich uncle in Iowa. He was much interested in the chickens, and when he saw one almost bare of feathers he said, "Oh look, the little chicken has on its sun suit." We all thought it was rather clever, as Dickie was probably referring to the Man in the Red Flannels.—A. G.

Two line philosophy: If I got to have trouble, I'd rather have a black cat cross my path than a Mack truck.

Frosh Discloses Dynamic Secret

Everyone Can Now Be Successful With Women

Every one in the room stared at me that night at the Pan-Hell formal when I walked across the room and asked Pauline Garner to go out upon the porch with me. Pauline herself was surprised, but she accepted my invitation, no doubt because of the gleaming beauty of my starched shirt front.

Greatly Surprised

Within twenty minutes we returned, Pauline a greatly surprised girl. Next I took Polly Haggard out and when we returned to the party I realized that Pauline had spread the exciting news. Marg Middleton came to me and suggested a walk on the veranda. I could see everyone, especially the other fellows, was surprised at my new popularity.

Confidence Grows

My confidence gradually grew as I took girl after girl from the party for a walk around the Gables. You must understand that never until this night had I been a popular man like Lowry King among the Sorority girls. Everyone had just laughed when I suggested a walk in the moonlight. But now!

Popularity

Finally the girls could stand it no longer. As I came in from the veranda with Fannie Jo Reed, they all crowded around me, plying me with questions.

"Where did you learn?"

"How long did it take?"

"Why didn't you tell us sooner?"

Prominent Fraternity Men Much Interested in Investigation

Thursday night when the freshmen had retired at an early hour so as to be in good condition for the Pajama Parade, a number of wise old owls crept out of their blankets and journeyed to the stadium where much to their delight they discovered a number of Sophs unloading a large cargo of the forbidden spirits which they had hoped to dispose of the following evening at the thirteenth annual Pajama Parade, held at the University gym at least once per annum.

Names of willing workers who were so willingly engaged in their evening engagement, are being withheld pending a more thorough investigation which is being conducted in anticipation of enveloping more vandals into the closely knit net laid out thus far.

The liquor will not be disposed of immediately for the 18th amendment may be repealed and should such be the case, undoubtedly the stuff will be sold at a public auction to cover confiscation charges.

Far distant from the surging, splurging, seething, teething, tribe of humanity is a quiet spot known as the Pi Beta Phi Dude Ranch, or Fresh Air Farm. Students who wish to get back to nature will find this place the answer to their prayers.

Nobody ever does anything here but sit on the good old davenports and be comfortable. Of course there are a few who get the wanderlust and come to the city, but they're in the minority. And after all you can't make a silk purse out of a horse blanket. We're all farmerettes at the Pi Beta Phi house, and pretty poor ones at that.

How would you like to be able to sleep all morning in the quiet atmosphere of the Dude Ranch? That's about all anybody does out here. We have good meals, except when guests come, and then we try to discourage them, because we like our privacy.

Just a jolly bunch of hermits, that's all we are, but we solicit your support. For that reason any persons who are satisfied with their present status in life should be interested in the Dude Ranch.

BOB BATES' RACCOON COAT HAS HAD PUPS

Announcement was made early this morning that a coat belonging to Bob Bates, gave birth to three small raccoon coats. Mr. Bates is distributing cigars to his various friends. The coat is reported to be doing nicely.

Willis King, student at the University and member of Wesley Club, was rudely awakened from his slumbers last night and taken to the old Moonlight Ranch where he was forced to drink gin at the hands of two desperate thugs who threatened him with an automatic, as is shown by the accompanying picture.

The motive of the crime is unknown; however, intoxication is strongly suspected.

Local police have started work on the case, and it is hoped that the young lad will soon be released by the desperadoes.

Further accounts of this tragedy will appear at a later date.

ABOUT THE

UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING

A farsighted policy has resulted in the development of this strong and effective educational institution, maintained by, and for, Wyoming. * Its growth has been rapid, but not too rapid for permanency. * Its faculty is learned but not too academic to have caught the spirit of western democracy and friendliness. * Its graduates are engaged in important undertakings throughout the world—in commerce, industry, science, and government. * Its cost to students is low and fees are minimum for residents of the state.

Wyoming young people cannot afford to neglect the opportunities for lifetime advancement offered by this, Wyoming's only institution of higher learning.

It is rumored that Prof. Coulter plans to contest the decision, claiming that his dog is much more intelligent. Being even smart enough to take a note out of the milk bottle telling the milkman to set the milk inside the door so as to be out of reach of the dog.

Cap't R. Dilger
Chosen R. O. T. C.
Head for 1932

Capt. Ray Dilger, noted army man, will head the local R. O. T. C. Unit for the ensuing year, according to latest reports from headquarters.

When interviewed in regard to the new position which he will hold, Dilger had little to say, only talking continuously for three hours. However, under the reign of Ray, merit badges will be awarded to those who learn the art of creating a vacuum early in the game, rather than merely raising the grade, as was formerly used. Too, letters for the rifle team will be fewer insofar as Mr. Dilger will request that the members will have to hit the proverbial male cow at least 15% of the time.

We predict a full and healthy year for the Unit under this new system.

All-Campus Team Selections Announced

SOUTH DOWNS NORTH

Moore and Ward Battle to Finish

Some time ago the best in the South, Rusty Moore, and the best in the North, Tom Ward, met. Then followed a contest to determine the champion. Says Rusty, six years ago we had the best football team in the South. I won every game for that team. Wait a minute, says Tom. Now back in my home town. Yeh, says Rusty, I went thru your home town two years ago. I study in pre-med and I'm goin back to Harvard for my degree. That's nothin, says Tom, Oh Yeh, says Rusty, That's no bull. Say listen, when I worked down here at that clothing store, I told that guy what I thought of him, then I quit, and then by gosh, the son-of-a-gun had the guts to give me a recommendation to my next employer. You know what I told him. Ah, I bet ya got fired, says Tom. Now back in my home town—No, says Rusty, that's straight goods. Say, I've got a book about frats I want you to read. Fraternities on this campus are a big graft. When I lived in Edgewater, says, Tom.—So the battle continued far into the night. However, after a hard-fought battle our Cheyenne Rusty was easily champion.

Simpson Is Chosen To Captain Squad

Selection Made By Ma and Min

Choosing the official honor imbibers of the campus out of a group of one hundred students and the other one thousand hangers-on is indeed a task worthy of a super-human, for there are many outstanding men who are deserving of places on this team but for one reason or another were eliminated. The writer wishes to acknowledge at this time the assistance of Ma, Min and Mike in evolving these selections.

For all-full there was one outstanding man. He was consistent and kept his head at all times. Bob Simpson, ladies and gentlemen, also given the place of captain.

For the half-full positions, Ned Frost and Harry Bridenstine are named. These boys are high scorers for the year with over 200 points apiece. They were splendid running-mates, assisting each other at all times.

For change we choose a quart-or-back-it-goes. Red Malleieu gets the call. He certainly knew the signals. For instance, two short and one long at—well, anyway, Red knows the signals.

For sender, (they won't go after it themselves) there were several good men showing up all season, but Paul Axtell gets the place for his consistent offensive breath.

The left and right gourds (a gourd holds more than a bottle) would be capably handled against any opposition by Carroll Lynn and Jack Wales.

Rod Guthrie, for his powerful showing on many fields, is elected to the boiled mackerel position. In our opinion, a better man for the pickled mackerel position could not be found than Judge Hudson.

At one end (five a. m.) is chosen Luke Harrigan. And the bitter end is given to Joe Porter.

The team as now lined up needs a coach who knows the game from beginning to end. EEW! (Nobody) Fuller is nominated, with the assistance of Dr. Hebard as trainer. The writer stakes his reputation that this team will hold their own against any in the country.

AND ACTIVITIES ON CAMPUS

Pi Omega Wins All-Year Trophy

To the Pi Omega's goes the honor of an all-year championship for the related sports of endurance rent-a-car parking (fall quarter), sofa-sitting (winter quarter), and porch-step waiting (spring quarter).

The championship award climaxes a season of hard training, bitter competition, and fist-to-hand fights. Sparring partners have been enlisted from the Delta Mu Alpha, S. A. E., Wesley Club, and A. T. O. groups.

The majority of the Pi Omega's modestly give the credit of their championship to their most active entrant, Doris Applegate, who nobly neglected classes, term papers, and exams for the cause. She will be awarded something, God knows what.

CONFESSTIONS OF A RENT-A-CAR

After a life of nine hectic months as a rent-a-car in a college town, I am discarded with scorn in a Denver wrecking house. In my disgrace, I write these confessions with the hope that they may serve as a warning to mothers about to send their boys out into the great wicked maelstrom that is college.

Last September, when I first arrived at school, I was run to exhaustion by women during rush week. I had to develop a sense of humor to keep from breaking down at some of the things I heard the women of each sorority say about all the others.

And then came dating—for the first three or four weeks, I noticed that most of the girls that upper-classmen took riding were freshmen, but after that they were usually the older, more experienced girls. Oh trusting mothers, don't let your little girls flit from the home nest without you—and never, never, let them ride in rent-a-cars.

During the winter quarter, I was used chiefly to take dates to and from dances. I loved the gorgeous clothes, and the delicate perfumes of the co-eds. Only I know the price of popularity—what is the secret of gay laughter and many dates and beautiful clothes. Truly, "Souls for Sables" is the motto of the co-ed. It is better to say "NO!" and sit at home in oblivion than sell one's soul for a ride in a rent-a-car.

But it was in the spring that it was revealed to me how flagrantly the laws of our great and broad country are flouted by the college crowd. With the warm weather came picnics, and though I hesitate to reveal it, shattering the illusions of thousands of parents, with the picnics came the Demon Beer. Many is the time I have seen some dainty co-ed, who should be at home in the shelter of her mother, staggering and shouting in a manner that would sicken the most hardened worldling. And instead of the fragrance of her father's corn field, or the wholesome odor of Grape-Nuts, that should surround a young girl, there is the stench of Liquor.

It is no wonder that my light of life has burned out in nine short months, just as the vital spark of those young people, foolishly throwing away their youth on dissipation, flares up and then dies, oh, so pitifully young. So I beg you, trusting parents, to think long before you let your nestlings, who are so anxious to be gone, from your loving care.

Fort Saunders To Be Saved By Doctor Hebard

Prof. Donates $30; Hope For More

Dr. Grace Raymond Hebard, collector of antiques and objects of interest, has donated $30 to historic old Ford Saunders, with the request that the Post publish a picture and a brief resume (pronounced either way) of the history of the old Fort. As Dr. Hebard is at any time likely to donate something to the Post, we are only too glad to please her.

The old Fort has been the scene of many hand-to-hand fights with Indians and college boys. Its rambling porches and swings harbor Secrets of history.

Due to the efforts of a campus organization, the old Fort has been cherished and preserved through the years. An interesting feature of the building is its many private doors and staircases, discovered by the members of the organization before they undertook its preservation.

(Around the corner at the right, hidden by deep shadows, is a pledge washing windows.)

The Fort is complete with fireplaces, radio, laundry-tubs, sign-out sheets, smoking-parlors, kitchenette, cook, hall rug, and morals.

FAMED LECTURER COMING HERE

A very noted lecturer will make his appearance on the campus some time in the near future. "Babe," as he is uncommonly known, will speak on how to build camp fires, tie knots, untie knots, make bandages, make this and make that, and other items of interest that can be taken out of any Boy Scout manual.

Too Late

By NAIDA COX

ALL was quiet. A small figure in starched white moved about the room, flashing shining implements as she placed them upon a side table with dexterous efficiency.

A tall man paced restlessly about the room, his hands thrust deep in his pockets. Often his glance fell upon the long white covered table, then roved anxiously towards the door.

"God, I wish the doctor would come!" he muttered half to himself. "He'll be too late."

The figure in white carefully laid a razor-edged knife on the table. She looked out of the white curtained window.

"I've given him all the time we can. Everything is ready." Her crisp business-like tone was startling in the silent room.

The tall man resumed his impatient pacing. Suddenly he started.

"There he is!"

A man hurried in, depositing a black surgical kit upon a chair.

"Hurry, doctor, there's no time to lose." The girl held out a large white apron.

With precise movements the doctor cleansed his hands with a thoroughness that brought the worried young man to his side.

"For the Lord's sake! Don't stand there washing your hands all day," he barked irritably.

The doctor approached the table and selected a knife.

TOO LATE

"God! I hate to do this," he muttered.

"But you must, Doctor, it's late now, and you know you said you wouldn't let anyone else do it."

Moments passed. The tall man wheeled away and looked from the window. The doctor's long slender hands moved deftly. The knife flashed. Always the white figure was at his elbow, ready to comply to his slightest wish, although her eyes were growing a trifle misty.

The tall man's eyes blurred, but the doctor worked steadily on, in spite of the fact that his eyes were also growing suspiciously dim.

Suddenly he turned away.

"God!" he said. "I can't go on! It's killing me!"

"But you must, Doctor," cried the girl. "There's so little time," and she blinked her eyes rapidly to free them from the ever-springing tears.

"Lord, yes!" the tall man whirled, exposing, unashamed, a pair of tear-filled eyes.

The doctor turned again to the table, and looked down. Then he wheeled abruptly and threw down the knife.

"I tell you, I can't go on. It's impossible! My eyes are failing me!"

"But, Doctor—" began the girl. A matronly woman hustled in.

"Here, give me the knife," she said with an air of finality. "That dressing will never be done if you don't hurry with those onions. I don't care if you did want to get your own Christmas dinner, I intend to serve it on time."
